BEAUTY TALKS FOR WOMEN:

A Professional Gives a Few Hints on Preserving Your Appearance.

EARNING THEIR DAILY BREAD.

American Women Have Entered Various Fields of Industry.

Every one adds to the number of women who are entering new fields of industry and winning success.

Mrs. Laura Alderman, of Hurley, S. D., owns the largest apple orchard in the northwest. It is known all over the country, and has been in its present hands for twenty-four years. Recently the Department of Agriculture has honored Mrs. Alderman by publishing a record of her success in apple raising.

Cloverhook duck ranch marks the successful struggle of a woman at Chazy, N. Y., near Lake Champlain. Miss Ellen Wheeler was thrown upon her own resources, and her health failing under the strain of typewriting, she experimented with fancy farming. Each summer she raises by incubation 1,500 ducklings, to supply the hotels in her neighborhood. She also has started a bee ranch, which is successful.

A blacksmith's shop with several assistants fell to the lot of Celia Eolbrook, of Sherborn, Mass., when she was but 17. At her father's death she undertook to run this, and has done so for two years, supporting her mother and a large family. Besides this smithy she has another business, being a mail carrier. Twice a day she takes the United States mail four miles in summer, performing this service on her wheel; in winter on foot.

The Southern Electric Billposters' Association of Moultrie, Ga., recently suspended its rules of order to admit a woman, Miss Cora Kimball, an efficient billposter.

Mrs. Emma and Miss Sayre, of Mont Clare, Ill., have been made captain and assistant marshal of the fire department. The places are no sinecures, and it is no new thing for women to fight fires in Mont Clare, as most of the male population is in Chicago all day.

Mrs. Bissell has entire charge of a carpet sweeper factory at Grand Rapids, Mich. It is even rumored that the invention was hers rather than that of her husband, now deceased.

Miss Belle McKinnon, is superintendent of a big manufacturing plant of Little Falls, N. Y. She employs 1,200 hands, is trained in business, and is especially noted for having amicably settled several disputes which threatened strikes.

A very young woman of Syracuse is paying her way through college by a domestic occupation on a large scale. Even as a child her spare time was spent in fruit canning and jelly making, and this work she found more lucrative than undergraduate teaching in order to secure money for her university expenses.

Miss Elvira Miller, a southern writer, has just been engaged as passenger agent upon the Louisville and St. Louis road, and it is confidently expected that she will present the superior attractions of this railroad as a way to interest women travellers.

WOMEN ON FARMS.

Large Army of Them Employed in Western States.

It is said that fully half a million women are employed in the Western States as harvest laborers and general farm hands. This is accounted for by the numerous improvements in agricultural machinery, which enable a woman to do the work as easily as a man, and also by the large number of women who own farms and manage them themselves. This is especially true in Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota, where there are farms of 1,000 acres belonging to women. Persons who are acquainted with life in these States assert that in many cases the women make more money out of the farms than did the husbands or fathers from whom they inherited them.

A woman, lately returned from Kansas, said yesterday: "It is really a pretty and interesting sight to see the women in the fields reaping hay, binding grain, driving the horses attached to the moving and other machines. It cannot be harder work than to slave in a kitchen or stand all day behind a counter, and it certainly is much more healthful! One of them said to me when I asked her how she came to take up that work: 'Why, it was all because of the Spanish war, you know. All the young men were away, and the field work had to be done or we would starve. So we set about it, we women, and liked it so well that we do not mean to give it up. I have been in a big store in Chicago, and you do not catch me going back. We have more freedom, and are not so cramped as if we were pickpockets. The men who work with us are often more civil than the shop clerks.'

"It may seem a little early to rise time enough to feed the horses before the 6 o'clock breakfast, but it is the pleasantest part of the day, after you get used to it. About 7:30 o'clock we are in the fields beginning work. At noon we have an hour for dinner, and a little loafing spell under the trees, and we stop work at 5:30 o'clock, except in the busiest season, when we work as long as it is light. We do not care for that, however, for the next time when the busy season is over, we get good wages, ranging from $1.50 to $2.50 a day, and I've heard

HEALTHY BABIES.

Watchful Mothers Can Keep Their Babies Healthy, Rosy-Cheeked and Happy.

Nothing in the world is such a comfort and joy as a healthy, hearty, rosy-cheeked, happy baby.

Babies can be kept in perfect health by having at hand and administering when needed some purely vegetable, harmless remedy, and of all this class of medicines Baby's Own Tablets are conceded to be the best.

For constipation, colic, diarrhoea, simple fevers, sour stomach, teething, indigestion and sleeplessness, these tablets are a really wonderful cure. You can give them to the smallest baby without the slightest fear. Dissolved in water, they will be taken readily, and they contain absolutely not a particle of opiate or other injurious drugs. They are small, sweet lozenges that any baby will take without objection, and their action is prompt and pleasant. They will tone up the whole system and make the little one as hearty and free from infantile disorders as any mother could wish.

