SEND IT TO DAY.—We are offering the Review to Jan. 1, 1902 for 50c. Have you a friend who would appreciate its weekly visits? Give us his name and address on a post card to-day.

We notice in a report of the Hamilton Conference that Rev. J. C. Pomeroy has been permanently placed on the Superannuation list. Also that H. H. Miller, of Hanover was one of the speakers at the evening Conference meeting.

INDIANA FARMS.—If you want to buy a farm cheap, and on easy terms, in a country where there is a market for everything that grows, 92 miles from Chicago, write to Mr. M. A. Dilts Winamac, Indiana, for his list of Indiana farms. 5-9

Cobourg hotel keepers have agreed to strictly observe the law regarding selling liquor on Saturday nights and Sundays. Would it not be in the interest of all hotel men to do likewise? And if some of them keep strictly to the law, they should give their assistance to the authorities in compelling all others to do the same.—Ex.

According to the census returns West Bruce and East Bruce both show a decrease in population since 1891. In Kin-cardine, there is a falling off of 700, and Port Elgin has lost 250. Carleton County decreased from 21,746 to less than 20,000. Kingston has lost 1000 and St. Thomas has gained 1000. It is said that Palmerston and Harriston both show a decrease, though the figures are not yet given out.

EDITING this paper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes people say we are rattle-brained and if we don't we are an old fossil. If we publish original matter they say we don't give them selections. If we give them selections they say we are too lazy to write. If we don't go to church we are a heathen, if we do we are a hypocrite. If we remain in the office we ought to go out and look for locals. If we go out then we are not attending to our business. If we wear old clothes they laugh at us. If we wear good clothes they say we have a pull. Now, what are we going to do? Just as likely as not some one will say we stole this item from our exchanges, and so we did.

Last week, Mr. Wm. Evans, 6th concession of Egremont, brought into this office a stem of wheat which he says had headed out on the 24th of May. It is of the Kansas variety and is called the Turkey Red. He says he just sowed two bushels of it as an experiment, and he finds that it is all headed out now. This is assuredly a new thing for this country. If farmers would go into buying and sowing this grain instead of the late Manitoba wheat, it would certainly be a boon to them. They would get more bushels to the acre and they could get a much earlier crop. Why not try it? The stem of wheat, which Mr. Evans brought here is now on exhibition in our office, and anyone who wants to, can see it for himself, and can test the truth of our statement.

The following from an exchange contains a considerable amount of truth:—A movement is on foot among the merchants of Brandon to do away with the usual custom of putting their goods outside the door. It is found that the wind and dust is very harmful to articles thus exposed; and it is thought that if all will agree to the proposition there will be no loss of trade. The Brandon merchants are level-headed. The proper place for goods is on a shelf. The proper way to advertise them is to make use of the newspapers. If merchants generally would keep their goods inside safe from sun, rain, dust and thieves, and make more use of printer's ink, they would find it profitable.

HIS COMMISSION.—Rev. Ranton, the evangelist, related this story at a meeting in Toronto. "Speaking of the influence of religion recalls to my mind a little incident that occurred while I was holding revival services in the town of Walkerton a short time ago. I had been in the town nearly a week and was walking down the street one day when I was approached by an old miller, an original character in his way, who accosted me with Mr. 'Ranton, the Evangelist I presume.' I said 'yes.' 'Well, take this,' said he, handing me an envelope. 'I understand you are doing good work.' I opened the envelope and found that it contained $1.95 whereupon I asked him if he had been attending our meetings. He said, 'No I have not been at your church for 16 years.' 'How then,' said I, 'are you so interested in our work.' 'Well, it is this way,' he replied, 'a number of years ago a fellow living here got flour from me to the amount of two dollars but he never paid me, and when you came round the account had been outlawed ten years. The other evening he attended one of your meetings and got religion. The next day he came and settled and this is your commission.—Ex.

SUMMARY JUSTICE.—The Bobageon Independent, on receipt of the news of the attempted murderous escape of the three bank burglars in Toronto says very truly: 'The Toronto Medical College should have three subjects for the pickle vat within a week. Three of the leading criminals of the continent have killed a constable with the object of making escape. The court is sitting; they should be given a trial limited to one hour and a half, including addresses; twenty-four hours to arrange any business affairs they may have and contemplate the future; and instruct Radcliffe to turn over the bodies to the Medical College. Such a procedure would be exemplary, which is the object in view. It would be in the interests of society, the advancement of science and nothing more than common horse sense. Why not do it?'

The funeral of Mrs. Oronhyatekha, wife of Dr. Oronhyatekha, Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, took place on Friday last from her late residence, 'The Pines,' at Deseronto to Christ's Church cemetery. The deceased lady was universally beloved by all who knew her, and the high esteem in which she was held was attested by the large concourse of friends who gathered on Friday to pay their last tribute of respect to her memory. The Mohawk tribe on the reserve near Deseronto will feel her death keenly. The service at the house was conducted by the Rev. Archdeacon Davis, of London, who led in prayer, after which the members of the Mohawk church gathered around the casket and sang a beautiful hymn in their own simple and sweet way. The deceased was a great-granddaughter of the celebrated Indian chief, Captain Joseph Brant (Thayenseneza), who fought in British army during the Revolution, and afterwards published the Gospel of Mark in his own language. He died in 1807.

