Intended for last week

Well Mr Editor. Xmas is past and the old year is drawing to a close, reminding us that time is flying, that time waits for no man, even though the snow is neck deep and storming every day, with roads so bad that teaming is almost at a standstill, yet time goes on. Yet as we look back over the past year we are thankful to say it has been one of peace and prosperity to our land. We might recall many happy events during the past year would time and space permit us, yet could we not speak likewise of the many sorrows,—Yes, it has had its bright side as well as its dark side. In many a home one year ago the circle around the Xmas dinner was unbroken, to-day there is a vacant chair, there is sorrow there, yet time rolls on, but Mr Editor and readers, may we all as we we look back upon 1903. be able to say it was a year well spent and enter upon a new year with even brighter prospects for the future.

Shovelling snow and splitting wood is the order of the day. The great depth of snow on the roofs of buildings is doing a lot of damage. The roof of Mr D Eccles barn fell in and buried up his thrashing machine and a fine new cutter, doing a considerable damage to the machine and ruining the cutter. Also Robt Isaac's driving shed roof, breaking a lot of his implements and completely ruining his good binder; also the roof of John Calder's barn went down and last but not least about 100 ft of Amos Church sheds fell a victim to the heavy weight of snow.

Walter Thompson, of Galt vicinity, is the guest of the Hay family this week.

Messrs Harry Sterne, Jas Lester and Joseph Ellis spent their Xmas in Toronto. There must be some attraction there.

Mrs John Garson and family attended the wedding of her sister, Miss Sarah Tusker, last week at Feversham.

Alf Garson, of Guelph, is visiting his parental home at present.

Miss Mary Isaac is suffering from a very sore eye, which she got by coming in contact with the back of a chair.

L Rutherford, of Galt, is visiting at Ed Henderson's and other friends.

Wm Renwick, of Stratford, brightened the home of his parents, Mr C Renwick, on Xmas eve by his presence, after an absence of nearly three years.

T McIntyre, of Dundalk, and R Kennel, of Swinton Park, were callers of the Lothian family Xmas.

The Amos Church S. S. Xmas tree was held in Russell Hall on Xmas eve and notwithstanding the bad roads and stormy night, a fairly good crowd was present. The Hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with two trees formed into an arch, and loaded with presents for the children, put forth a beautiful appearance, and much credit is due to those who had the work in hand. The chair was taken by the Superintendant, G Lothian, who spoke of growth of the Sabbath School, that or the three years he had been Superintendant of Amos S. S. this was the banner one, over 140 children having attended last summer, which was encouraging to Supt and teachers and showed that the parents were interested in the Sabbath School and hoped that great would be their reward. The programme consisted of songs and recitations by the children. Following are the names of those taking part: Nellie Atchison, Mary Brown, Edgar Renwick, Aggie Adams, Murray Findlay, Effie McMillan, Ema Hay, Jessie Eccles, Bert Lester, Alex Findlay, Bella Lester, Arthur Martin, John Brown, Maggie McLean, Wallace Findlay, Chris Hay, Blanche Reid, Mary Findlay, Coletta McMillan, Grace Reid, Wm Sterne, Alma Renwick, Janet Hay. The Rev Mr Campbell addressed the meeting for a few minutes, encouraging the children, the teachers and the parents in the work of the Sabbath School. The distributing of the presents was the most interesting part of the program. Every child who had attended the school got a present and quite a number of others, who didn't attend. The Dromore choir added to the programme by a few selections. The program was one of the best we have had here and much credit is due to those who undertook the work.

We join in with the many others, Mr Ed., in wishing you and your staff a bright and prosperous New Year.

DORNOCH.

Intended for last issue.

