mustipoort.

estoria and ent off all ication will who surowell, are ing peacerode with the ride to rd Roberts ts of the the Presiuses have ilsh. Gen. order quite : tratificant he brignde been ordere admiral's iffer. The Can-along the section of ere Genertrouble. A on was ata superior nies from uit. The horses, but T. E. Pat-F. Morden were killte Berkshire s (Pincher tall. N. J rivates For W. M. H. Boers purrifle shot d. F. Waldy be shot or a good fight rse and killshot from tred not ates and the ma. Ewanthe Cana.

and Pte. d Pincher EWAR dors ie one who two Bells nigary, and ndge Erms Tablets. All fails to cure. m each box. in Detroit. treal to anne Day

y and High Peterboro', n Asphodle rier Knott. ped into a into the as drowned.

SPITE OF HIS BIRTH.

yself and child. I would gladly sad responsibility laid upon me, and doom my boy to orphanhood, and the cold char of of an indifferent world. How glad have been since that I did not, in my despair, thus rashly sin reward came; and, through the kindness and conscientiousness of the Rev. Dr. Harris, of Chicago, I now bold the papers to prove that I was made a legal wife. Ah! you can never realize how I exulted over the for I would have scorned to assert claim upon you; but because every shadow or dishonor was removed from me, and my dear boy. It made a new woman of me-it gave me life-renewed my youth-put strength, and hope and joy into my heart; and now the future looks very

But the man before her knew that spark of the affection which she might have once experienced for him, had

"But for you, Richard Heatherton" done me, and because it gives an honyonder pavement, which every day I you as a stranger-I will not recoghave nothing to do with you."

ful, and-Vera was illegitimate.

ed. with significant emphasis.

flushert.

fread beneath my feet."

"Miriam--"

burned to ashes in her heart.

bright for us both."

Bumed:

fact-not because I was your wife-to all forgiveness, for, at last, my

But my life was ruined-my heart | "I do not believe one drop of his broken, at least for the time; blood flows in your veins.' and a sob burst from her quiv-Richard Heatherton looked astonlips at this point—"I never ished at this reply, for he could not ed upon the faces of my parents doubt its sincerity. n. I-their idolized and only "Is it possible that you do not -had to flee from the sight of know?" he exclaimed. ry one whom I knew to hide my "Know what?" she ame. And they both died of grief less than three months. Then for ong years I tolled for the support of ave died, but I dared not take the life that was God-given, nor shirk the me, for your son?" her companion de- man, whom he had so ruthlessly dis- The beautiful Spanish maiden was Miss Helen M. Francis, 3 years and where they was sunshine in Every

CHAPTER XXXI

at her companion's communication. noring his contemptible insinuations old man should happen to die without regarding her motives, "No; I do not | making a will. -1 cannot believe it." "It is the truth; my mother's name, son," the man asserted, so positively you," he said, though a sense of the that she could no longer doubt the shamelessness of such a request dyed truthfulness of his statement Then it dawned upon her why Mr. Lawson had always been so kind to | tion!" Miriam repeated, with flashing her and Ned; why he had, from the eyes, "judging from the burden you no thought in connection with him served to brighten that future; he re-He had doubtless suspected, at the concluded, with scathing sarcasm. outset, that they were the wife | The man had never been so conscious alized, but too plainly, that every and child of his nephew, whom he of his own meanness and littleness as Something About the Sirens of the believed to be dead, and this, of at that moment, and he winced visibly course, had been proved to him when | under her satire. related her history to him.

figure to its full height, and rethat he had never told her of the dower as a wife?" fact, and acknowledged the relation--and, lifting one taper, rose-tipped finger, she pointed toward the door-

"you can go from here as stealthily as from her all these years? Did he ! you came in, for you have no part fear that she and Ned would take nor lot in my life, even though, in advantage of the fact to worm his the sight of the law you may be my legal husband. I glory in the fact only because of my triumph over suggested? The rich color mounted to the sen-you and the wrong you would have sitive woman's brow, at the bare thought of his suspecting her of orable name to my son; but you are no more to me than the stones of anything so ignoble.

