Emperor William's decision to build a palace for himself at Posen, the capital of Prassian Po and with the object of increasing his hold upon the loyalty of his Polish subjects, serves to call attention to the fact that he possesses already no less than 53 residences. Three of these are at Berlin, the Royal Schloss or Palace, the Bellevue Palace and the Montbijou Palace, and there is the Charlottenburg Palace in the suburbs. At Potsdam and in the vicinity, he has 13, including the Stadtschloss, the Henes Palais, Sans-Souci, the Marble Palace, Bebelsborg, the Orangery, the Belvedere Palace. etc. Besides these he has palaces at Cassel, Wiesbaden, Homburg, Stettin, Hanover, Koenigsberg, Indeed. in nearly every big city of his dominions, their maintenance making a great hole in his annual civil list.

OXYGENIZED WATER.

lost Simple and Painless Method of Destroying Superfluous Hair.

Oxygenized water furnishes a simple, harmless and painless means of getting rid of superfluous hair. This fact M. Gallois, of Paris, discovered by accident. Having read that it would cause red spots in the hair to disappear, he used it for that purpose: the result was that he found that it also destroyed the hair. Moreover it has long been known that oxygenated water applied to the hair changes the color into the Venetian tint so much admired.

Here is M. Gallois' method, which is extremely simple. He saturates a pad of cotton with oxygenized water and applies it to the part which he wishes to deprive of hair, leaving it there for several minutes. He renews the application daily until the desired result is obtained. Suppose. for instance, it is the hair on the upper lip that is in question. The hair quickly loses its color and becomes a mere colorless down, absolutely imperceptible. If the applications are continued the hair becomes attenuated, breaks off and dis- | system.

The method is painless and has no ill result. The only inconvenience is that the hair is not absolutely destroyed, and that the application of oxygenized water will have to be recommended. But, as far as women are concerned, the applications are not complicated; they merely consituate an addition to the artifices for ordinary food. of the toilet. There is only one precaution to be taken. The oxygenized water must not be allowed to moisten any stuff to which value is attached, for it destroys tissues as well as burns hair .- European Edition of New York Herald.
