THE PRETTY NURSE'S MARRIAGE CHANCES

(N. Y. Sun.)

An observer who has kept count both through the newspapers and by private statistics says that the trained nurse stands head on the list of women who make good marriages through their business associations; that the private secretary comes next, with the profescional housekeeper a little in her wake; that governesses and schoolteachers appear to have a very slim chance, and that the saleswomen and women engaged in commercial callings bring up the end of the procession as regards the converting of employers into husbands. Occasionally an artist marries his model, a chemist weds the assistant in his laboratory, or a dentist takes for his life partner the young woman who helps him to keep office. But till now the trained nurse has made more havoc with the singleblessedness of her employers than has any other order of working women. Various reasons are assigned for her success in this particular field.

"It's the uniform," says one. "White is so becoming and gives a young woman such a look of spotless innocence. Besides, the cap is tion. very fetching and a wonderful help to a girl who has not pretty hair or who has not the knack for arranging it prettily."

"It's because she appears when the victim is in a weak, helpless, you?" him out of a physical hole, and nat- stopping." ural gratitude serves to rivet his interest," says another.

"And a third holds that it is age. because the nurse looks so radiantly healthy and capable that she proves seductive to the man she is nursing, or in whose family she is of hygiene, is superior to nerves, and is able to keep tranquil at all times when all others in the household are distraught and helpless-a picture to incite any man's admiration."

WOMAN'S AGE A SECRET

"I don't think there is a partisle of necessity for a woman's telling her age," says one woman, adding. "But it is equally useless for pillows by an old sheet thrown over her not to tell it. There is always some one who knows it, and therefore if you attempt to prefaricate you are certain to be as a child's. This is not only the found out."

The favorite sticking age for women is 25. This is proved by the fact that the number of women returning themselves as between 20 and 25 is far larger than the number of girls returned 10 years before as between 10 and 15. The former must naturally be the survivors of the latter. Here is a little mystery of which the solution must be found in the intricate mazes of a woman's vanity. Betrothed Before Birth.

During the Middle Ages it was customary for princes and princesses to become betrothed and married in childhood to insure succession or political advantages. But it was only in exceptional cases that unborn children were disposed of in the same way. Such a case, however, is on record. It occurred in 1368, when Prince Sigmund, son of Emperor. Charles IV., was born. On his baptismal day he was betrothed to Leather bags can be freshened by Katherine, daughter of the Count of Nuremberg. The story of his work, which is told in an article in Leslie's Monthly for July, is as thrilling as it is true. How sternly he pursued his ap-
