On Christmas Day at 1 o'clock two o mony, and we hasten to extend to Miss bride, Rey. S. Iryine, who all unexpectedly dropped in a few hours before.

The bride wore a costume of steel-gray silk and wool goods, with grey silk trimmings the culy ornament being a handsome brooch of clivenes and brilliants, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaid, a tried and true friend of the bride, was Miss Lewis, of Mt. Forest. She wore navy blue with white silk and appleque trimmings. Immediately after the ceremony the company partook of a sumptuous dinner at the bride's home.

Though the wedding was quite unostentations, the bride received some elegant presents their elegance being matched by their usefulness. A yery mother gone.