" Never dare to address me like and have been playing your cards over him. that," she burst forth, before he could for his money." utter another word, while a vivid "I have not," Mirlam indignantly vindictively. scarlet flushed her face, "I am to after your own ignoble standard." | ly returned.

of whom any father might feel proud, marriage was legal, why, we must of all strength.

Ah! this was the keenest sting of pectations." been scarcely less beautiful, who had haughty during his speech. Her love- city where crime and personal violence and down the steps with ease. blight, for all time, the life of his of fire; her lips curled with contempt | ity.

both heart and brain-if his marriage before her. cut down and laid low his dearest, his your baseness-your true character to move her to either love or late. to me, and every atom of my love for 'Let bygones be bygones'? Yes, Oh! it did not seem possible that in | that is just what I wish to doone moment of time the world and life | what I have done? All sentiment recould be so bereft of light and hope. garding you has been so thoroughly At! could Miriam have suffered as eradicated from my nature that you he row suffered, when he smote her are to me as if you never had existed. down with that one word to which I ignore, I repudiate you utterly : I she had referred a little while ago, | would never have even acknowledged when he had twitted her in his anger | the legality of our marriage, much with the stigma which would rest less attempted to prove it, but that apon her child when she should give it my boy might be able to claim that he was of honorable birth." Those were "wild oats," indeed, It was not pleasant to her companwhich he must now gather into his | ion to be obliged to stand there and own garner: the opprobrious epithets listen to such scathing words, and he had thrown at Miriam, years ago, they cut him like a two-edged sword. instead of branding his intended victim | No man can patiently endure the with shame, had rebounded to dishonor | disdain and repudiation of the woman her who was dearer to him than his over whom he has once held unbounded sway, and Richard Heatherton's arheritance, and thus descend eventually duties and in looking forward to a future. the dust before they should usurp | and you must come here to visit him, | misdeeds. his rights; he would gain his ends I suppose I shall be obliged to meet you But, even after reaching England he by strategy if he could-by violence, as I would meet any other stranger | was haunted by a sense of insecurity, who might be a relative of his. If and so resolved to ship for Australia, Miss Cholmondley's "Red Pottage" are suffering from the modern malady remedial and restorative value of Dr. "How came you here in Boston, you are his legal heir, and expect to where, he felt sure, no one connected continues to be the novelistic sensaand in Benjamin Lawson's house | inherit his fortune, that is nothing to | with his former life would ever be | tion in Engiand, while In America it | From the working girl, worn out | increases weight, rounds out the hold?" he demanded, when he could me-I have never had a thought of able to find him. command himself sufficiently to receiving anything more from him While on his way to this country Tis a strange mixture of genius and counter, by close confinement in ill- the cheeks It is not a stimulant nor speak, and ignoring Mirlam's last than the amount which he pays me the man who shared his stateroom ignorance. Its plot is original. So, all ventilated rooms, by the nerve-rack- opiate, but a blood-forming, bodymonthly, for earing for his home, and | was taken suddenly ill and died, as he | too frequently, is its grammar. The | ing hum of machinery, or by toil too | building restorative of unapproach-"That is a question which does in return for which I try to make had related to his uncle, and, resolv- very first line in the book includes arduous for her delicate body to with-; able worth.

"Yes; I know that he is an hon- again." orable gentleman." Miriam respond- "Then I understand that you have at sea. no desire to acknowledge the tie that | This he could the more easily do, Sterne, not Swift, originated the fam- endure. Her companion winced visibly, and exists between us," the disconcerted since both had been seasick from the ous fable of the starling who couldn't From nerve and brain exhaustion, everywhere. Edmanson, Bates & Coa man remarked, while he wondered at, hour of starting, and, having been get out. Perhaps the "Sentimental headache and nervous dyspensia, sleep- Toronto, "I mean what his relationship is and was unaccountably irritated by confined to their stateroom, no one Journey" is not read much nowa- lessness, irritability and nervousness, There are imitators of Dr. A. W.

years ago-that is a fact which I am from his sorrow; therefore no invery particular about having established; but, as for ever recognizing there was no fear that the deception you as my husband-no; a thousand would ever be discovered

"How about a divorce, then?" ventured to suggest. Miriam's crimson lips curled with urepressible scorn.

