ride down and overwhelm the British defence. British guns shelled the charging Boers, but nothing stopped their onslaught, which was carried out with resistless impetus. The convoy of mules was subjected to a heavy fire.

They stampeded and put many of the defenders temporarily out of action, and caused the wildest confusion. For two hours the British held out. They then divided, and were surrounded. with a married daughter. Mother-in-law and con-in-law could not agree very wen and the widow decided to enter matrimony again. She did not consider herself too old to seek a husband, and inserted an advertisement in a matrimonial paper. This was about six months ago. In it Mrs. Ray refrained from giving her true age, but stated, it is said, that she was 30 years old and believed she could make a loving and dutiful wife.

Ellis became impressed with the wording of the advertisement and believed he could prove himself an affectionate and loving husband. Accordingly he wrote to the "young" and handsome widow. The couple began corresponding and also exchanged photographs. The correspondence continued until three weeks ago, when Ellis appeared unexpectedly in the Indiana town. It was the first time the couple had met and apparently it was a case of love on the part of both. Two weeks ago they agreed to become married and journeyed to Valparaiso, Ind., where a minister made them husband and wife. A week ago last Monday they ar rived in Chicago with the intention of starting housekeeping, it being planned that Ellis should rent a flat, purchase furniture and secure a position as a carpenter. The couple secured rooms at the home of Mrs. Foll and appeared to be happy.

A VOLUNTEER RESERVE ALSO.

London, March 10 .- In introducing the army estimates of £69,310,000 in the House of Commons to-day, War Secretary Brodrick entered into a long defence of the War Office, which he contended had done its work well, considering that a war had never before been waged on such a scale as the South African war. The War Office to-day was feeding 300,000 Trainload of Young Women rica, and there were no complaints men and 246,001 horses in South Mon that score. rick believed the limit had been reached. No reduction in the pected, and probably the Indian garrisons must be increased. The country had already enough experience of allowing the colonial garrisons to sink below their proper limits.

With the view of giving a fillip to recruiting, Mr. Brodrick said the Government proposed to allow enlistment for three years, with nine years in the reserve, and with the object of inducing men to enlist for India and elsewhere abroad, it was proposed to give every man a clear shilling per day. If, after two years, the soldier decided to serve eight years with the colors and four years in the reserve, he would be paid an extra sixpence daily. Mr. Brodrick believed this would result in enlisting a better class of men.

In regard to the much-discussed question of volunteers, Mr. Broda volunteer reserve of men over 40 years of age who were anable to comply with the ordinary regulasent year a military reserve of 50 .-000 men.
