THE USE OF CONCRETE ON THE FARM.

Synopsis of an address given by T. C. Raynor, Rose Hall, Ont., before the St. John, N. B. Farmers' Institute.

Wherever a farmer is building new barns, or changing his stables, the question of the use of concrete for floors and walls is a live one.

In a country where lumber is comparatively cheap, concrete is not likely to come into general use for making walls of barns, but for flooring it is a substance that can be employed. Its first great quality is its durability. It is properly put down it is practically indestructible. Then it is water tight, and will help in saving all the liquid voidings of the animals, and this in itself is a most important matter. Fully 50 per cent of the fertilizing value of the manure is in the liquid portion. By having concrete floors and using plenty of absorbents this can all be saved and put on the land where it will do the most good.

Concrete is a mixture of clean gravel or pure sand and cement. There are several kinds of cement. In Ontario they have natural rock cement, which is manufactured at Queenston and Thorold, and this while not as strong as the Portland cement, is cheaper and does very well. In some sections the Portland cement will be the best to use.

Laying concrete floors, does not require skill which an intelligent farmer cannot supply. First make a solid smooth floor, 12 ft square, two inches without a bottom should be made in which to mix the gravel and cement. This can be made of such a size as to accurately measure the gravel or sand. The gravel and cement are then put into this box in the proportion required, the box taken off, and the mixing of cement and gravel or sand thoroughly done with a shovel. It should be shoveled over twice at any rate, while it is dry, and shoveled up into a cone; then before applying the water the cone should be patted down making the mixture in the form of a ring, leaving a hollow in the center bare to the floor. Into this water should be poured, and dry gravel and cement turned from the outside of the ring to the center. This will be pulled out again from the center and more water added until the mixture becomes of the consistency of thick porridge, so it will run down but not set. The proportions in which gravel or cement can be used depends somewhat on the strength of the cement. With good portland cement, one part of cement to six or seven of gravel could be used for the lower part of the floor, but this should be covered with a veneer of one part of cement to two of clean sand. If an extra fine hard finish is required use equal parts of cement and sand.

Before laying the stable floor a good foundation should be prepared. It should be made firm and solid by the addition of gravel or small stones thoroughly pounded down and the floor shaped as is required for the stable. It is best to have a slight slope from the manger to the gutter. The plan of a cowstable which is generally preferred has a square gutter two feet wide and eight inches below the level of the stall floor. This gutter is first made and the cement laid in it. Then a board mould is put up and the cement put in behind the boards and the boards left there until the cement gets firm.

In laying concrete only as much as can be conveniently reached, say a piece four feet square should be laid at one time. All the studding necessary in the construction of the stalls should be set on flat stones and the cement put round them. Great care should be taken when laying cement to thoroughly pound it down. After the floor is finished it should be sprinkled with water especially if the weather is dry. This should be done every day for two months to six weeks for a floor to harden and, sufficiently to use, and it will not become thoroughly hard for six or seven months after having been put in. Large stones can and should be used in the construction of a concrete wall, if pains are taken to see that they are covered with at least two inches of cement on either side. A concrete wall one foot thick is sufficiently strong to carry any barn. This makes a thoroughly warm and dry stable wall. Fine stone from a stone crusher is an excellent material from which to make concrete. A barrel of rock cement will lay 55 square feet of 4 in. floor. Good qualities of Portland cement should be more than that.

By the use of corrugated sleepers made like railway rails it is quite practicable to make a good floor which would form the ceiling of the story below. The sleepers should preferably be made of iron, and laid sufficiently close to make the structure solid. Such a floor prevents any leakage through to the space beneath.

F. W. HODSON, Live Stock Commissioner.

OBITUARY.

On Tuesday, March 15th, Mr and Mrs. Neil McMillan, Rocky Saugeen, received by telegram the sad news of the death of their son Duncan, who died at Grand Rapids, Mich., the day before. After about 10 days illness with typhoid fever. The deceased left home some time in April of last year, and worked for a time in Owen Sound. He then went to Michigan, accompanied by Mr. L. Brown of Galt, who was with him up to the time of his death, administering to his wish in his last hours, in accordance with the last request of deceased.

His remains were taken home by his brother Peter, who went over in answer to a telegram. Mr. Brown also accompanied the remains of his late companion. Owing to the blockade they were five days on the road. Deceased was 23 years, 8 mos. old, was of a kind disposition and respected by all who knew him. The sorrowing parents and family were looking forward to his homecoming in a few weeks, but such was not to be, another addition for us to regard the uncertainty of human life. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Monday, March 27, to the Rocky Cemetery, services being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Aitchison. The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community in this hour of their affliction.—Com.

MUST CLOSE BAR ROOMS.

Principal Caven at a meeting of the Canadian Temperance League in Massy Hall this week spoke as follows on the liquor question: "It is on my conscience I speak on this afternoon regarding the temperance movement in Ontario. It is revealing no State secret to say that some measure bearing on the temperance question will be introduced into the local Legislature this session. What I would like is that the temperance and Christian people of Ontario would speak out regarding the duty of the Legislature at this time. Ontario is not simply willing but is bound to demand that the bar-rooms of the Province be abolished. This is not the ultimatum of the temperance reform, but it is something that the people ask for. No moral argument can be adduced in support of the public bar-room—this unneeded thing openly flaunting itself in our faces every day. The abolition of this public nuisance is demanded by the people, and this conviction of the people should be made known by every legitimate means to the Legislature."

Rev. Dr. Carman at the same meeting said: "I endorse most heartily the plainly-spoken words of our friend, Principal Caven. The duty of the Legislature to-day is to abolish the bar, it is the duty of the Premier to stand by this position; the duty of the Government to stand by the duty of the Liberal party to stand by the wishes of the people. Are we to be robbed of this right by any party of the Government? The utterances of Dr. Carman were received with the greatest enthusiasm by the immense audience."