The man flushed. She was very lovely, standing there, so cool and self- of Heath. possessed; so satisfied with her pretheir relations in the past, and his old | wealth. passion for her was suddenly re- The mother was an invalid, and We understand its ticks. "That he is my uncle-my mother's shield her from the knowledge that he for his living, and who found it diffionly brother ?-do you pretend you had had another wife living at the cuit to support his expensive tastes never suspected this, and have not time of his marriage to her mother, upon his modest salary, resolved that For papa comes at six wormed yourself into his confidence he felt that he would leave no stone he would win the girl and the fortune, and good graces, in the hope of secur- unturned to win back the sweet con- which in the course of a few months ing the fortune which should come to fidence and affection of this fair wo- must be hers.

this moment," she icily returned.

But, since there could be no hope Miriam Heatherton looked amazed of this, he resolved to manage some way to secure himself and prevent "Benjamin Lawson your uncle-your her from ever making him any trouble mother's brother ?" she exclaimed, ig- regarding her uncle's property, if the

"Then, perhaps, you will sign a paper releasing me from all future before her marriage, was Rachel Law- responsibility or obligation toward his face crimson for the moment. " All future responsibility or obliga-

very first of their acquaintance with | have borne in the past, in those rehim, shown so much tender interest spects, such a document would, no doubt, be very valuable to you," she

Why had he concealed the truth which he knew was gleaming in her packing houses are compelled to have girl, properly tagged, and her fa-fortune from him, as had just been that would not secure you against room. Such a steer is called "Judas the claims of your son." He knew it but too well, and it become famous for their intelligence. made him realize Vera's terrible sit. But there generally comes a time as he had not experienced. "Yes. it is a fact," Richard Heath- This was followed by a blaze of an. selves are led to the slaughter. erton continued, "and, in spite of ger and defiance, accompanied by a line one of the packing houses in Kanyour pretensions to the contrary, I desire for revenge upon Miriam be. sas City, in which a great many believe you have known it all along, cause of the victory she had achieved sheep are slaughtered, a goat is em-returned. "I never dreamed of such | "Regrets in connection with you long distance from the yards to the The girls of ancient Hindustan had didn't seem to make the man undernize you as anothing else; I will a thing; you are only judging me have long since ceased," she composed house, through streets, over a river livery dolls, and in Greece even jointed stand it enny better Than he did

Richard Heatherton thought he "But I am his legal heir," the "Bo not be too sure," he retorted; through lanes. Without an animal to The girls of the middle ages had not | Maw pulled at one foot and I cot had never seen her so beautiful as she man went on-" his only dolls which must have been the hold of the Other, but we couldn't was at that moment-not even in to my mother, and, eventually I wounding you and making you feel my get a large flock of sheep home safely favorite playthings, if we can judge budge paw, so after while the man her youthful days, while as he gazed shall inherit all that he has. Now, power. Look out for yourself. Miriam and expeditiously.

