THE CAMPAIGN.

Bills are out announcing Union Meetings for a week between the S. Grey Candidates beginning on Monday next. The opening gun will be fired at Louise on Monday night May 5, and the fireworks will continue at Elmwood on Tuesday, at Allan Park on Wednesday, at Latona on Thursday, at Townsend's Lake on Friday and at Tp. Hall, Glenelg, on Saturday. All meetings to be at 7.30 p. m., and the candidates only are to speak, and will take alternate meetings. We cannot say who is to open first.

We used the word "fireworks," but let no one imagine that the meetings are to be of an excitable, inflammatory nature. Clash there will be and difference of opinion, but before the week is over Mr. Binnie, will likely have Dr. Jamieson so thoroughly convinced of the integrity, ability, probity, honesty, &c., of the Ross government that opposition will be out of the question. True Dr. Jamieson may prove obdurate and it may take more than one week, still the weight of evidence is so strong that anything like "fireworks" is out of the question.

Mr. Binnie is making an excellent canvas, and is meeting with very warm support, sometimes from unexpected quarters. He is not blind to the fact that he has an able opponent against him, skilled in parliamentary warfare, and the contest would be much more difficult had the party he supports a different record, and had its present leaders been men of weight and ability.

The cry of "its time for a change" had effect in 1896 because the rottenness of the party in power was not hid even from their own supporters. The cry has not the same effect now for we find in Ontario a ministry more progressive than the opposition, with a record unassailable in all its spending departments, sitting in Parliament buildings erected without the breath of scandal, maintaining the financial credit of the province first in the Dominion, and about the only, if not the only state in the English speaking world without a cent of debt, but a handsome surplus.

Turn these men out? "Its never time for a change for the worse," says the London Advertiser, and the people of South Grey we believe, will, on this occasion rise and say that they will honor themselves by returning a supporter of this wise and progressive government, which even Conservatives admit will be sustained in the province; will return in Mr. Binnie, a supporter who is not only a careful student of public affairs, but a man who has proved by his past career that he has the will to do and the ability to achieve great things in the interest of the public.

Build up Ontario, Remember Ross, and mark your Ballot for Binnie.

NO GOOD CRY.

"Saturday Night" in discussing the political outlook sums up the situation thus: "If any large question of policy or public morals were hanging on the count of heads to be made on May 29th, the indifference of the electorate would be deplorable and ominous. But the general opinion is that the fight is a very 'ordinary' kind of a struggle for power, and the general opinion, as usual, seems to be pretty near the truth. This being the case, the men now in office, unless it can be shown that they have committed some decided breach of trust meriting censure and punishment by their employers, have the best of the argument and are likely to benefit from the marked apathy of feeling, which in itself is evidence that they have not forfeited their right to confidence. Governments are not turned out of office without cause and a general uprising of hostile public opinion. In 1878 and again in 1886 the signs that presaged the downfall of Dominion Ministries were unmistakable. Up to the present moment in this campaign no such signs are apparent. There seems to be no wave of enthusiasm setting towards the Government, but on the other hand there is none bearing Mr. J. P. Whitney on its crest. And an Opposition is always more in need of enthusiasm than is a Government. With a good cry Mr. Whitney might succeed in inflaming the electorate, but he has so far not been able to hit upon such a slogan, and inasmuch as the Government is content to go to the country on its record, the fighting is not being forced by either side, and the popular attitude has resolved itself into that of a somewhat bored and decidedly impartial spectator."

DO YOU KEEP COWS?

IF SO, DO YOU KEEP RECORDS?

It pays to make a study of the Cow.

The attention of farmers and dairymen is directed to the following facts, for as a means of converting the raw products of the farm into more saleable forms, the good dairy cow is without a peer.

The good beefing animal will pay very little more than market prices for food fed from birth to shambles. The sheep, with her fleece and her lambs gives only a very modest profit on food consumed. The pig and the hen, if wisely fed, do much better than either of the above, but it is very seldom that the returns from either of them go beyond one dollar and fifty cents for one dollar's worth of food consumed.

The dairy cow, however, frequently goes as high as two dollars worth of product for one dollar worth of food, and many a cow has been known to give two dollars and fifty cents worth of products for one dollar's worth of food consumed.

Most herds fall short of such a high return. The reasons may be summarized as lack of breeding, improper or insufficient feeding, and lack of judgment and management.

Every dairy herd (young) should average over fifty dollars worth of products per cow per year. If your herd is not giving you such a return you are not doing it justice. Possibly, every individual in the herd is not a number one dairy cow, but do you know which are really doing good work and the relative merits of the different cows?

In order to know your cows you must keep a daily record of the milk yielded by each cow. We would like to see you do this. We are willing to help you do it. During the past year a number of dairy farmers, at our suggestion, made an effort along this line. The results were most satisfactory. In our possession are many farmer's letters, emphasizing the importance and value of such records, both as a guide in selecting cows and as an effective means of directly improving the actual herd. The extra outlay required is very small. We would supply you with record forms for a time at least. The keeping of such records takes about one half minute per cow per day. The outlay for a balance would be from fifty cents to five dollars.