Ring out the old, ring in the new;
Ring happy bells across the snow,
The year is going, let him go
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

On New Year's Eve it seems natural to think of years past, present and future. 'Tis nice to think of the year as a crown—the crown on New Year's day is but a skeleton frame, but on New Year's eve it should be studded with gems—365 bright sparkling stones. Each day is a rough, uncut stone; as each day pas-es it should be left behind bright and smooth, ready to be set. So every day has to be lived very perfectly and completely. its duties worked out, no opportunities lost, no time wasted. Then week by week, month by month the stones are set. On New Year's eve the last one of all is put in its place. What a beautiful crown it would be were all the stones worked and polished to perfection, each one shining at its brightest. But alas! a great many will be dull and rough, still very far from the ideal. 'Tis then our duty to watch and make the best use of our daily opportunities so that each gem in the crown will be so moulded and polished that its brilliant light may illuminate the dark paths which we tread in our journey o'er this vale of tears.

Miss Ryan, the popular teacher, in the separate school left last week to spend the Xmas vacation at her home in Georgetown. Some one will be lonely in her absence.

Robert Mills, of Kent county, is visiting his many friends in this vicinity.

Geo Vasey, left last week for Sudbury, after spending a few pleasant days in and around the burg.

Messrs John and Andrew Hay, of the Prairie Province ate Xmas Turkey at their home in Bentinck.

A colony of old Dornochers including Messrs Frank Skene, Peter Morrison, Jas., Robert and Wm Ledingham arrived last week from Alberta to spend Xmas around the scenes of their boyhood.

Miss Aitcheson, teacher near Seaforth, is spending the Xmas vacation with her brother, Rev Mr Aitcheson of this place.

Hale and hearty as of yore is Wm Corlett, of the Queen city, who is renewing old acquaintances in and around the burg.

C R McIntosh, Principal of Athens Model School, spent a pleasant fortnight holidaying in and around the burg.

Miss Mary Barry returned last week from the county town, where she has been attending the Model School.

The Xmas Tree entertainment held in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday eve was a marked success in every respect, considering the inclemency of the weather the attendance was very large, the commodious basement being fairly well filled. The Xmas Tree was loaded with good things for the children, while the singing, reciting, &c., was pronounced A 1. A quartette rendered by four of the choir was the hit of the evening, the singing being so melodious and full of pathos that you would think it was the great Patti holding the audience spell-bound. A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a fur coat to Wm Smith in consideration of the valuable services rendered as precentor in the church. The proceeds approximated $15.

This Week's Budget.

A winsome lady is Miss Hazel Dargavel, who is rusticating in the burg after an extended absence in the county town.

Rural schools re-opened on Monday, when the various teachers resumed their duty of teaching the young idea how to shoot.

Rev Jas Skene, of Hilisdale, preached in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening. His originality of thought and oratorical power make him a very impressive speaker.

Miss Mary Barry, left on Monday to take charge of a school near Fort William.

Geo McCourt left the village to spend a few weeks with society in the Canadian capital.

We wonder: What will become of Border Ruffian and Kentucky muddle since their caretaker has absquatulated.

NORTH EGREMONT.

The Orange Society, of Greenside, held their annual election of officers on the last day of the year and begins the new year with a newly elected set of officials. David McKelvey was re-elected W. Master, his qualities as a presiding officer, being too well known to admit of a change just yet; D. M., T Moore; Rec Sec., M Hooper; Fin Sec., J A Laughton; Treas., I Hooper; Chap., W J Hay; D. of C., Chas Small; Lect., J E Wells; Su Com Man., Geo Hargrave. Officers were installed by the P. M., when an enjoyable supper was served to all present.

Wm Bell, of Dromore, is again offering his farms for sale, the Koch Bros., having only rented the property, instead of buying as was generally supposed.

J McBeth, thoroughbred stock breeder, has purchased a bran new pig lately, of the improved Berkshire type, and is able to supply his customers with that or a Yorkshire as may be preferred.

At the school meeting held on Wednesday last, David McKelvey was elected Trustee in place of W P Watson. The caretaking was let for $20, and the wood for $1.65 per cord, to Jas Geddes and Eddie Wells, respectively.

