

SOME MONEY SAVING ATTRACTIONS AT THE BIG STORE

THIS STORE anticipates every possible need of home and family, but instead of trying to make all the money we can, prices are made lowest just when you are likely to need the Goods. At times we buy very large quantities for Cash. These we expect to sell quickly, so as to make room for other regular purchasers. This gives manufacturers an outlet for their goods and a chance to turn their surplus stock into money—that explains the presence here of many bargains which seem almost impossible and helps us to offer these money saving attractions

 Editor Review,
 Dear Sir,
 As I made a half promise to send you a few lines, I will do what I can to redeem it, and you will excuse me if it should not prove very interesting, for I am somewhat fagged having written four letters already.

Our journey yesterday was enjoyable but the country through which the C. P. R. runs is less interesting than that of the G. T. R., particularly as we see so little of the St. Lawrence. The part we saw, with its Islands, proved a great contrast to the views on the Muskoka Lakes. The St. Lawrence Islands are flat nearly level with the water, the others elevated and rocky, hence more picturesque.

As we near Montreal, a new feature comes into view, a Mountain range in the distance. At last we reach the great emporium of trade, and are met at the station by Mr Carswell, Manager of the McLean Trade Journals in Montreal, who kindly assisted and accompanied us till we were safely in our state rooms. We have been fortunate in getting outside rooms, insuring plenty of fresh air.

This steamer is finely appointed and is beautifully decorated in white and gold. Mr. Cameron says the 2nd Cabin fare and accommodation is quite equal to the first class they enjoyed when he crossed 8 years ago.

Returning to Montreal, I may say that so far as we saw it, it is not so nice as Toronto, nor so advanced as we are, for we have entered the Cement age, whereas they are still in the stone age, and I saw pavings of brick.

Since coming aboard the heat has been intense, causing the death of six of the poor cattle below. This evening however, a change has come and we are expecting soon to don our winter clothing.

The scenery coming down the St. Lawrence is delightful, but I missed the most of it writing letters.

Reached Quebec at 4 p. m. to day and I looked with great interest at the historical old place where the destiny of Canada was decided. It is still a place of striking appearance though less so than 48 years ago, with its roofs of glittering zinc. I also observe that the habitans have modified their taste for color as 48 years ago, the roofs were all a bright scarlet.

We are lying at anchor for the last two hours as a fog set in suddenly. It is now, however, raining, which may disperse it. These fog come and go so suddenly as to interfere with navigation. An impromptu concert is in progress, and you will understand how difficult it is for me to concentrate my thoughts, so with kindest regards to all old friends I close my first letter.

MRS. J. CAMERON.
 SWINTON PARK.

Some of our people around this neighborhood have started haying.

Our football boys took the pleasure of driving out to Priceville last Friday to play foot ball. There were four teams played: Dromore and Markdale, Ceylon and Swinton Park. Dromore and Markdale played one hour and fifty minutes, but neither scored, and Ceylon and S. Park played one hour, the score being 4-1 in favor of Swinton Park, the first goal was made in less than one minute after the whistle blew for starting. Swinton Park had choice of goals and Ceylon had first kick off, but it was only played by three players, one of Ceylon men and two S. Park men played when the ball went flying through. The game came off very quiet as there was a first-class referee to handle the game. The Swinton Park players are as follows, names and positions they play:—goal keeper, Archie McLean; backs, Alex Ferguson, Jack Weir; half backs, Noble Wilson, Neil McKenzie, Willie Weir; forwards, Willie Brown, Dick Parslow, John Parslow, Leslie Watson. As Swinton was one man short we played with ten men. Jas Dixon, one of our best players was laid up with a game leg, but we hope he will soon be better again. The S. Park boys all enjoyed themselves at the garden party, and also at the concert at night.

I would be pleased to mention a few items regarding a garden party that came off at Proton Station, June 26th. A silver cup was put up for four teams to play for, Priceville, Proton St., Flesherston and Swinton Park. Priceville and Proton St played for one hour and neither scored, but allowed twenty minutes more to break the tie, and the two teams played but neither scored, and then Flesherston and S. Park played for one hour and Flesherston scored one goal in first half time by a penalty kick and shortly after half time Swinton Park scored a goal and when time was called the game was a tie, but the referee allowed twenty minutes more to play and Swinton Park boys lined up ready to play, but Flesherston refused to play so the game was given to S. Park. So Priceville and Proton St. have to play off to see who will win and Swinton Park will play the winners for the cup. Foot ball will be quiet till after haying now.

VARNNEY.

Max Allan has returned from Galt. Miss Derby of Hampden is spending a few days with Miss Ella Gadd. Miss M. Lawson is conducting a painting class which is reported to be doing well. Misses Eva and Maud Burnet are visiting their Aunt Mrs. Jas. Blyth. Quite a number of the Orangemen here spent the 13th at the Harriston demonstration. A number from here attended the funeral of Mrs. Watson on Saturday, mother of Mrs. Gray.

FROM THE FAR WEST.
 Cranbrook, B. C., June 30, 1903
 The chief industry of British Columbia is mining and that in course of time is bound to become more extensive. Those huge, ugly, yet sublime and awe-inspiring mountains are repositories of inexhaustible treasures. Gold, silver, lead, copper, and other minerals are here in unspeakable abundance. This fact is well known to every miner and prospector in the country. They know that this apparently enormous waste will be and be one of the largest sources of wealth to the British Empire.