Mrs. Walter Brown, Milby, Que., says: "I have never used any medicine for baby that did him so much good as Baby's Own Tablets. I would not be without them." This is the verdict of all mothers who have used these tablets.

They cost 25 cents a box. All druggists sell them or they may be secured by sending the price direct and the tablets will be forwarded prepaid. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Dept. T., Brockville, Ont.

Duchess of Westminster's Coat.

A beautiful gray long coat of corded silk is being fashioned for the young Duchess of Westminster. It is to escape the floor all the way around and will be a walking coat, not a driving coat, but one that can be worn in the street.

Its trimming will be a paler shade of gray and a much deeper shade of the same color, making three grays in all. A lining of lustrous black will set off the exterior.

Very serviceable long coats can be obtained without great expenditure of money. These coats are not difficult to make, but if the fashioning of them be beyond the skill of the home seamstress, then let her purchase one ready made, and, if necessary, select the cheaper styles, such as the brilliantines, the poplins and the light weights in cloth. A perfectly plain long coat can be made very dressy by the addition of a lace collar or sailor collar shape, square in front and back and fastened with a brooch under the chin, and if to this be added a handsome pair of cuffs of lace little more can be desired in the way of beauty.

The long coat, while not so cheap at first cost, is particularly susceptible to treatment and can be dressed up at a small cost. The adjustable lace collars, adjustable collars of taffeta and satin, collars of velvet and even revers and wide lapels can be added by clever fingers. The long coat is also a satisfactory wardrobe as it prolongs the life of a dress skirt and saves the fancy waists, allowing plainer ones to be worn.

The first long coats of fall are single-breasted, though one sees the double-breasted varieties, but it is pleasant to know that the added warmth is not demanded for some time yet.

To those who would ask about the coats of the coming winter, the only most indefinite answers can be given. Fashion's finger indicates that there will be no between styles; coats will either be very long or very short, either dragging upon the ground or chopped off at the waist line.

Should the patience of the reader permit, it may be mentioned that the first fur coats of winter have arrived in the unpacking departments of the large houses. They show long coats in fur and they also show the fur Etons. One of the pretty novelties is the straight little English box in fur.

SHOOTING ON OTHER GIRLS.

"I never see you anywhere nowadays," some one remarked to an attractive young woman. "You never go anywhere now?"

used to be the gayest of the gay. Why have you given it all up?" "Because I am neither fish, fowl nor good red herring," she laughed. "I have no place in society. I ought to be married and have my own establishment, and I have not. You see, it is the way with those people esthetically much: 'The first year they come out they are feted and made much of, and have a beautiful time; the next year or two their glory pales a little, but they still feel it is their prerogative to go about and have a good time. Then comes a period of toleration, which also lasts a year or two. This brings a girl to her fifth or sixth winter. If she comes out at 18 she will be about 24 or 25. Still young enough to enjoy life, one would think, but society has had enough of her. She feels it herself very keenly, her invitations grow fewer in number, her partners fall off, her father no longer pays for her ball dresses with alacrity, her mother's attention is now absorbed by her younger sisters, who must now be considered, and she feels it is better to stay at home than to go to the ball. She is practically over."

"I wonder that those old girls try to hang on, I overheard a callow youth remark at the last dance I went to. 'Mrs. X has."

the cotillon with one of them. I should think they ought to know enough to stay at home, with all the other girls coming on needing partners.' Fortunately I was not the 'old girl' he had to dance with, but it was one of my contemporaries, and I quite agreed with him. I think there is something undignified in keeping up the same old routine year after year, still anxious to get partners for the cotillon and supper at every dance, and feeling all the time the game is not worth the candle.

"For married women it is different. They have their assured place, and if they enjoy that sort of thing there is no reason why they should not attend every function; but it is becoming more and more the fashion for young women of my age who are unmarried to drop general society. By that I do not mean social life; we go to dinners, theatre parties, and once in a great while to some particularly smart ball; we have our waltzes and intelligent interests, but we decline to be society hacks, and I think we are right. Don't you?"

"In Boston this habit of older girls 'dropping out' is even more of a recognized thing. The women at the dances of the smart set there are nearly all debutantes and married women; the girls of several seasons are conspicuous by their absence.—New York Tribune.

BOILED DOWN.

A good mirror tells the truth no matter on whom it reflects.

The proper age at which a girl should get married is the paragonage.

A woman need never hope to keep a secret. Age will tell on her.

GROWING GIRLS

Occasionally Require a Tonic Medicine.

It Will Keep the Blood Rich, Red and Pure, Strengthen the Nerves and Prevent Decline.

