Economy In The Home.

The following paper was given by Mrs. W. J. Derby, Vickers, at the Aug. meeting of the S. G. Women's Institute held at Mrs. Geo. Rennie's business.

"What we generally understand by 'economy' is the saving of money. It is not merely that; one may be so saving as to be called stingy and mean. There is no meanness in true economy! It is foresight and arrangement; it is making provision for contingencies. We all wish to have a competence, and it is every person's duty to provide for possible extra expenses if at all practicable.

None of us wish to be called miserly, that is the hoarding up of money just for the pleasure of counting it over, and looking at it. We want some higher motive, than that for saving. Economy is generosity in little things. That old saying 'Take care of the pennies and the pounds will take care of themselves' is very true. If we do not look after the small leaks in the home, how soon there will be large ones not so easily mended.

That reminds one of the mending basket. 'A stitch in time saves nine.' We all know how necessary it is to keep everything in good repair. It is so important for the comfort and happiness of the home; as is the spring house-cleaning, or the purchasing of a new piece of furniture, which we look upon as big things. We should also plan our time, and time is money in this country; have a place for everything, and everything in its place.

How important is 'Economy' in the homes of the poor, it is a necessity there. We know how most of our parents had to save and toil to make ends meet, in their struggle with the many difficulties and hardships incident to a life in the woods before the land was cleared. They had to be saying that they might someday have comfortable homes for themselves and families. A little went a long way in those days; they really learnt through practice the knack of saving, that nothing might be lost.

There is often more true happiness in the home of the working man, where every care has to be taken that nothing be wasted than in the home of the millionaire. In teaching our children while young the proper use of money, how to spend it wisely and well, showing them the meaning of true economy, both by precept and example, is a lesson they will thank us for in after life.

When children see their parents spending money recklessly on things that are not of much use or on luxuries, that might be done without, just because a neighbor has them, how can they be expected not to go and do likewise when they have means of their own.

There are so many temptations to spend money in these times that are sometimes hard to withstand. We are in the habit of saying, 'Oh its only ten cents, or a quarter, or fifty cents, as the case may be, and we will never miss it, but it must be remembered that 'many littles make a muckle.' A housekeeper, or more properly speaking, a homemaker, should conduct her household affairs in a business-like manner by keeping an account of income and expenditure, and at the end of the year balance accounts. One can scarcely estimate how much it takes to meet necessary expenses unless they do so.

Now we are aware that there are families where the income is limited, and the needful expenses cannot be very small, who live well, are happy and contented, comfortable and respected by all, and yet perchance their next door neighbor, who has an income more than double, is not so prosperous. What can be the matter? It must be that they are not so economical as the former, they spend their money carelessly, having no management in their home.

We ought to be economical, in order that we may have something to give away. It has been said that Economy is the nurse of liberty. It is a Christian duty to be careful of the means God has entrusted to us, for our use, as we will sometime be called upon to give an account of our stewardship.

Christ himself gave us an example; He who could command the winds and the waves, did not think it beneath Him, to set His disciples to work to gather up the scraps of fish and bread, which He had provided at so little effort and cost. He showed His power in providing, His liberality in bestowing, and His carefulness in saving. He did this for our sakes, to give us a lesson of that true economy, without which the human race cannot be maintained.

Then let us not be ashamed of using economy in our homes or of saving in any way that may be necessary. Some people would as soon be caught stealing as saving. They surely do not understand the meaning of the word.

It is better for young people to have this true spirit of Economy, combined with industry than to be left a fortune.

There are so many phases of Economy in the home, that to go into detail would take up too much time. Each subject would need to be taken over by itself.

For instance, the preparation of food so as to have it palatable as well as nutritious. We are aware that properly cooked food, such as meats and vegetables, are a source of health, and if we are healthy why we save ourselves the trouble and expense of taking medicine, and sometimes, in addition medical advice. Also in the matter of clothing there is great scope for wisdom and economy, what woman, who has to look after the details of the wardrobe has not much time and thought to give to that one thing. What we need to do, is to govern our expenditure to suit our income, not to live up to it, but within it. Then our advice would be:— Don't run into Debt. Don't run in debt, never mind, never mind. If your clothes are faded and torn; Fix 'em up, make them do, it is better

Than have the heart weary and torn. Who'll love you the more for the cut of your hat Or your ruff, or the tie of your shoe. The shape of your vest, or your boots or cravat. If they know you're in debt for the new? There's no comfort I tell you in walking the street In fine clothes, if you know you're in debt. And feel that some tradesman perchance you may meet. Who'll sneer 'they're not paid for yet.'

Good friends, let me beg of you, don't run in debt. If the chairs and the sofas are old, They will fit your back better than any new set. Unless they are paid for with gold. If the house is too small, draw closer together. Keep it warm with a hearty good will. A big one unpaid for, in all kinds of weather. Will tend to your warm hearts a chill. Don't run in debt now, dear girls; take the hint. If the fashions have changed since last season, Old nature is out in the very same tint, And old nature we think has some reason.

Just say to your friends that you cannot afford. To spend time to keep up with the fashions; That your purse is too tight, and you honor too bright. To be tarnished by such silly passions Gents, don't run in debt; let your friends, if they can Have the horses, fine feathers, and flowers. But unless they are paid for, be more of a man. Then to envy the sunny hours.

