WELSECK.

One of the worst storms that has visited these paris for years struck our burg on Sunday. It commenced about 2 a m and continued all day getting worse in the evening, turning into what one might call a young to; nado. Cattle and borses that were turned out to water could not be driven from the stable door, prefering thirst to the violence of the storm. Business is demoralized, roads are blockaded, street car service is suspended, te:ephone lines are blown down and everything in genera confusion. Owing to the scarcity of water to the river styx the Welbeck sawnill can only inn two hours daily, but Mr Potter and his gang of men turn over the balance of the day to good account, taking out timber from this own swamp. Mr Jas Welch pathmaster on the base line, after receiving a grant from the council, put men and teams on last Saturday to shovel a piece of road near the corner on the 6th con This is one of the worst roads in the Durham, and it has been found that the spring and fall of any in Bertuck.