The increased flow of milk due to keeping such a record where ten cows are kept would pay for the balance in a week. Keeping milking records induces a spirit of interest and competition among milkers, and, in the mind of the milker, among the cows milked by the same milker. Rapid, clean, and careful milking will raise the average return from a cow by from two to ten per cent according to the cow—the better the cow the greater the increase.

If you ever sell cows, the ability to give an accurate milk record, will, generally speaking, raise a cow's value, and facilitate the sale. Especially is this true if she is a pure bred. Further, knowing the returns from each cow in any herd, you are in a position to easily select for breeding, besides, in almost every herd are found "Boarders"—cows that pay a very low price for their food, leave no profit, and frequently are kept at a loss. They should be detected and fed off for beef. Keeping a milk record is a sure way to discover them. To the breeder of pure bred stock of any of the milking breeds, Jersey, Guernsey, Ayrshire, Canadian, or milkling Shorthorn strains, the daily milk record should be quite as important as the breeding record. We venture the assumption that in a very few years, every breed put forward any claims as a dairy breed, will be making a speciality of milk records.

The reasons are obvious. Beauty of style, color, and conformation are very important, and where the breeder makes his money in some other line than farming, he may be able to keep animals for their looks alone. We, who are farming for money, must look to the profit side of everything. With us, "Handsome is as handsome does". The Holstein men have made a movement in the right direction with their advanced Registry; the Guernsey breeders are working along similar lines. It would thus seem to be a good thing for some breeds, and we are sure it would be the most important step for improvement that you ever made. Do you decide to introduce it?

Let us urge upon you, therefore, the advisability of keeping such a record. We would be most happy to send you forms for keeping the daily record, as well as forms whereon to make a summary to be kept for reference. When you write for the forms, please state the number of cows kept and address all letters to:—"J. H. Grisdale, Agriculturist, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont." Letters so addressed come post free.

TREE PLANTING.

Written for the Review by Mr. Gilbert McKechnie.

Last spring we devoted a little attention to this question and yet we feel as if this was a question regarding which too much attention cannot be given, or a month. We must be generous and artistic in planting trees. We should not conclude it is only intended for the benefit of the present generation to feast their eyes upon for it is truly a national move and intended for the benefit of present and future generations. Look at that tree at the north-west corner of McFarlane's Drug Store, only two years since it was planted, a monster in itself, and those two trees in front of the market buildings only planted last year are large and vigorous. We might draw attention to other trees of last year's planting, but a word to the wise should be sufficient. Throughout the province this is a subject that for some time seems to have engrossed a fair share of public attention because no matter where you go or what village or town you visit it is daily becoming more and more apparent that those towns and villages are nestling in and reveling in the luxury of beautiful green trees. The streets are clad with them whichever way you look and where a tree dies or in some way or other becomes disabled the hand of the diligent and frugal replaces it, so that those towns and villages may be made to keep continuously smiling in their beautiful verdure.

Durham should be no exception to this class of towns. Our people are as pushing and as energetic as others and are not behind in admiration of streets nicely clad with trees emblematic of our country. What can be prettier than a good healthy maple that has attained a good share of growth with its well developed and expanding branches? The shade they afford becomes compensation for the labor expended upon them and a reward is found in the appearance of the street fringed with the same rich color as the most beautiful of all carpets—the green carpet of nature.

For several years tree planting has been observed in isolated cases, but unfortunately the duty of replacing those that died has not been followed up. When this has been done the planter has been satisfied that his labor has not been in vain, and a similar course of stick-to-itiveness would be crowned with the same success.

1901, the commencement of a new century, was also the beginning of a new era in tree planting here when an organized effort was made to beautify Garraux Street especially, and several residential streets as well. A good percentage of the trees planted from the bridge northwards, are coming forth strong and vigorous, and in a few days will be out in leaf. 55 from the bridge to the Durham road show life and vitality. This record of the first year of the century is worthy of being repeated on a wider scale this year and we will soon have a town that the County will be proud of. The point to remember is that the work is not done till every dead tree is replaced by a healthy growing one, and where none are yet planted, it should be done at once.

To go further we would like to impress our farmer friends that they have a duty to perform in this respect, viz: to plant rows of maples in front of or adjacent to their farms, and we are are dependent in a large measure on the food we eat. Bread is so much a sustainer of health and strength as to deserve the appellation "The Staff of Life." confident they will feel amply rewarded and be only too willing to replace those that die.

A very important feature attached to this district is the numerous creeks of sparkling spring water, whose banks, adorned with trees, would give our country a romantic and picturesque appearance, and would very materially increase the value of the property adjoining.

When there is a hill on a farm, not cultivated, nor likely to be, in the present generation, plant it in trees after seeding down with perpetual grass, and let the trees be far enough apart to enable the grass to come forward with vigor. By this means the hills would become the best grazing spots on the farm, retaining moisture unthought of in the past and preventing the drying up in June we so frequently see.

What a change! Could anything be more pleasing to the thrifty agriculturist! Then will the forests clap their hands with joy, and the "once upon a time" barren places be made glad and blossom as the rose.
