GREEN OR BLACK.

Trade is confederating the Empire. Britain is Canada's best Customer. Britain cannot buy if she does not sell.

Use TEA Grown in a British Colony by British capital.

A 11 Ceylon Teas are sold in sealed lead packets only, never in Black, Mixed or Uncolored Ceylon Green. Samples on application. Address "SALADA," Toronto.

A PLOT FOR EMPIRE.

A THRILLING STORY OF CONTINENTAL CONSPIRACY AGAINST BRITAIN.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A Midnight Visitor.

" Wolf! Wolf!" early morning hours was a thing ab- of the broad oak stairway, Wolfenden solutely impossible, was lounging in his | caught a glimpse of his father's face, easy chair meditating on the events | and shuddered; it was very white, and of the day over a final cigarette. He his eyes were bloodshot and wild, his dawn. No trace whatever of the had come to his room at midnight in forefinger was already upon the trig- mauraders had been discovered either rather a dejected frame of mind; the ger of his revolver. day's happenings had scarcely gone in "Let me have that," Wolfenden difficulty the Earl had been perhis favor. Helene had looked upon him whispered, touching it; "my hand is suaded to relinquish his smoking recoldly-almost with suspicion. In the morning he would be able to explain everything, but in the meantime Blanche was upon the spot, and he had an uneasy feeling that the girl was his enemy. He had begun to doubt whether that drive, so natural a thing as it really happened, was not carefully planned on her part, with a full knowledge of the fact that they would meet Mr. Sabin and his niece. It was all the more irritating because during the last few days he had been gradually growing into the belief that so far as his suit with Helene was concerned, the girl herself was not altogether indifferent to him. She had refused him definitely enough, so far as mere words went, but there were lights in her soft, dark eyes, and something indefinable, but apparent in her manner, which had forbidden him to abandon all hope. Yet it was hard to believe that she was in any way subject to the will of her guardian, Mr. Sabin. In small things she took no pains to study him; she was evidently not in the least under his dominion. On the contrary, there was In his manner towards her a certain deference, as though it was she whose , will was the ruling one between them. As a matter of fact, her appearance and whole bearing seemed to indicate one accustomed to command. Her femily or connections she had never spoken of to him, yet he had not the Blightest doubt but that she was of gentle birth. Even if it should turn out that this was not the case, Wolfenden was democratic enough to think that it made no difference. She that the man, whoever he might be, the heart is young and life is a in fact, to pass for a very good was good enough to be his wife. Her had not been hit. The sound of the full and generous thing; in the boy. For a moment your perplexiappearance and manners were almost report was followed by a few seconds' days of romance, when adventures ties increase. Your friend's mother typically aristo rati - whatever there | breathless silence. There was no move | and love-making come as a natural has dropped her handkerchief. She is might be in her present surroundings | ment of any sort in the room; only a heritage and form part of the order not aware of it. But you have seen or in her past which savored of mys faint breeze stealing in through the of things, then the words which the it drop. What are you to do? Are tery, he would at least have staked | wide-open windows, caused a gentle woman had to say would have come you to pick it up and give it to his soul upon her honesty. He realized rustling of the papers with which the lightly enough from her lips, less per- her? Is that the proper thing to in the early hours of the morning. | swayed gently backwards and for apologetic narration. But in the days is so different here, and, at last, you that she was no passing fancy of his; wards. The admiral, with his senses when youth lies far behind, when its make up your mind to pick up the for evil she would be his last. Failure, revolver tense in his hand, his flercely but the bare incidents remain, unbeau- wardly that your friend's mother, he would not admit in his vocabulary. darkness. By his side, Wolfenden, ance of the springtime of life, the most at your face to see why you blush. the mists of the blue tobacco smoke breath, his head thrust forward, his had been a proud woman-a proud mother desire you to stay for dinner. girlish, yet graceful and queenly his father's attention had been wholly fenden." poise of her small, shapely head, she volver might change its direction. His son, I am sure were aiding. I could as signifying assent. In the meanone reads of them now only in the | ment.

