THE GROWING WEST.—A letter from Mr. Michael O'Neill gives a vivid impression of the great invasion. Writing from Saskatoon, he says : "When I landed here in July 1902, there were only a few buildings, now it is a town. The immigration is very large. About 2300 English settlers as you will have read, came here and drove to Battleford, 90 miles, some having horses, some oxen. As for myself I have homesteaded 22 miles South-West of Saskatoon, Last there are a dozen or more of "shacks" the township east of us last week, and spring, mostly well-to-do Americans from Dakota. The country here is clay loam, no stone, and water got at from 25 to 30 feet. Wheat yields 25 to 35 bus oats 50 to 100, and fiax about 20 bushels. I have ploughed 20 acres this spring and have a small crop in. I am enjoying the climate, the country and the home news in the REVIEW."

THE GAMEY-STRATTON TRIAL.

Everyone is waiting this week with Bengough, an expert from Toronto, keen anxiety for the finding of the commissioners in this famous case. The genuineness or falseness of which the great trial has done good in awakening public opinion to the evil of practices that lead to corruption, and yet which are sanctioned by both parties. The glaring perjury also of some of the witnesses has aroused a feeling that will not be greatified upless the avil is much. THE LATE MRS. PECKOVER.

The following obituary of a wellknown Egremont lady was sent us last week, and her death will call forth deep

Death called away, Monday eyening, Kodak regrets.-Ed. May 4, 1903. Janet Galbraith, beloved wife of Chas. Peckover, of Sperling district, at the age of 38 years. She had The Rev. Wray R. Smith and wife | been ill for some months with tuberculting in. a surgical operation was deemed necessary to afford temporary relief. She bore her suffering with great forti-

She, with her husband, came here 11 years ago from Con. 12, Egremont, and had won the esteem of a large circle of friends. Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves four daughters and one son, 4 years old. The funeral on May 6th was largely attended. Service at Jackson, Mich., where she will visit her | house and grave was conducted by Rev. Mr. A. C. Beaton left Tuesday morning for the North West, with a carload Wilson, Malcolm McKee, Andrew and Robert Waddel. The brothers and sisters supplied a beautiful floral wreath in loving regard of her memory.

> In memory of Mrs. Chas. Peckover. Sperling. Man, who died on May 4, 1903, aged 38 years. The beauty and light of the day so bright,

Has set in the western sky. The green-clad hills and the ripplingrills No longer can I descry. That sun shall rise and the day return But alas! on this earthly shore

The sun and light of that home once bright, Has set for to rise no more. Away from that home of tranquil joy Where the light of true love shone bright The angel of death with his sickening breath Has snatch-ed a flower to-night.

That flower was a mother, loving and true By the hand of death laid low. But brightly she blooms in heavenly rooms. Where fading she never will know.

Into that garden where trees of life. Are nourished by heavenly love: That flower of earth has been given new birth, In the beautiful garden above. No more those hands shall willingly ply, In making an earth home bright,

Those beautiful hands wave the victor's palm. In regions of endless light. No more those feet shall busity run. On pathways of earthly love.

Now tread do these feet on the golden street. Of the city of God above. Oh! husband weep not that your wife has fi To the heavenly home been ta'en,

She's a guiding star, to shine from far, And lighten your way on life's main. And children who often together sang. With mother in earthly home. Bereft though ye be, ye may one day see And sing with her round the throne.

Tis a lesson of life we all must learn, To look to a loving God Who will sometime say why He to-day Oft bids us "Come under the rod."

JESSIE WILSON. "A CASE OF FORGERY."

In our issue of April 30th we commented on an extract we made from the O. S. Times, under the above heading, in which a Mrs. Blunden claimed a large interest in the estate of the late Mr .mcPherson, of Artemesia. A letter we received last week from Mrs. Blunden's solicitor, Mr J. W. Frost, Owen Sound, informs us that the Times' article was "one-sided, unfair, a misrepresentation and a discredit to journalism," since no fewer than 8 local witnesses and Mr. T.

We freely give place to this informa-tion from the tolicitor's letter, and regret, while supplying, as we thought bona fide news, and helping to expose what seemed by the Times' article to be A number of the young people here a fraud, we were unconsciously giving information not strictly correct.
