HAD A SINGULAR STOMACH.

Queer Collection of Junk Found in Young Man's Digestive Organ.

The organs of man are extremely sensitive and the smallest foreign body is often capable of seriously disturbing their functions. At the same time we have cases in which a remarakble tolerance is shown by the stomach, such, for instance, as the child five years of age, who was preserted to the Academie de Medicine in 1897, after having had piece of money removed from the esophagus. This example of tolerance is, however, considerably exceeded by the following case, which we presented to the academie at a recent meeting:

The patient was a young man 22 years of age, pale, of slight intelligence, and eptieptic, who had been under the care of Dr. Leroux of the be perfectly happy till all are happy. What was our surprise when we felt with the finger through the incision a great number of metfive and one-half inches in length, of authority. The last spoons taken out were the smallest and were extensively corroded by the acids of the stomach. This, however, was not the end, for taking a longer pincher-the stomach being very large-we found the back of an ordinary fork with three prongs, the handle of the same fork broken, another fork handle, the a third fork hand'e, one key and readily enough guide him. some small particles of oxidized metal; in all twenty-five pleces,

Questions That Could Not be Answered by School Children.

Examinations are a bugbear to the brightest schoolboy or schoolgirl, and the answers which are given to simple questions show how completely the children lose their wits when they are submitted to these written tests. The history and the literature papers generally contain the most startling statements, but the physiology paper also offers strange information about the human body.