shaking, as though with cold. "what on earth is the matter?"

own house! Listen." Lit landing; holding his breath and he stood away from the door with a listening intently, Wolfenden was at little shudder, and guided her through once aware of faint, distant sounds. it. He heard her footsteps die away They came from the ground floor al- along the corridor with a peculiar most immediately below them. His sense of relief. Then he thrust his father laid his hand heavily upon hand into the pocket of his dinner

"I heard the door open distinctly. whispered in his father's ear.

too, but I found a key that fitted it. Come with me. Be careful! Make

They were on their way down-Wolfenden, to whom sleep before the stairs now. As they turned the angle steadier than yours." But the admiral shook his head; he The doors had all been locked, and two made no answer in words, but the of the most trustworthy servants left butt end of the revolver became al- in charge of the library. Wolfenden most welded into the palm of his hand. had himself accompanied his father Wolfenden began to feel that they upstairs, and after a few words with friend. You ring, and the door is were on the threshold of a tragedy. him had returned to his own apart-They had reached the ground floor ment. With his mother he had scarcenow; straight in front of them was ly exchanged a single sentence. Once the library door. The sound of muffled | their eyes had met, and he had immovements within the room were dis- mediately looked away. Nevertheless

"Tread lightly, Wolf," he muttered. which came about half an hour after "Don't let them hear us! Let us the house was once more silent. catch them red-handed!" But the last dozen yards of the way seemed scarcely a night for sleepwas over white flags tasselated, and and opened it cautiously. It was cessation of all sounds; they had been it during her passage into heard! The admiral, with a low cry room. of rage, leaped forwards. Wolfenden | He wheeled his own easy chair be the room was plunged into sudden speech. She was trembling violently, darkness; they had but a momentary and her face was perfectly bloodless. and partial glimpse of the interior. Wolfenden dropped on his knees by table was strewn with papers, some then. She lifted her eyes and looked only answering the mother's questhing-somebody-was fluttering be at him sorrowfully. hind the screen yonder. There was "What do you think of me, Wolfenbarely a second of light; then, with den?" she asked. a sharp click, the lamp went out, and "I have not thought about it at you appear so dull. Are all Indians the figure of the man was lost in ob- all," he answered. "I am only wonder- like this-so dull? [Of course, she scurity. Almost simultaneously there ing. You have come to explain every- cannot divine the nature of the Year. came a flash of level fire and the loud | thing?" was no groan, so Wolfenden concluded That was a task, indeed. When ing to be on your best behaviorshe was his first love-for good or all on the alert, stood motionless, the glamor has faded away and nothing handkerchief; and you do it so awkhe said to himself, was a word which eager eyes straining to pierce the tified by the full coloring and exuber- while accepting it with thanks, looks which hovered around him he seemed, eyes striving to penetrate the veil of woman all her life. She had borne in You don't know what to say in reply. with a very slight and very pleas gloom which lay like a thick barrier society the reputation of an almost Yes or no. At home, on a visit to a ant effort of his imagination, between him and the screen. His fear ultra-exclusiveness; in her home life friend, you always say "No." The to see some faint visions of her had suddenly taken to itself a very she had been something of an auto- question often is meaningless. Your in that more softening mood, real and terrible form. There had been crat. Perhaps this was the most mis- friend generally does not expect you Duke of Westminster Was Absent- And More of it That Was Not the vaguest recollection of which set a moment, before the extinction of erable moment of her life. Her son to accept the invitation, and the inhis heart beating fast and sent the the lamp had plunged the room into was looking at her with cold, inquiring vitation is often made without makblood moving through his veins to darkness, when he had seen, or fancled eyes. She was on her defence before ing any provision for you. You are music. How delicately handsome she that he had seen, a woman's skirts him. She bowed her head and spoke: generally expected to say "No," and incident which occurred to the Duke this from its files of 40 years ago: was, how exquisite the lines of her fluttering there. Up to the present "Tell me what you thought, Wol- you say "No." But it is not so in of Westminster two days before the