her presence, a regret for what might me as a foe. and try to man turned abruptly and left the a $5,000 a year clerk could not do half were found under the Nuremberg pave. Them. The pupp had a Holt of paw's have been, if he had done what was ruin my prespects with my room and the house, while Miriam so well, if at all. The sheep follow ment in 1859. These dolls date from Cote coller and wouldn't let go Beright and honorable, smote him pain. uncle. Let by gones be by sank upon a chair with both hands | Willis with implicit confidence, and the fourteenth century. The hole in coz he was a Bull Dawg, and the fully-a sense of remorse for the gones. I know that I used you mean- pressed over her startled heart, a he leads hundreds of them to their one of them is for the reception of the man says: wrong he had done her, and the son ly years ago; but if, as you say, that terrible fear suddenly depriving her doom every day. When the sheep reparable injury which must in con- and I will agree to make a comfort- her feel his cruel power through Ned! The yards are divided into pens by age (not middle aged) girl. sequence fell upon the darling of his able provision for you and the boy, he could indeed crush her to the fences. On top of each fence is a The children of those times were not and poured it on Paw and got a heart-his bright, beautiful, idolized for the future; that is, if you will earth if he should dare to injure her footboard, along with the buyer, exacting. Colored eggs, painted wood- Little on the pupp, too, and pritty agree not to interfere with my ex- boy in any way, and for a time she walks inspecting the animals that he en birds, baldders filled with peas, lit- soon paw Got up and says: all-that his sin against one who had | But Miriam had grown cold and | Then she reasoned that she was in a fences with the buyer and climbs up | earthen animal figures were thank | The man handed paw a Towell lovely child; for the wretched specimen of a man Ned was a man now, too, and cap- Willie follows the boy; the sheep fol seventeenth century bewails the de- of corse I spese it's all rite, but able of looking out for himself person- low Willie. The sheep could not be in- struction of pockets by the last named. if you Have time now I wush you'd with Miriam Wallingford had been "Be sensible!" she repeated. "I ally; while, as far as principles were duced to follow the boy unless Willie The older toys went fowling with low | tell me what all this means," legal, the tie which had bound him to ought to have expected such an ad- concerned, he was thoroughly good was there. that other woman had not been law- monition from you, perhaps, since I and pure, and she felt sure no one Occasionally Willie gets tired of be-oats" he had so boasted of having suffering and remorse they might be realized how literally true her words simply takes a big hickory club and hobbled up to her, in spite of the sown in his youth, and the relentless spared! But I came to myself-my to Richard Heatherton had been, how maltreats him, and in a few minutes heavy load on its back, and held up else. scythe had fallen where he had never eyes were opened by your heartless- utterly indifferent she was to him- one would think Willie had the dispo- the hoof that it had hardly been able thought it possible-it had ruthlessly ness on that day when you revealed how completely he had lost all power sition of an angel. These thoughts drove him to the you was burned out of my heart. to ashes, and nothing could ever re- change by the use of Miller's Compound On looking at the hoof Lady Burton pupp along or we mitent of Got in

As for the man himself, he went out of Benjamin Lawson's house wrought been made to realize instead, that he in my paper.

sown twenty years ago. He had more reason for fleeing from the country than was generally supposed when he had disappeared so suddenly after leaving college. Not only did he fear trouble from the proud A But Vera should never know-no nothing to me," she resumed, after a daughter had been wronged had sent such grief must ever dim the light of moment: "you never can be anything him word that he "would shoot him her beautiful eyes, or mar the bright- to me. I have so risen above you and like a dog if he should ever lay eyes ever I think it will do any good. here in Benjamin Lawson's home, tri- perhaps, how utterly indifferent I am | it and the enormous debts he had patent-medicine advertisements: umphing over him, and perhaps wheed- to you when I tell you that I am contracted during his college days, "'What is Cohen going to do about ling the old man out of the fortune living happily in the present; I enjoy | hotly denounced him, refused to pay | it?' which he had so confidently expected life-every day is full of sunshine and his bills and ordered him to go to "The next day so many people an-

"Perhaps it does concern me more Your insinuation that I have been determined to destroy his identity by is it: ly. "I suppose you know who-what too contemptible to be refuted. Now ing all on board to believe that it was starling."

yet with a slight start of surprise; made your legal wife some twenty lost his family, and was trying to flee serves."

quiries would be made for him, and Having thus blotted himself out of existence, so to speak, he was prepared to begin a new life in the country whither he was going.

Being a good accountant, he readily "I could never be more completefound employment when he arrived in | And when one knows just how it ly divorced from you than I am at Sydney; and remained in the service of one firm for the next three or four years, and to whom he gave the name sent independent position; so supreme- taldi, a beautiful Spanish girl, and newed. But for Vera and his desire to Richard, who was not fond of toiling manded, with a skeptical sneer upon carded, and whom any man might as lovely in character as in person. 8 months, reccently of New York, room. After we Rung the Door bell have been proud to acknowledge as and, believing her handsome lover to but now of Stroud. O. T. All alone, neerly Half a nour they was a hired be all that he represented himself, she save for friends made on the jour- girl Come to the Door and Told us we gave her heart unreservedly to the ney, she travelled from New York Couldn't get In becoz the lady wasn't > young man, and willingly gave her of her safe arrival. she should thus have her darling happy in the care and protection of a noble and devoted husband.

