Holstein.

A few days ago the report having got spread abroad that two of our citizens had shot a deer without first having procured a license from the proper authority. The report having come to the ears of the fish and game warden he was determined to have the guilty parties punished and called upon one of the supposed guilty parties before taking legal proceedings, but thinking wise to get all the information he could, interviewed several in the village regarding the matter, but before the gentleman left the village he learned that it was not a deer, but an old mare, the property of one of our most respected citizens which had become too old to be of any use and rather than sell or give her away to be abused he gave these men authority to kill her, which we believe to be the best thing to have done.

Mrs James Sills and two children who have been visiting her parents Mr and Mrs Ora Penock for the past six weeks, returned to her home at Bay City, Mich. on Saturday.

Mrs P Brown, who fell on the sidewalk a few days ago and received quite a shaking up, has been very ill, but under the care of Dr Brown we hope to here of her speedy recovery.

One of our most respected young men Mr Adam Valtz is this week taking unto himself a wife, in the person of Tena Seaberg, a very highly esteemed young lady of Neustad. Mr and Mrs Valtz have a house nicely furnished in the village where they intend to live. We join in wishing them long life and prosperity.

A R W Barrows, of Glanworth, is at present visiting his parents Mr and Mrs Robert Barrows.

POMONA

Well Mr Ed, as your former correspondent has not represented us for some time so we have decided to send a few items.

The late heavy snow has all disappeared and ploughing is again the order of the day.

Mr John Morrison held an extensive auction sale on Friday last when he disposed of his stock at a good figure.

Mr Fred Wurts of Proton Station was in this vicinity one day last week dehorning cattle.

Miss Kate Black of the Crown Hotel Pricville, spent Sunday at the parental home.

During the severe wind storm which passed over this district last Wednesday the roof of Mr Godfrey McTaggart's barn was slightly damaged, but owing to the timely assistance of a friend it was secured, W H can give the particulars.

Mr Sandy Black says he's not going back to the Glencross bridge as there is plenty of attraction around the Purdy bridge. Better have your supper next time you go S. as there is no lunch on these cold nights.

The youths and beauty of Pomona were entertained by Miss A Morrison one night last week and spent a few pleasant hours keeping time to the timely strains of the Violin in the hands of Mr H Arrowsmith.

Mr Frank Shepard of Paris, moved up with his family on to Mr Thos Niel's farm. We welcome Mr and Mrs Shepard in our midst.

Mr Joseph Neil spent a week with friends at Ceylon.

What we would like to know—If A F can find the side-walk on dark nights?

Who helped Jim to break the window pane?

If the two Joe's that went up the hill together one night, came down together?

When will Duncan go to the south line, again?

Pricville.

Intended for last week.

During the last week we had abundance of snow but on Sunday the wheels of the weather was reversed by having rain all day and the night previous with cold rain again on Monday morning.

Very few out in our churches last Sunday on account of the rain and bad roads, it was a good test of a person's christianity to see whether they would face the inclement weather or stay at home. However we cannot say anything for we were not there ourselves.

The Rev. Mr. Matheson attend Presbyterian meeting at Shelburne on Tuesday of last week.

Messrs Len and Ross Wallace of Woodbridge, the latter a son of Hon. Clark Wallace, were on a hunting tour in the locality of Pricville and were the guests of Mr C C James of this town, while here. We do not know the extent of their success in getting game but it would seem up some where between 0 and a thousand Rabbits. The young gentleman felt leathie of facing homewards in day time for fear of their luck being too conspicuously made known on arrival to Woodbridge however we welcome the young men back again any time they feel like having pot luck at hunting.

Miss Christina McDonald South Line Glenside, left for Toronto last week where she intends to spend the winter months.

The majority of the young men in the neighborhood intend leaving for the woods in the neighboring township, in a few days making timber and suchlike.

Our saw mill commenced running again on Monday of this week, managed by Dan Campbell and Dugald McDougall. Mr McCraie who had the mill rented last year, his time was up on Oct. 1st, consequently he has to pay extra to the proprietor R. McGowan for sawing the balance of logs from last spring.

Dr Hutton visits us two days a week, showing that he has not forsaken us altogether yet.

We have to thank Mr and Mrs Hugh McLean of Highfield Mountain, for a fine photograph of their only son, a fine boy of nearly three years old. Mr McLean gets the Review regularly and always appreciates the news from their old home in this part of the county.

Our new chopper is running now at full speed and has the capabilities of chopping from 100 to 200 bags a day. Thanks be to the proprietor Colin McLean for adding to the convenience of the farming community in this locality by running such an undertaking.

Mr Thos Nichol moved his dwelling house near his new barn a couple of weeks ago and will have everything conveniently together.

As we were going up to Ceylon Station the other morning we saw a woman, apparently a specimen of a human being, out on her bare feet in the snow as comfortable looking as if out cooling herself on a sultry July morning.

Mr Wm. Burnet who had Mr McGill's farm rented for the last few years is leaving having bought a farm of his own down the Toronto Line somewhere.

As we were promising to give something in this weeks paper, in the matrimonial line, we do so now for our subject is none other than Mr Malcolm McLune, youngest son of Mr Allan McLune D. Road Glenoid, united in marriage at Toronto on Wednesday the 14th inst. to Miss McCookery, daughter of the late Mr Francis McCookery near Rob Roy Glenoid. The young couple were welcomed by a number of friends meeting them at Ceylon Station on the evening train and accompanying Mr and Mrs McLune to their home where they spent a pleasant evening together. The tokens and esteem presents to the young couple were costly and numerous, we heartily join the many friends of the young couple in wishing them a long and pleasant voyage in life together.

On Sunday last during service in the Presbyterian church Andy Kelly (well digger) made a little disturbance by having a lecture of his own going on in the far end of the church. Of course it wasn't poor Andy's fault but the powers set at motion within him by indulging previous to his coming to church, in his usual dram. The good preacher went on in his usual manner heedless of poor Andrew's self conversation during service. It is a pity that those whose business it is to sell liquor could not refrain from getting such men as our subject drunk, especially on Sundays or late Saturday night.

The sheds at the Presbyterian church were used for the first time on Sunday last and afforded much comfort to the brute worshippers who will find a great change from being tied to McAlley's fence, as generally the case has been in the past.

John Mather sold a horse recently, at a good figure and was shipped up to Walter McAlley of the Soo, by his brother-in-law Mr John Burnett.

On Sunday last again we had a little covering of snow but hardly enough for sleighing.

Quite a number took advantage of last week in finishing their turnips although not at all favorably.

The Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo from May 1 to Nov 1, 1901, is being extensively written up and prepared for. It promises to surpass all former enterprises in Electric Lighting effects in site, in architectural features and in its purpose to celebrate the achievements of the Western Hemisphere for the past 100 years. Buffalo in 1901 will be an attractive place.