the grand alr-even the great Queen there was a faint movement near the It was only a very trifling theft-s sister, whose eagerness to shake could not have walked to the scaffold | window, and then again, without a | handful of notes from his work for a | hands with you sends a thrill through with a more magnificent contempt of second's hesitation, there was that magazine article. But it was theft, your whole frame. Fancy your friend's the rabble, whose victim she was. level line of fire and loud report from and I was an accomplice!" Some more personal thought came to the Admiral's revolver. There was no him; he half closed his eyes and lean- groan, no sign of anyone having been ed back in his chair steeped in p.ea- hit. The Admiral began to move sant thoughts; and then it all came | slowly in the direction of the winto a swilt, abrupt end, these reveries | dow; Wolfenden remained where he and pleasant castle-building. He was was, listening intently. He was back in the present, suddenly re- right, there was a smothered movecalled in a most extraordinary man- ment from behind the screen. Somener, to realization of the hour and one was moving from there towards place. Surely he could not have been | the door, someone with light footmistaken! That was a low knocking steps and a trailing skirt. He drew at his locked door outside; there was back into the doorway; he meant to no doubt about it. There it was again! let her pass, whoever it might be, but He heard his own name, softly but un- | he meant to know who it was. He mistakably spoken in a trembling | could hear her hurried breathing; a voice. He glanced at his watch, it was faint, familiar perfume, shaken out between two and three o'clock; then by the movement of her skirts, puzhe walked quickly to the door and | zled him; it's very familiarity bewilopened it without hesitation. It was | dered him. She knew that he was his father who stood there, fully there; she must know it, for she had dressed, with pale face and angrily paused. The position was terribly burning eyes. In his hand he carried critical. A few yards away the Ada revolver. Wolfenden noticed that miral was groping about, revolver in the fingers which clasped it were hand, mumbling to himself a string of terrible threats. The casting of "Father." Wolfenden exclaimed, a shadow would call forth that deathdealing fire. Wolfenden thrust out He dropped his voice in obedience his hand cautiously; it fell upon a to that sudden gesture for silence. | woman's arm. She did not cry out, The Admiral answered him in a hourse although her rapid breathing sank almost to a moan. For a moment he "A great deal is the matter! I am was staggered-the room seemed to being deceived and betrayed in my be going round with him; he had to bite his lips to stifle the exclamation They stood together on the dimly which very nearly escaped him. Then coat and drew out a box of matches.

the back stairs; that door was locked ually developing into a sure illumina- them afterwards with a map of living.

no doubt about it! They two were dom, but I must say it made an alone. But the window was wide impression upon me. open and a chair in front of it had been thrown over. The Admiral

"Heggs! are you there? Is no one There was no answer; the tall sentry-box was empty. Wolfenden came over to his father's side and brought the lamp with him, and together they leaned out. At first they could see nothing; then Wolfenden threw off the shade from the lamp and the light fell in a broad track upon a dark, motionless figure stretched out upon the turf.

Wolfenden stooped down hastily. "My God!" he exclaimed, "it is Heggs! Father, won't you sound the gong? We shall have to arouse the

There was no need. Already the library was half full of hastily dress. ed servants, awakened by the sound of the Admiral's revolver. Pale and terrified, but never more self-composed, Lady Deringham stepped out to them in a long white dressing-

"What has happened?" she cried. "Who is it, Wolfenden-has your father shot anyone?" But Wolfenden shook his head, as he stood for a moment upright, and looked into his mother's face.

"There is a man hurt," he said; "it is Heggs, I think, but he is not shot. The evil is not of our doing !"

> CHAPTER XXIX. "It Was Mr. Sabin."