Accordingly they were married by the woman's dying bed, and three her daughter corrowing, but not inconsolable, over her loss, for, out of idolized her husband, and all other emotions were absorbed in this. (To be Continued.)

ANIMALS AS DECOYS.

Packing Houses of Kansas.

"Yes," he answered, with averted packing house mon, and they are valface-he could not meet the fine scorn able adjacets to the business. All them. A steer is trained to lead the ther were at the station. Miss Hel-"I shall never do that, Richard animals out of the pens through the Heatherton," she returned, with em- long overhead bridges into the pack- was placed under the care of Conphatic decision; "and even if I should ing house and down into the killing ductor E. J. O'Donnell, and was as-Iscarlot' usually. Some of them have uation with a feeling of despair such when they grow unruly or careless ployed to entice sheep from the stock killing pans in the house. It is a mummies in Egypt.

about the beautiful room, which | Mirinm," he continued, in a concil- | Wallingford, and look out for the boy | The goat's name is Willie, and he is also dolls' houses and dolls' wagons. | and pushed it Over to the other side everywhere showed traces of her care latery tone. "be reasonable and sen- of whom you are so boastful." the cleverest beast of his kind. He A number of earthen dolls repre- of the room. That left paw and the and taste, and realized the charm of sible-don't set yourself up against | With this vindictive warning the cost less than $2, but does work that senting babies and armored knights pupp out where we Could get at buyer goes about the stock yards and, more than all else, for the ir- try to come to some amicable terms, Ah, yes, she thought, he middle give up." Ah, yes, she thought, he middle give up." was distressed by a thousand fears. desires to buy. Willie walks the tle "practicable" windmills and "Gimme a Town!! " been equally pure and innocent, must be ears and Eyes and kicked the papp boy opens the gate and leads the way. windmills and marbles. A verse of the down stairs. Then the man says:

so idiotically allowed myself, years | could have power to corrupt him. | mg good, and when he is maughty he Surely, what his uncle had only that ago, to be persuaded by you into a It had been but an idle threat, ut- is very like "the little girl who had morning said to him was being veri- secret engagement and clandestine tered under the impulse of anger, she a little curl," and then he is horrid Lady Burton, a famous English wofied in the most unexpected and crush- marriage. Oh! if young girls could told herself, and she would and that is bad for the sheep business. man, who has made a great many long ing manner-he was indeed "reaping only realize the doom that is sure to herself to be disturbed by it. When this occurs Willie is not coaxed journeys, was once travelling in Syria an abundant harvest" for the "wild follow such a reckless act how much | As she grew more composed, she or pampered in the least. His master | when a mule which was in great pain

Her love for him had indeed burned | That weak, tired condition will soon also of hope that she might cure it. Iron 14ffs. 50 doses 25 cents.

He Was Convinced.

up to the highest pitch of excitement. "Once, when I was publishing a lowed her about like a big dog. He had expected to browbeat the paper in Scattle, I convinced a man woman whom he had wronged into in the most emphatic way that it paid abject submission to his wishes, to advertise, said an old journalist. as he was wont to do years "He was a fairly prosperous mer- knowledge to contradict it, observes you ask." ago in his youth. But he had chant, and I had tried for a long time Youth's Companion, it is natural to acfailed most miserably, and he had to get him to insert an advertisement | cept the evidence of the eye. Therfore life and peace-that he had begun, never read the advertisements in a dren was not altogether surprising. from the "wild oats" which he had in advertising but it a was not artogether surprising. in advertising, but in a way that will "England or the moon " force itself upon the public. Then it "England!" the children answered pays. But in a newspaper-pshaw! quickly Everybody who reads a newspaper "England?" she questioned, "What Discordant notes are often protested, dodges the advertising pages as if they

