AT NIAGARA CAMP.

We are prepared tohan came in from the field to night, where Brown, Wm Kellar. the Regiment underwent a minute inspection by the Hon. Col. Aylmer and his staff on foot as were the men. The men's hair and their general appearance as well as their rifles were taken into consideration. Capt. Snider received high praise for his company of good looking and even lot of men. Sergt R. Torry's appearance was quite striking and received commendation therefore. By the way Sergt Torry I hear took the highest score at the Morris tube ranges a total of 58 out of 80 possible. Col. Aylmer's words to Capt. Snider were "you have a fine lot of men here Capt., the best we have come to yet so far". The march was also good and received high praise from Major Campbell, as being "very good No 4, first class No 4" from my own observation at a point of vantage just after making a left form in column of companies a most difficult movement to make and keep straight, they were as perfect a line as could be. No. 5 was also good, the rest were in questionable shape. Sergt Torry's stalwart and soldierly appearance enabled Col. Aylmer to almost divine his long service of 24 yrs, in the militia and he asked him how long he had been in service.

The boys took a stroll over the Old Fort George and took to digging and found some really valuable relics or curious among them being 3 buttons, 2 of which bear the numbers 41, another one has 3 representations of cannons upon them. Capt. Snider secured a grape shot of about 11 inches diameter. A visit to the old barracks carries one back so pathetically to those stirring times, the tree at the corner of the grounds is shows where Gen. Brock was buried before being moved to Queensston Heights 40 yrs. after, The old Magazine is still intact, its immense thick arch still withstanding the ruthless hand of time, it impresses one with a melancholy interest. Capt. Snider and Sergt Torry have taken several snap shots of the many good yiews to be seen here. An inspection of the books took place this morning. I am always glad when I his is through with. Mine were pro-