Mrs. Hiram Rinkler, the wife of a respected farmer in South Pelham township, Welland county, Ontario, says: "It is with great pleasure that I give this tribute to the health restoring virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When my daughter, Lena, now 13 years of age, began the use of your medicine, a little over a year ago, she was in a most wretched condition. In fact, we were seriously alarmed lest she might not recover. The first symptoms were a feeling of languor and weakness, gradually growing worse. She became pale, lost flesh, had little or no appetite and was apparently going into a decline. Finally the trouble became complicated with a persistent sore throat, which gave her great pain in swallowing. I gave her several different medicines, but they did not benefit her. Then she was placed under the care of a doctor, who said her blood was poor and watery and that she must be completely 'run down.' The doctor's treatment did not help her any, and then acting on the advice of a neighbor, I began to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The confidence with which this medicine was urged upon us was not misplaced, as I soon noticed a distinct improvement in my daughter's condition. The use of the pills for a few weeks longer seemed to completely restore her, and from that time she has been a cheerful, light-hearted girl, the very picture of health. I will always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other sufferers, feeling sure they will prove quite as efficacious as they did in my daughter's case."

Mothers with growing daughters will make no mistake if they insist upon the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; they will help them to develop properly; will make their blood rich and pure and thus ward off disease and decline. The genuine pills are sold only in boxes bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around each box. None other is genuine, no matter what some self-interested dealer may say. If in doubt send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

BROTHER'S KEEPER.

George S. McLaughlin, Lives to Rejoice That He Took His Brother's Advice.

For Twenty-Five Years Crippled with Backache—Finally Advised to Take Dodd's Kidney Pills—What He Says About His Cure.

Economy Point, N. S., Sept. 16.—Mr. G. S. McLaughlin lives in this quiet little Nova Scotia village. His brother keeps the grocery store here. But for this seemingly unimportant fact, unless death had mercifully relieved him of his sufferings, Mr. McLaughlin would in all probability have been a helpless cripple to-day. For it was through his brother's keeping store that he came to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Economy Point is thirty-seven miles from Truro. The only connection is by wagon road, and in the spring when the roads are impassable, the hamlet is isolated completely. But never the less the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills found its way to Economy Point, and Mr. McLaughlin's brother in response to frequent requests began to retail them at his store. There is no druggist in the place, and McLaughlin's brother is looked to for medicines as well as groceries. Hearing the terms of an unqualified praise with which his customers spoke of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the brother recommended them to Mr. McLaughlin. "They might help you," he said.

That is the story of Mr. McLaughlin's cure—or all of it that varies to any extent from that of thousands of others. He followed his brother's advice. "I will try them, anyway," he said. That's all Dodd's Kidney Pills want—a trial. After the first trial there is no more hesitation. Mr. McLaughlin says it was wonderful the way his pain left him and his back strengthened. He was a free man ever since.

"I was troubled with lame back for twenty-five years or more. I couldn't turn myself in bed. Wonderful to say I have had no return of the trouble since using the Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to a number of persons with Kidney Trouble. All without exception have been benefited or cured. I can never be too thankful for the benefit I received from those wonderful pills."

HARD-FAN TALK.

Should There be an Oath Affecting Religion?

Every man, be he king or beggar, has an indefensible right to be of the religion that seems best to him. The State has no more to do with his beliefs or disbeliefs than with the cut of his coat. Since the reign of Charles II. an English Sovereign has had to swear that he is a member of the Church of England, and that he disbelieves various dogmas that are believed by Roman Catholics. That eminent saint Charles II. died a Roman Catholic. That equally eminent saint George IV. married the law by the simple expedient of denying his first marriage and committing bigamy. That saintly but pig-headed monarch, George III. prevented a Catholic Emancipation during his reign because he thought that it conflicted with his Coronation oath. The imposition of an oath on our Kings affecting religion does not, therefore, seem to have been a marked success. At present the majority of those over whom the King reigns are not Christians. Some parts of the Empire are almost exclusively peopled by Roman Catholics, and of the King's Christian subjects the majority do not belong to the Church of England. Why there should be a Coronation I do not know. There seems to be a good deal connected with it that implies that the Sovereign occupies his position by some sort of divine right, whereas we know that our Sovereigns have only a parliamentary title to their throne. The King is Emperor of India. But as Emperor of India he is not crowned, and yet this does not render our tenure of India insecure. As King he already occupies the Throne, and a Coronation next year can in no way alter the relation between himself and the people over whom he reigns. Except as a pageant, the whole thing is an absurdity, dear to the hearts of our court flunkies, but hardly in accordance with practical common-sense.—From "Truth."

Another "Fool Idea."

"Well, I'll be dinged," said Ebenezer Bunkley after he had looked at the letter for the seventh time. "What's the matter?" his wife asked.

"You see," the old man replied, "there was a fellow advertised in the Farmer's Friend a little while ago to furnish on $2 and learn how to get a fortune without investin' anything or runnin' any risk. So I done it—sent the $2—and here's the answer. It says: 'Rob a train. There's no risk about that, there'll never catch you. I vow, it does beat all what a lot of blame fool ideas people keep gettin' up nowadays.'"