Miss Selina Coleridge, after a short visit home, returned to her school last week, near Toronto. Miss M E McKenzie also left at the same time for the same place, after a short holiday at home.

W H Hargrave has been, and gone, and done, and got married to Miss Jennie Brown, S. Glenelg, on Wednesday of last week. We predicted some time ago that he was doing it up Brown, and now that he has thus verified our prophesy we wish him and his estimable and sociable young bride, a long, pleasant and prosperous journey through life.

Wm Tucker and his bride held a watch-night party at their home on Dec 31st, when an enjoyable time was spent in game and song. Wm has lately purchased a new cutter as a Christmas present to themselves since getting married. So you see it was through his own excellence that he captured a wife, and not through the cutter, as is sometimes erroneously stated by some correspondents.

Wm Moore Jr., youngest son of Joseph Moore, is at present home on a visit to his father and brothers, from Mono road, where he has been for over a year.

We sent a budget some two weeks ago, but suppose it must have gone astray in the mails. It dealt among other things of the return of John Whitmore from a visit to his sons in Rainy River, where he found them, together with Messrs Watson and Hastie, all doing well. Watson had purchased land across the river on the American side, and crossed and recrossed on the ice even at that early date to his work. It also dealt with the satisfaction prevailing in this part on the choice of the Reform convention.

In a recent letter from John A Wilson, recently of Dromore, but now of Edmonton, Alberta, he reports a beautiful winter so far, away ahead of Ont., with no snow on the 27th of Dec., and wheels still running. A temperature of 24 degrees below zero has been already registered, he experiences a good time generally and spent an enjoyable Xmas at the hospitable home of Mr and Mrs Alex Beaton, Straticona, late of Rob Roy, while we are struggling and floundering knee deep and farther in snow, while it is undoubtedly beautiful hanging in soft draperies on the limbs of the trees, as never before, creating for the time being a spectacle of grandeur, yet when it happens to fall in your neck, down to the small of your back, one is apt —if accustomed to it, to say words without a dash — in it, in accordance with the dictum expressed in a recent issue of the REVIEW.

Jas Hamilton arrived at his brother Davie's on Thursday evening last, quite unexpected, though welcome, from Dakota. He intends staying a couple of months.

Mrs David Hamilton returned last week from visiting her invalid sister, near Elora who unfortunately is not improving any.

Miss Mary Halpenny, after over a year's stay with the Rev Mr Kenning and his family, in New York, returned to her home here in time for the Christmas holidays. She intends remaining for the winter.

Miss Bella Weir is staying for a while at Mrs John Findlay's, Dromore. Her voice is missed from the Ebenezer choir.

Mr Roach announced that on Sunday, the 17th, a song service would be held at the Ebenezer, when in addition to some familiar hymns by the congregation, on which he would make some remarks, other selections would be rendered by the choir.

W L Dixon and daughter Hannah are at present on a visit to friends near Listowel.

Mrs Jones, of Owen Sound, paid a visit to her father, Mr J Hornsby, and other friends Christmas week.

IN LOVING MEMORY.

The following lines were composed by Mr John Campbell, of Swinton Park, on the death of his beloved wife some years ago. The substance we shall give as of course the lines are in Mr Campbell's beloved language, the gaelic. Mr C in the commencement of his poem, compares death to the time of harvesting, the subject of his lament being ready at its coming, he naturally mourned the loss of his beloved partner more especially when the day's toil was over, how delightful he listened to her beautiful conversation on the long winter's eve, on the glory that was awaiting the Christian when life's toils were over. She would never tire or get weary of speaking of the Heavenly Home. Nearly half a century they have been living together and that time seemed short to him. One month after being united they both left their native land, left friends all behind, to seek a home in the new country. Mr Campbell, in his closing lines, says: "Although he has friends in abundance he is left lonely, mourning his beloved partner, who would never leave him in loneliness, &c." Mr Campbell is now in his eighty-fifth year and is strong and healthy yet. He is always thankful, not selfish in any way, and the world would be better if it were full of such men as Mr Campbell