Rev. S. S. Craig, the pastor of Zion Congregational Church, Toronto, rather startled those of his congregation that were not already in the secret with an announcement that after prayerful consideration he had decided in future not to take a stated salary, but that each Sunday, after the necessary expenses of the church, including interest on the mortgage debt, had been deducted, he would take what was left as his salary for the week. This course, Mr. Craig considers, puts the church on an apostolic basis so far as paying the pastor is concerned, and he expressed his willingness to abide by the result. In his morning sermon Mr. Craig devoted himself to a clear presentation of the gospel of Christ's life and atonement, and the duties of man toward God. In the evening he gives special attention to the no less important subject connected with man's duty to his fellow-men. In this connection he emphatically denounces the monopolistic tendencies of the day, and emphasizes the rights and property is no less a sin than to rob an individual of his.

Our Children and Scientific Temperance Teaching.

Ask any respectable Father or Mother, who is not in association with the liquor traffic, whether they want their children taught Scientific Temperance in the Schools, and they will answer "Yes." Every instinct of parental love demands that so long as bars are legalized and the drink habit destroys its thousands yearly, the children shall not go out into life blindfolded to the evils of alcohol.

Why even the saloon keeper is often glad of the protection this knowledge affords his boy.

It is only a couple of years ago since a saloon keeper's son, attending a Middlesex Co. village school, took the prize offered by the local W. C. T. U. for passing the best Entrance examination in Scientific Temperance.

When the father was twitted about it by his friends he answered "I make my living by the liquor business, because if I didn't some one else would; but I know it's a bad business and I don't want my boy to have anything to do with it; I'm glad the public school is teaching him to let the stuff alone."

The Scientific Temperance law as it now stands asks for one hour per week of study upon this branch in the second and third forms and a brief specified course of teaching, covering only four chapters of a small book, in the fourth form, with an examination test at the Entrance.

IMPORTANT POINTS.

Enquiries made several times through the 250 W. C. T. U. organizations of this province, have proved beyond any doubt that because the regulations for the 2nd and 3rd forms do not call for examinations at the close of the year, the work done in these forms is usually far inferior to that in the fourth form.

It has also been proved, not only by Canadian experience, but by the much longer and broader tests applied on the other side of the lines, that temperance truths taught apart from physiology have little lasting effect. It is after the teacher has shown the pupil the delicate nature of the brain that he can impress upon him the injury alcohol (which is a brain poison) does this organ.

PROPOSED CHANGES.

The alterations proposed by the Educational Assoc. involve the dropping of the one examination now granted and the dissevering of the subject from physiology. The Public School Section of the Educational Association, at their meeting on Thursday afternoon April 11th, voted, by a large majority against these changes. The same night the General Association, which was very thinly attended by the Teachers, adopted the proposed alterations with some slight amendments.

The action thus taken does not actually effect any change. The Educational Department of the Government alone can do this. But unless the people protest against them, the recommendations thus made may have weight with the Department and cause future modifications of a law that needs strengthening instead of weakening.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

For the week ending June 7, 1901

Table with columns: Temperature, Min. Max., June 1-7, 1901. Values range from 38 to 81.

Rainfall for the week: 64.1 in. Hours of sunshine: 36.8. General direction of the wind S W to N W raw and blustering.

While the temperature in Ontario was considerably below the average during the month of May especially during the latter part of it, in Manitoba and North West Territories it was from six to ten degrees above the average, but falling westwards to the Pacific coast as well as eastwards to the Atlantic. The rainfall also during the month of May, although in excess of the average on the North West Territories, Ontario and the lower provinces was deficient in Manitoba and Eastern Assiniboia.

In British Columbia although the season is fully two weeks later than usual, the crops never looked better. Fall wheat promises a large yield, and the fruit crop although somewhat retarded by the frosts in the early part of the month, appears to have recovered itself and now promises well. Seeding began on the 2nd and was complete by the 20th.

In the North West Territories seeding was delayed on heavy lands, but was finished by the 25th of May and the blase was well up by the 30th. Medicine Hat reports that crops were never more promising, and Edmonton, that owing to the very favorable weather prevailing the crops are making splendid progress.

But in Manitoba although seeding was finished by the 18th of May, small fruits in blossom early in the month and flowering shrubs and plants out before the end of the month, yet growth is now somewhat retarded and rain is much needed.

In the Lower Provinces fair and foul days were about equally divided, but the temperature and the rainfall have been above the average and vegetation is well forward and much in advance of ordinary seasons. Seeding was finished early in the month, blue violets in flower by the seventh and by the middle of the month the apple, plum and cherry trees were in first bloom.