It was still an hour or two before outside the house or within. tinctly audible. The admiral's breath he was not altogether unprepared for the drawing-room, where your that gentle knocking at his door

He rose at once from his chair-it polished like marble. Wolfenden's shoes Lady Deringham who stood there, creaked; the admiral's tip-toe walk white and trembling. He held out was no light one. There was a sudden his hand and she leaned heavily on fore the fire and helped her into it. Even as they crossed the threshold She seemed altogether incapable of Wolfenden saw a dim, slim figure bend- her side and began chafing her hands. ing forward, with his finger still The touch of his fingers seemed to pressed to the ball of the lamp. The revive her. She was not already judged your friend's mother-and yourself figure! With her clear, creamy skin, riveted upon the other end of the "Forgive me," he said, "I could you interpose a word which may be soft as alabaster below the red gold room; yet he was filled with a nervous only think that there was robbery, interpreted as "Yes" or "No," but of her hair, the somewhat haughty dread lest at any moment that re- and that you, for some sufficient rea- which your good friend understands brought him vivid recollections of ears were strained to the utmost to not think anything else, could I?" | time, other members of the household that old aristocracy of France, as catch the slightest sign of any move. You thought what was true, Wol- are ushered into the room, and to fenden," she whispered. "I was help- each of them you are introduced, and pages of romance or history. She had At last the silence was broken; ing another man to rob your father! among the number to your friend's > eyes, seeking steadfastly to read his cious? But such is the custom in face, could make nothing of it. "I will not ask you why," he said ner arrives. And, as the chief guest slowly. "You must have had very of the evening, you are asked to lead good reasons. But I want to tell you the lady of the house, your friend's one thing. I am beginning to have mother, to the dining-room. You are grave doubts as to whether my more perplexed than ever. The idea father's state is really as bad as Dr. of giving your arm to a lady whom Whitlett thinks-whether, in short, his you respect as your own mother! You work is not after all really of some never touched your own mother-at thought a deal. The tiara was mendconsiderable value. There are several least not after you became a man. considerations which incline me to take And how could you now touch your that he is absolutely trustworthy." wick's honesty," he admitted, "but unholy thought in your breast. Socithe admiral himself says that he dare ety as constituted in India does not trust no one, and that for weeks he recognize this distinction; in fact. has given him no paper of importance people who have known no higher to work upon simply for that reason. forms of life think it is impossible to It has been growing upon me that we separate the two. Woman has no inmay have been mistaken all along. dividual existence in India. To quote that very likely Miss Merton was paid the oft-quoted verse from Manu. to steal his work, and that it may "Her father maintains her in childpossess, for certain people, and for hood, her husband maintains herein certain purposes, a real technical im- youth, and her sons maintain her in portance. How else can we account old age." She seldom maintains herfor the deliberate efforts which have self. She is always the ivy and her beer made to obtain possession of it?" husband the oak. It is different here. amining it yourself," she said in a society. There is no society in Eng-

The suggestion visibly disturbed Lady Deringham. She moved in her chair uneasily.

ed. "and I read them very care- is at the shop-window, she is at the "Someone is in the library," he said. "I am going to strike a light," he fully; they were connected with restaurant, she appears on the platthe various landing places upon the form, she is connected with the When I tried to get out I found that "Quick, then," was the reply, "I Suffolk coast. An immense amount press, she writes books, she talks the door of my room was locked; there don't think the fellow has got away of detail was very cleverly given. politics, she has her own clubs and yet; he must be hiding behind some The currents, bays and fortifica- her own "societies." Her individualtions were all set out; even the ity is asserted in a Thousand direc-

The room was empty! There was was only a page or two at ran-

There was another silence. time longer than before. Lady Derstrode to the casement and called out | ingham was thinking. Once more, then, the man had lied to her! He was on some secret business of his own. She shuddered slightly. She had no curlosity as to its nature. Only she remembered what many went disaster followed. A piece of coal fell into the grate hissing from the fire. He stooped to pick it up. and catching a glimpse of her face became instantly graver. He remembered that as yet he had heard nothing of what she had come to tell him. Her presence in the library was altogether unexplained.

"You were very good," she said slowly; "you stayed what might have been a tragedy. You knew that I was there, you helped me to escape; yet you must have known that I was in league with the man who was trying to steal those pa-

"There was no mistake. then! you were doing that. You!" "It is true," she answered. "It was I who let him in, who unlocked your father's desk. I was his accomplice!"

"Who was the man?" She did not tell him at once." (To be Continued.)

