THE GREAT CONTEST.

POLLING NOV. 7.

Parliament has been dissolved, and no man in Canada can write "M. P." to his name.

Nominations take place on Oct. 31, Polling one week later. Both Wednesdays.

So the campaign will be short and sharp. Good work has already been done on all sides, and the verdict of the nation will again be taken.

It is not safe to prophecy until after the election, but surely there never was a greater certainty that the Liberals will be returned to power than at this time when the diverse methods of their opponents tells of total inability to fix on anything dignified or definite with which to charge the Ministry.

MILLINERY.

Last week we paid our compliments to the fine display in Ireland & Co's and Miss Culbertson's establishments. This week we have reference to make to the extensive display made by S. F. Morlock who is now in his own building.

Here there was an elegant display of reasonable millinery. Amongst the many we note a few. First was a draped toque of green mirrored velvet, grebe trimmed, fancy pins and cluny lace.

Another was a double brim of pastel green velvet, faced with pastel mirrored velvet in a pink shade, tan crown draped with sequin; two large ostrich plumes, fancy pins and 6 inch buckle; draped with black tulle.

A little fancy mink toque was trimmed with pastel green rep. silk fancy brilliant buckle, chiffon lace, with ospreys springing from the puff in front, brown taffeta silk bow at the back.

Very striking was a large black silk Gainsboro hat, faced with white satin, black velvet folds running running parallel round the under brim make a pretty finish on the white satin. The top is draped softly with heavy duchess satin, large jet buckles in front. Following the taste of the season there are 3 large feathers, two white and one black, the latter under on sideband and falling on the hair behind.

A child's brownie bonnet of red velvet trimmed with white fur, with sash silk and lace was pretty. It had long ties of white sash silk.

These were a few in a large stock and in many styles: turban, double brim, sailor, &c. The hollyhock hat, mother Goose crown, and fan brim, should be seen if not sold, the fate of a good many others.
