LIFE IN DAWSON; A PROGRESSIVE TOWN N. Y. Sun.

 According to the latest official information, Dawson City is being transformed into a town with a good deal of general business beside gold m bing, and is acquiring a settled and a civilized aspect

There are now five miles of macadamized streets in the city. The settled population is about seven thousand, nearly half of the total population of the Klondike mining district. Two bundred of the Canadian Mounted Police maintain order.

The Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists and Salvation Army all have well built places of worship. Five small hospitals are maintained for the sick. Three daily three theatres afford amusement and | Detroit, Mich there are four mutual benefit soci-

Three companies with twenty-three steamers give facilities for freight and passengers on the upper Yukon, and eight other steamboat companies with forty-one steamers handle the traffic of the river between Dawson

There has been a large drop in the prices of many commodities as the facilities for transportation between Dawson and the ocean have improved. Coffee is now sold at 50 cents a pound, canned meats at 50 cents a can, fresh beef (the cattle being driven into the country) at the very low price of 25 cents a pound, pork and fish at 50 cents a pound, butter 35 cents a pound, eggs at 50 cents a dozen, potatoes at $2.50 a bushel, and oranges at 50 cents a dozen. On the whole, however, living, judged by our standards, is still very dear. Many cigars sell as high as a dollar pitchfork, with MINARD'S LINI- of magnesium the metal obtained is

The wages of miners is $3 a day. and even at this rate their savings are not very large. It was estimated that in 1901 the average purchasing power of $1 in eastern Canada was equal to that of $6 at Dawson. The ratio in 1902 was estimated at $1 to $4.50, showing that the high prices at Dawson are gradually decreasing.

The smallest piece of money that has currency in the Klondike is 25 cents. The daily papers are smaller Canada, but they sell for 25 cents a number, $4 by the month and $40 recently said that the period of fancy prices had now passed away forever, of these are in light colors. A betwas compelled to admit that he had just paid a quarter of a dollar for a pair of ordinary shoestrings. Rents are still very high. An office which in Eastern Canada would be rented for $30 a month costs $130 on the Klondike. A table waitress receives $100 a month and a maid of all work earns from $75 to $125.

Hotel charges are high, but not exorbitant, for this out-of-the-way part of the world. A small room costs $2,50 a day. Breakfast and funch are served at 75 cents each dinger at $1, and the meals are better than might be expected so far away in the wilderness.

It is probable that for many years the Klondke region will be very important in the gold industry, though t may pever again equal its past annual record. The placers of the Klondike yielded, according to officlai figures in 1897, $2,250,000 with no machinery and no roads, so that transportation was very difficult.

The Real Khartoum.

There have been some marvellous stories of the transformation of Khartoum under British rule. One writer saw a vision of a stately city, with beautiful lawns and gardens, wide streets, churches, a college and magnificent Government offices; a handsome palace built red brick faced with stone; a railway running into the city, and fast steamers plying on the Nile. All this where there had been five years earlier a reeking buddle of mud huts. An unfortunate exile in the Soudan, who has been looking for this stately city, says, Khartoum is still no more than a big village; the palace and Government offices are nothing worth talking about; the churches are non-existent; the Gordon college, still quite incomplete, might pass for a red brick barn; there are no roads, except just around the palace; the railway is a narrowgauge track, on which a miniature engine draws the material for the new Government buildings; the traveller can only enter the stately city on his own legs or on the back of a native donkey; and the fast steamers plying on the Nile would not compete with the fleet of the late Thames Steamboat Company.