 The English Woman As Seen by an Indian.

UNIVERSAL MAGAZINE.

+++++++++++++++++++++++ know how to behave. You visit a opened by a young maid-servant, who invites you to enter, and closes the door as soon as you have entered. You follow the servant into her to you. The mother is very pleased to make your acquaintance and asks you to sit in a chair near hers. But you hesitate. Is that the proper thing to do? In India no from which the following is a short extract : mother of no friend of yours asks always stood at a respectful disquestions. But here it is so different. You obey with hesitation, and sit in the chair rather awkwardly, both your legs thrust as far beneath your chair as possible-of course, as a mark of respect to tions in monosyllables. The mother holders and the policy-holders. wonders what is the matter with you; why you are so shy, and why England. And, with some hesitation. sister being introduced at home in There was a short silence. Her India! Can anything be more atro-England, And then the time for dinfriend's mother.

The more you move in the company of English women, the more you are "You have heard what Mr. Blather | convinced that it is possible for you wick says," she objected. "I am sure to admire the intellectual culture of bearer of the ducal tiara, came a the night. The landlord next mornyour friend's sister, or even her per-"There is no doubt about Blather | sonal charms, without harboring any "You have spent some time ex. She is a recognized factor in English low tone; "what was your own land without her, whereas in India society knows her not. In London she "I found some sheets," he answer- is a familiar figure everywhere; she len asked.

There was the scratching of a match and down where dealt with. I compared out of every ten earns her own managers have closed an agreement man's infirmities. Druggists sell it tion. Wolfenden carefully ht the Suffolk. They were, so far as one lamp and raised it high over his head. could judge, correct. Of course, this Manufacturers Life Insurance Company.

The Directors congratulate the policyholders and shareholders on the substantial progress made during the year, which has been the most satisfactory in the Company's history. There were received during the year 1778 applications for assurances amounting to people had told her, that where he $3,058,989. The business actually taken up and paid for in cash during the year amounted to $2,486,763, and. leaving out single payment policies, the first year's cash premiums collected thereon was $115,782.01, as against $107,160.86 for the previous year, and $100,613.93 for 1898.

The Assurances in Force amount to $15,409,620, an increase of $1,041,384 over the previous

The Premium Income was $590,875.04, showing the handsome increase of $68,695.23-There were received for Interests and Rents $87,461.11, making the total Income $676,336.15, an

After paying the policyholders for claims, dividends and surrenders $127,664.73, and providing for all other expenditures, the Assets were increased by nearly half a million dellars, of which $328,495.0) was added to Policy Reserves and $67,268.35 to Surplus, an eminently satisfactory saving for one year's operations.

The Assets now amount to $2,279,175.94 and the Policy Reserves to $1,930,507.00 on the Company's standard. After making provisions for all other liabilities the surplus or policyholders' account is $301,024.36, which would be considerably increased by adopting the Government standard of valuation for Policy Reserves.

J. F. JUNKIN. Managing Director.

GEORGE GOODERHAM. SUMMARY OF STATEMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDING DEC. 31st, 1900.

INCOME.

Received for New Premiums.....$ 115,782 or Received for Single and Renewal Premiums 475.093 03 From all other sources..... 203,749 11 $794,624 15 DISBURSEMENTS. To Policyholders for claims by death$ 87,830 04 To Policyholders for Endowments, Dividends, etc 39.834 69 To Commissions, Balaries, and expenses of management...... 152,645 75 To Taxes, Reinsurance Premiums and Dividends to Stockholders Surplus of Income over Expenditure..... 8794,624 15 ASSETS.

It is often a great trial to a Municipal Bonds, Stocks and Debentures......$ 854,788 37 young man fresh from India who Loans on Bonds and other Securities 104.511 53 is thrown into English society to Mortgages on Real Estate..... Real Estate.... 36,845 25 Loans on Policies..... 147,124 09 Accrued Interest, Net De erred Premiums, etc Cash on Hand and in Banks $2,279,268 64 LIABILITIES.

