LEAVE JUDGMENTS TO OTHERS.

Don't judge by appearances is a pretty old saying, is it not? It seems as though those four words were dinned into our ears many years ago, but they are just as true as they are

Why is it that women judge by ap-Threes so often? Tacy have the reputation of being severe jidges of their own sex, and not without cause, it must be confessed, says a writer in the Philadelphin Public Ledger. It is often said that a peculiar costume, a disagreeable to e of voice, an abruptness of manner, which is quite as likely to be caused by shyness or indifference, cause some woman to conceive an immediate prejudice against another. The person is judged by the act.

Turn the words the other way and see how much better a world it would be did the "judgers" judge this way .: Judge the act by the person.

If you must judge at all, think out the character of the person involved with as broad an intent as is in you. and then throw the light of your research upon the act to be censured? Is it not a brighter thing now?

Extenuating circumstances arise out of the character of the presumed wrong-doer that will often turn the act into a blessing. It was only the outward part of the thing that showed a wrong, and after all that was meant to cover a deed all good at the bottom.

There are persons who are gruff and cross only because they hate to be thanked when they do kind things, and for days after are as cross as bears for fear someone will have found them out in their well-doing and will express their gratefulness or appreciation in words.

Must these "cross" persons be called cruel because their voices sound harshly to a newcomer's ear who knows nothing at all about their character or the underlying reasons for the harsh "now do you do, sir?"

Women are high strung creatures, pitched to the highest key very often wnen something has gone wrong, perhaps cruelly wrong. Is that a just and nasty" because they meet you and do not smile quite as cheerfully as you have a right to expect?

Everyone is preoccupied at times, pers; in fact, some very wise old seers have said they have no possible use for a woman who is always the same. Then why is it that every one of us is not more willing to days of 'feeling badly" in our sisters, and to make allowance for them? Instead of that we immediately consider that if we meet a woman and she does not seem to agreeable woman, and "we don't think we care to know her." There is such a thing as instinctive dislike which a sensitive nature feels the moment it comes in contact with insincerity, deceit or vulgarity. But this is quite a different thing from Judging harshly or unjustly because "she is a little peculthe person in question has not sufficiently appreciated us, or has not been as quick as might have been forget it and be better for the expected in their demonstration of appreciation. CONTROLLED LIGHTNING.

A Milton Man Describes Marconi's Wiceless System.

Upon a recent visit to Sydney, Mr. F. H. Deacon, son of Inspector J. S. Mr. Deacon received an invitation along with six others to inspect Mr. Marconi's wireless station at Glace Bay. Mr. Deacon thus describes the wireless method; Very strong currents of electricity are brought into contact, this collision causing flashes and sound like lightning. There is a keyboard and the Morse code is used for transmitting and the telephone for receiving messages. Practically the system is controlled lightning, the length of the flashes or rather reports, giving the receiving operator the message. The reports are so loud that the members of the visiting party put cotton-batting into their ears to prevent injury to the drums. The flashes are also hard on the eyes. Mr. Marconi said that he was constructing a sound-proof box which would prevent injury to the operators' eyes or ears. The reports are carried by a single wire from the building to an arch-shaped bar of steel, which is suspended in the air by about 50 wires which connect with the crosswires from the two towers. The towers are 220 feet high, about the shape of derricks, and the outside gible. is called, a harp.