At present times are rather flat. This is due to a combination of causes. In one camp I have visited only two mines out of thirteen are working at present. The reasons given are the falling of the price of copper and the impossibility of getting coke for the smelters. The flat I presume is due principally to the fact that so much has been mined of that article during the last few years that the market is overstocked though I am told there is some extensive prospecting during the last few weeks. The second cause of the present difficulty is due to the strike at Fernie, where the coal and coke required in this Kootenay country for smelting purposes comes from.

Strikes are very ordinary things in British Columbia, much to the detriment of the country's progress and to the welfare of the people. No person can depict the anguish and the suffering which is the outcome of a strike. Yet as capitalists combine for their own interests so must laborers combine for theirs in many cases their condition would be no better than that of the serfs of Russia. Still in a highly civilized country like ours strikes should be made impossible and every one should get a reasonable recompense for his exertions.

There is nothing that impresses me more forcibly than the intractableness of the enmity that exists in some communities between labor and capital. One night I attended a Socialistic meeting. The large hall was crowded—mostly men. The lecturer at the commencement of his speech announced his topic—the impeachment of Capital. He hailed from California and brought with him the blow and bombast that is so peculiar to our southern neighbors. He informed us of the great things he was going to do before he was done with us, how vividly he was to illuminate our dark and benighted minds on the sins of the wealthy and on the all important theme of socialism—the proposed cure for all human ills though I must confess I could not see he said such great things after all. True he had no hesitation in describing capitalists and money holders as thieves, robbers, blacklegs, scoundrels, murderers and with other high-toned epithets out some of us are too hard-headed to believe that even his own inferior edition of a millennium is to be brought about by speeches of that kind. He hesitated not in showing his lack in sympathy,—yes, more, enmity towards the Christian Church, and for that reason alone his efforts and the efforts of those like him will never be productive of any lasting good.

This is a sample of the way the Christian Church is viewed—Presbyterianism is useless in bringing about man's real good because a certain St. Andrew's Church received from Andrew Carnegie the gift of an organ whose peals reach the dying groans of those whom his minions murdered at Homestead. The Baptist Church is doomed because she is squandering under the name of the monster Capitalist and dare not raise her head to speak the truth for is not Rockefeller lavishing upon her his wealth stolen from millions—and the Methodist church too must be brushed aside as a worthless encumbrance upon society, for is there not within her communion J. P. Morgan who not very long ago went all the way from Chicago to San Francisco to give his experience, though the only experience he could honestly give is the successful way by which he has organized and reorganized the various combines of which he is the heartless, soulless, conscienceless, yet Almighty and all powerful head. Thus the Christian church and the capital I find merely playing into one another's hands, a supposition that is unjust, false and ridiculous.

For my own part I have no sympathy with any system or organization that ignores and despises the services rendered by the Church of Christ and that is so much concerned with material things that the unseen and eternal are entirely left out of view as is the case with this negative socialism of the Pacific coast and further if the gentleman who spoke to us is a fair sample of the high-toned working for the perfection of human conditions, of which the church and the gospel are alleged to be incapable, if he represents the class who is to usher in the day when righteousness shall reign triumphant in every land, why he is not to be regarded as a brother but as an enemy. I am afraid that time is a long way off yet. But I am thinking he is because he comes with the highest recommendations from his own quarter and because his most exaggerated and grotesque statements were received with deafening applause.

It must not be forgotten that there are two kinds of socialism, the Christian socialist and the socialist from whose life and teaching Christianity is an absent factor. They agree on the point that the system is entirely wrong which allows the few to enrich themselves at the expense of the many, which allows a few men favored by circumstances to crush, to harass and to persecute others. They both denounce our highly prized civilization which permits the making of multi-millionaires. Through the production of money some of whom hard-earned enough to keep body and soul together. They join hands in war against combines, trusts, monopolies, lust for inordinate wealth and power, child labor, starvation wages and similar kinds of ills and they both teach that lands, mines, forests, railroads, gas works, telephones, telegraphs and all public franchises which have passed into the hands of wealthy individuals or large corporations for selfish gain should be owned by the people of the country and operated by the government for the benefit of all the people, but they differ in regard to the possibility of a material paradise from which both soul and selfishness are forever excluded. The Christian socialist cannot get away from the truth, that sin is in the world, that it is in human nature and that it makes but very little difference what rules may be laid down or what happy conditions may be brought about, man will refuse to lose themselves wholly in the interest of others. Yea they will strive for advantage over others until they have a more extensive knowledge of Christ's will and are actuated by His principles which alone can change our human nature and properly guide human conduct. With him any kind of christian should live in perfect harmony, but the other which is much in evidence here does infinitely more harm than good. He holds his meetings on the Lord's day thus trampling upon the sacredness of that institution. He poisons the minds of his listeners with his agnosticism and materialism. He sneers at the church and refuses to enter within her walls—living up to his doctrine that moral and religious forces are worthless, that only political or at best social forces as viewed by him are deserving of his notice. This whatever good is in his system is rendered weak and ineffective by his own attitude towards the most essential things and by the erroneous standpoint he takes when he tries to make us believe that an earthly paradise is to be created through the medium of denunciating speeches and iron cast rules which he is formulating in B. C. and elsewhere.

Things can be improved for the comforts of mankind and they will be improved by public sentiment being educated along proper lines, but if the most potent forces in God's universe are will only go from bad to worse. Any other theory is only a freak of human nature, exactly on a par with some of the "fancy religion" we have in old Ontario.