Liability for Policy Reserves, Government Standard $ 1,914,174 00 friend soon meets and greets you. Special Reserve Fund over and above Government Standard After some conversation, your friend All other Liabilities..... brings in his mother and introduces | Surplus on Policyholders' Account..... 82,279,268 64 Dr. James Mills, of Guelph, moved the adoption of the report in an excellent address.

At a meeting of this nature it is always a pleasure to be to position to congratulate you to do the same. If at all, you | those interested, and on this occasion I can do so most heartily. We have really a most satisfactory statement to present to the shareholders and policytance and answered the mother's holders of the Company, a statement which will bear the close t inspection. We can speak with more definiteness than ever in the past in regard to our investments and our standing, for we have more information at our disposal, furnished us in the splendid report of our consulting actuary There has been progress all along the line. A comparison of 1900 and 1829 is in the report, so I need not refer to that again. I would, however, refer to one other point : The question of our progress during a longer period, 1894 te 1900, being that of the present management. After a lapse of six years we find many points which are alike creditable to the manage.

ment and gratifying to the persons most interested in the success of the Company, the share-

The following figures will illustrate the vigorous growth of the Company

Net Income Gross Assur-1st Year's Premiums. Prems. & Int. in force. things which perplex you. She does 1894..... $ 821,321 $ 61,685 $296,468 $ 9,555,300 15,409,620 report of the admiral's revolver. There | She shuddered. Explain everything! not understand; you are only try- 1900 2,279,176 115,782

The assets are practically three times what they were six years ago. Amount of income from new business shows 100 per cent, increase. Net income from Premiums and Interest has increased over 100 per cent. The assurance in force has grown from 9% to 15% millions.

I want also to refer to the character of our assets and the expense ratio, both being important items in a concern of this kind. Our securities were never before in the splendid condition they are to-day. I doubt if any Company can show such a record of invested assets of over $2 000,000 and only $501.30 overdue interest In new companies the expense ratio is always large. These expenses should gradually decrease, and our record is as it should be in this respect. The ratio is about 11 per cent. less than it was two years ago. I think that is one of the very fully, as he sat there smoking table was strewn, and the curtains haps as a confession than as a half- do? At home you dark not do it. But it most satisfactory features in our business. The ratio is decreasing rapidly. I thank our manager, his staff and the field force for the results we are able to report today, and I do so most sincerely, and I must congratulate the policyholders and shareholders on the position we have attained. Mr. J. F. Junkin, the Managing Director, in seconding the adoption of the report,

If we look back over two years, we find that the premium income for 1900 was almost $140,000 more than for 1898, or an increase of 31 per cent., while our expenses for 1980, as com pared with 1898, only show an increase of about $2,000, or 11/2 per cent The result is that we have She was moving towards him already. equally agitated now, though from a trifling indiscretions then stand out some day she would be his! Through different reason, stood holding his like idiotic crimes. Lady Deringham your perplexities still. He and his Canadian and American Companies.

SAT ON THE TIARA.

London, Tuesday.-An untoward wedding morn gave rise to the impression that the young nobleman was of a somewhat nervous disposition. The diamond tiara presented by in Avon Ward. The landlord was so the prospective groom to his bride- overjoyed that he wanted something elect had been duly passed around striking to intimate the good news among a few friends for admiration, to his customers, so a traveling when the Duke deposited the precious rhymster, by which he earned a diadem on a chair. The next moment, to the horror ing as follows of the bystanders, the young Duke "Within this hive we're all alive, absent-mindedly sat down on the chair, plump on the spikes of the tiara, with the result usual on the occasion when a person attempts to sit on the business end of a pin. Everybody of the company declared it a case of absent-mindedness, and proceeded to chaff the hero of the Pre. passer-by. A temperance poet, not to toria flag-raising episode on his outdone, wrote as follows identification of Kipling's doggerel "We've liquors here of every kind, hero. The young Duke said nothing, but, like the proverbial parrot, ed in due time, and the wedding ceremony went off according to pro-After the bridal party had gone, a little bird whispers the reason for the Duke's apparent absent-mindedness. It said that, following the side of the bar-room window during shabby-genteel individual, of a type ing was furious and offered $50 reassociated with Dickens' novels. He ward for the temperance poet, and had a blue document, which he could of course, destroyed the poetic efdeliver only to the Duke personally. fort. The very next night the tem-Printed at the head of this docu- perance poet, as is supposed, tried his vant parrot, who vouches for the wrote and affixed to the same bartruth of the story, says read: "Sum- room window: mons; King's Court, Probate and Divorce," or words to that effect. Just exactly what followed after the printed matter is not yet fully known, except that somewhere down the body of the document, hidden among a lot of legal manuscript, was a reference to a certain Major Atherton, who bears His Majesty's Commission in the Lancers. Just why Rheumatism. The Major Atherton should wish to send such a wedding present to the Duke on the eve of his marriage may not New York Herald.