"'Of course I will. I advertise wher But it galled him terribly to think I am not even moved to hate you, as | uncle had received an inkling of the line stuck in the most obscure corner of Miriam Wallingford and her boy, some women would do. You can judge, story, and, becoming enraged over of the paper, between a couple of would come into his possession, by in- content in the performance of my work and take care of himself in the noved him by asking what that meant I that he begged me to explain the matpromising future for my dear boy. With his cowardly heart full of ter in my next issue. I promised to He resolved that they should never Never come near me again, Richard fear and hatred, he had recklessly do so if he would let me write the succeed, if such was their aim; he Heatherton-never speak to me, boarded the first steamer bound for explanation, and stand by it. He would overthrow them by some never remind me of the past. If, as you | Europe and put the ocean between agreed; and I wrote, 'He is going to means; he would trample them in say, you are Mr. Lawson's nephew, himself and the consequence of his advertise, of course. And he did."- ary coaditions, the attention paid to great restorative of exhausted nerves New York Herald.

A Blundering Genius.

go; I never wish to see your face Richard Heatherton, of New York, Now, a very ordinary acquaintance ishment of the blood and nerves, all commend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to U. S. A., who had died when two days with English literature would have alike suffer from nervous disorders and their patients as the greatest system informed Miss Cholmondeley that irregularities which make life hard to builder and revitalizer that can pos-

THE LITTLE CLOCK. Our little clock, mama's and mine, High on her mantel dwells.

Such pleasant things it tells.

Thus when it points for tea at four During this time he met Anita Cas- It says to us, "Just two hours more!" ly indifferent to his existence, and the only child of a widow of great Gladly at five it chimes this song-"One hour is not so very long."

> Then, settling in the window seat, We hark for footsteps on the street.

A YOUNG TRAVELLER. The youngest parlor car tourist is about a House she saw the Day before to "gran'ma's" home in Stroad, at home Anita's mother shared her daugh- which is henceforth to be her home. "When'll she be Here?" paw ast. ter's belief in the moral worth of the Word was received a few days ago | The girl said she Didn't no, and paw en's mother died a few months ago. I didn't want to Say ennything about ther decided that she would be much was Bad manners to interrupt when better off with her grandmother, Grown people are Tawken. In about weeks later she passed away, leaving But he could not accompany her on a Minute and a Half we heard a the fervor of her Spanish nature, she tion before H. B. McClellan, general with the Baby in her arms, but not eastern agent of a big railroad. | Becog she Wanted to show us the sun-"Why." said Mr. McClellan, "we shine in Every room. mother as sning as a bug in a rug. here," she says, and me and paw went He then wrote on a tag: "My name reason. Maw and the Lady went in a is Helen M. Francis. I am going to Back Room and Waited and paw ran James Lockhart, Stroud, O. T., via in Whare the pupp was and started to the big packing houses out west she had confessed who she was, and before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and started to her before she drew her slight, graceful she had confessed who she was, and she had confessed who am to understand by that that you emp oy decoy animals to lead their On the reverse side of the tag Mr. the bed and Backed up in the corner But she thought t very strange wish me to sign away my right of brethren to the slaughter. These McClellan wrote: "Will the conduct Whare he Could think about it withanimals are called "sirens" by the tors and general travelling public out getting his thots upset. Paw nelt kindly show attention?"

en, with a small bag of clothing, signed to her berth. The passengers crowded about her and soon she was a bit of a heroine. That afternoon she was photoor their powers fail, and they them- graphed at Kingston. At night the Came up Stares without asten enny women tucked her away in her the journey of 2,000 miles.

EGYPTIAN DOLLS.

"You shall regret this!" he cried, yards where they are brought to the Dolls were buried with children's not. Then maw came running in and

and a railroad yard by bridge, and dolls were sold in the market place, before, from the allusions of the poets, but we were visitum took hold of the Bed

> "pathenpfennig," or godparents' gift. | "Water'll make him quit. That's The boy doll, generally mounted, the only way to make a Buil dawg

> . and paw wiped the Water out of his

A WISE MULE. to use, with a look on its face that and on the Way home I says to spoke plainly, not only of agony, but | maw found it pierced with a two-inch nail, which she pulled out at once, and from that time on the grateful animal fol-

GOING BY THE EYE. had been the destroyer of his own "Oh, it's no use!" he would say. 'I received from her class of small chil- Sea?"—Household Words.

got To talken about the House, and consent to their union, feeling that Her father is William Francis, a they Didn't see the pupp when he railroad official of New York. Hel- Scooted past the girl and got inside. She was the only child, and her fa. it Becoz paw told me once that it Scream up stares and pritty soon In his dilemma he laid the situa. the Lady of the House Came down makes you think that ?"

of the brightest of the class.