If you've money to spare, I've nothing to say: Spend your pounds and your pence as you please. But mind you, the man who his note Is the man who is never at ease. Kind husband, now don't run in debt any more. 'Twill fill your wife's cup full of sorrow To know that a neighbor will call at your door. With a bill you must settle to-morrow. Oh! take my advice, it is good, it is true, But, let you may some of you doubt it.

I'll whisper a secret, now, seeing 'tis you: I've tried it, and know all about it.'

Intended for last week

A meeting of the Women's Institute held at the home of Mr W L Dixon passed off very successfully on Thursday the 2nd inst. No gentlemen being admitted, a mysterious masculine feeling pervades the atmosphere, but we believe all questions on the face of the earth or the waters under the earth are discussed to their mutual advantage and edification.

Mr Wm Coleridge with his fair and charming young bride visited friends and neighbors here before leaving for their home in Owen Sound. A meeting of the local bee ring was held last week at the home of Mr Wm Brown for the purpose of winding up the business of the year's operations. A general feeling of satisfaction prevails as regards the system does, choice from leaf during the month of summer. The cattle slaughtered averaged 40 lbs dressed. The heaviest animals being put in by Messrs John Snell and Alex Ferguson which weighed 516 and 494 lbs respectively. Mr Wm Thompson, Varrey, did his work satisfactorily. A meeting to arrange for next year will be held on the 14th Nov at Wm Brown's.

This Week's Budget.

A very pleasant and sociable evening was spent on Friday evening last when the Dromore choir together with the choir of the Hall at Greenside accepted the invitation of Ebenezer choir to enjoy their hospitality and good cheer at their church. Needless to say the most sanguine expectations were realized, where spirits of a kindred nature meet together and pass an hour or two in sweet melody and rapturous harmony! At the close an excellent lunch was served to all present, after which speeches were given by Messrs T Bothwell and W L Dixon expressive of the pleasure they had in having them with them and by Messrs Wm Moore, Robbie Renwick, J A Wilson, Wm Isaacs and Jas Coleridge of the equal pleasure they had on being present. Mr Wm Ramage from his connection with all three choirs acted as chairman and expressed his pleasure with the selections characteristic of the gathering. Miss Kate Dixon replied to the vote of thanks to the ladies for the excellent provision made for the inner man. Miss Scott, sister of Mrs John Snell and Miss Warwick, cousin of the latter, were welcome visitors at the meeting.

Mr Collins, from San Francisco, California, was visiting his sister, Mrs F Hargrave for a few days.

Mr and Mrs Falconer, Mono Road, were guests of their three daughters here for a few days: Mrs Jos Moore, Mrs J H Moore and Mrs Peter Muir.

Mr Matthew Hooper has invested in a new steam engine to take the place of horses on his separator. This practically shelves the last of this class of old fashioned powers, so useful in their day and a new generation will never know the rush and excitement to have 'horses off' first as the work of the day was done.

Mr Austin Haan filled his new silo the other day, full to overflowing, using Dixon's blower.

Mr W J Jones, O. Sonny, visited his grandfather, Mr Jno Horsvly and other friends last week and this.

A prayer meeting is to be held at Mr R Baxter's on Friday night at which the ordinance of baptism will be administered by Rev Mr Campbell.

Dromore choir has been invited to spend a social evening at Mr David Hamilton's on Thursday of this week. Mr H has lately invested in a new Bell organ.

Live Stock Market Toronto.

Trade was slow at the Toronto Cattle Market to-day on account of a scarcity of good stock, and many buyers took a holiday. The run was light and there were a great many rough cattle offered. Sheep were unchanged and lambs were easier. Hogs were steady. The total run was 76 loads, including 880 cattle, 761 sheep and lambs, 24 calves and 1,678 hogs.

The receipts were not large, but it took a long time to sell them. Prices were lower at $4.80 to $5.25 per cwt for the choice grades and $4.40 to $4.80 for mediums.

Butchers' Cattle—There is a scarcity of good cattle for export and for the local cattle. Export butchers are quoted at $4.75 to $5 per cwt and picked lots at $4.25 to $4.75. Choice cattle sell at $3.75 to $4.25, while medium and common lots are dull and unchanged.

Bulls—The best bulls here are quoted at $4.50 per cwt and other heavy bulls sell down to $4. Light export bulls are quiet and unchanged at $3.50 to $4.

Milch Cows—The receipts included no first-class animals and quotations are lower. Cows sold to-day at $35 to $50. Good ones are in demand and they would bring high prices.

Sleep and Lambs—Receipts were light and everything was sold. Trade is by no means brisk, however, and the outlook is not particularly encouraging. Export ewes are unchanged, and other sheep are steady. Lambs are 5c lower at $3.50 to $3.75 per cwt.

Calves—Good ones are still badly wanted, selling up to $10 readily. The supply is rather small.

Hogs—Market is steady, with prices unchanged at $6.37 1/2 per cwt for select and $6.12 1/2 for lights and fats. The run was light, but the market is easy and lower prices for next week's deliveries are anticipated by dealers.