POETRY TO ORDER.

The Stratford Beacon reproduces The recent census having enabled the Town Council to issue another license, it was given to a hotel treat, supplied the needful by writ-

Good liquor makes us funny, As you pass by, step in and try The flavor of our honey."

This was printed and pasted on the inside of the bar-room window, so that it could be seen and read by the

And sell them as cheap as you will

They'll make you feel quite funny. Perhaps they'll sprawl you on the If so, we'll kick you out the door,

After we've got your money.' This the poet pasted on the out-

ment was a legend which the obser- | hand again, and this was what he Within this hut

> And very cheap we sell. Don't stop to think, Come in and drink And speed your way to h-ll!

We keep rot-gut,

Nerveilne Cures

remarkable strength and marvellous sootling property of Nerviline-nerve pain cure-renders it almost infallible in be known till the Court opens. In the Rheumatism. Five times stronger meantime, other explanations fail- than any other, its penetrating ing, it is held as a good excuse for power enables it to reach the source the Duke's nervousness in sitting on of pain and drive out the disease. the diamond tiara .- London Edition Nerviline is more penetrating, stronger, and more highly pain-subduing in its action than any medicine

Reli Wide-Awake,

Washington Report. ourse of Dr. Talmage tinent at this time spread effort for religi to being made. Text, Lu enclosed a great multi and their net brake."

Simon and his comras enced the night before men call "poor luck." on board the fishing the sailors to pull aw beach and directs then the net. Sure enough, of fishes, and the sailor in. So large a school taken that the hardy me red in the face as they have they begun to success when snap goes net, and snap goes and there is danger not on fish, but of losing the Without much care a the boat tilts or how splashed on deck the dancing on the wave, "Ship ahoy! Bear down ship comes, and both b ing smacks, are filled w ing treasures. "Ah," says some on better it would have had stayed on shore a hook and line and a time, instead of ha excitement and the bo and the net broken, an about, gathering up the

of the net. Out yonder

for help and getting s the sea. The church is the great revival is a whole in at one sweep of the miration for that may with a hook and line to the way he unwinds t justs the balt and dro here catches one and like also a big boat a and a net a mile long and stout sails and a a great multitude of s great a multitude th get help to draw it a the net to the utmos here and there, letting bringing the great mu In other words, I be The great work of sa with 3,000 people join!

one day, and it will ch

a hundred million peop ty-four hours when born in a day. But the to revivals. People them because the net en, and if by the predoes not get broken, their own penknives i "They enclosed a gre fishes, and the net on It is sometimes opp of religion that those w As long as there is a they have their walls soon as strong winds & ful people are those in under great awak hold out. Who are th in the United States of er meetings, in Sabba

I have noticed that they will never ge they caught in the non ball depends us with which it starts ment that people mis of condemnation into healthy, morbid state sive and absurd as a felt no acceleration of on it without his Christiani or freezing the one i are dead. suscitate, startle in what it makes us excitement, but if lated about our el upon Christia makes us cry unto then it is good excite not know what the has been my obser arlier people come ! of God the more Robert Hall, the pa ers, was converted a ce. It is likely that was about. Mat

mortal in the Christ

converted at ten ye