"Cause we can see the moon, and we can't see England," answered one

GEORGIE TELLS

How His Paw Surprised the Man of the House.

Paw and Maw were Hunten houses nearly all Last weak and they are a look in paw's Eyes that makes You think he expects comething mate Happen almost Enny time before he could notus it. I went along a Fue times becoz Aunt Grace sed she would stay with little albert and the baby, but she told us she wouldn't have the pupp around Becoz she didn't Beleave he was to be Trusted Enny more Than a thursty poleasman in the Kitchen when they were things to Drink in the Ice box. So last Thursday me and the pupp went along Becoz paw got home erly in the Afternoon. Maw told paw will see Helen through to her grand. "Take that turrable Dawg out of and as fast as the trains will run." up to see if the pupp would Lissen to down on his nees and Elbows and tried On the following night the little to coax the pupp out, but it wasn't enny use. The pupp humped up in the Corner and Looked distrustful. Then paw crep under the Bed so only His Laigs stuck out, and was agoing to Drag the pupp Out by the throte. In about a half a Second after that paw was hollering for help and the pupp was making quite a Fuss, too. The man that lived Thare got home while the trubble was Going on and questions. When he Saw paw's Feat herd the Racket he didn't seem to no whether he better Stay and Try to find Out what was going on or Grabbed paw by one laig but that .

So he got a pitcher Full of water

"We herd you had sunshine in Every room here," maw told him, "and we that We'd come to see About it." "Well," the man says, "if I was looken for sunshine I don't think I'd hunt under the Bed for it till I was pritty sure it Couldn't be ennywhere Paw refewsed to argew about it,

"It's a good thing We took the gie. in Chicago Times-Herald.

WHY DON'T THEY? "Pa," said Tommy Treadway. "Now, Tommy," replied Mr. Treadway, "I shall answer only one ques-Unless one has some other sort of tion to-day. So be careful what

> "Well, go on." "Why, don't they bury the Dead

Mr. Kremlin himself was distinguished for ignorance, for he had only one idea, and that was wrong .-Benjamin Disraeli.

A tempest of wrath, and grief, and shame, raged within him, as these thoughts surged through his brain. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Thoughts surged through his brain. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Thoughts surged through his brain. Togant nature was galled by the sting-fing words of his injured wife. Thoughts surged through his brain.

the wrongs you have done me, that upon him." Then his own father and "The next day I had the following Has Nineteenth Century Life Lowered their Vitality and Wasted their Nerve Power?-The Remarkable Restorative Power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

> boast the health, vitality and bodily present day is productive of nervous vigor of her grandmother? In spite of | troubles, which cause pain, misery and pure food and the wonderful advance and wornout bodies-Dr. Chase's Nerve of medical science, the fact remains | Fool. that the majority of women and girls! There is no stronger proof of the not concern you," she coldly replied. it as pleasant as possible for him. ing to make assurance doubly sure, he an outrageous literary blunder. Here | stand, to the lady of education, refinement and social standing, whose nerve | edged by physicians to be wonderfully than you realize," he returned, hot playing my cards for his fortune is personating the dead man, and allow- "I can't get out," said Swift's power is exhausted by late hours, loss effective as a blood builder and allowof sleep, and foods not suited for nour- restorative. Hundreds of doctors re-

What girl or woman of to-day can | civilization, and while the life of the the remarkable improvement in sanit | death, there is hope for all in the

Chase's Nerve Food than in that it is pressing the local favorites hard. by standing long hours behind the wasted form, and returns the color to sibly be obtained; 50 cents a box, sold me," he said.

"His relationship to you!" repeat—and Miriam, with a scornful inflection, with a scornful inflection in the scornful inflect