King Edward's order-in-Council, just promulgated in a special issue of the London Gazete, giving his sanction as sovereign to the marriage of Princess Alexandra of Cumberland, of Brunswick and of Great Britain, to the grand duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin-a sanction required under the terms of the English royal marriage law in order to render the union in question a valid one -may be said to signalize the advent of a new dynasty into the long list heirs to the throne of England.

There is no crown in the world that has such a varied assortment of foreign princes and princesses that are in the Great Britain. They include the present German Emperor, his children, his brother, Prince Henry, and his sisters, one of whom is Crown Princess Greece, whose children, one of whom will be the future King of Greece, are through her likewise in the line of sucand his sisters, one of whom is the Empress of Russia, whose four little daughters are all now among the eventual heirs to the British throne

In addition to these there is the Crown Prince of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, whose Duchess of Mecklengurg-Strelitz, since the death of her brother, the Duke of Cambridge, and of her cousin. Queen Victoria, is now the only surviving grandchild of King George III. of England. Her son's two daughters, one of them now Crown Princess of Montenegro, and the other married to the Frencr druggist's son, Count Jametel, are also in the line of succession, and might in certain eventualities inherit the throne of England.

Then there is the reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg, a grandson of Queen Victoria, his sister, Princess Alice of Albany, who married Prince Alexander of Teck the other day at Windsor; Princess Ernest of Hohenlohe, another o Queen Victoria's granddaughters, and her children; the King of Wurtemberg and his daughter, married to the Prince of Wied; also Prince Victor and Prince Louis Bonaparte, their sister, the widowed Duchess of Aosta, and her little boy, Prince Humbert of Italy, Count of Salemi, now about 15 years of age, their rights of succession coming to them through their father's mother, who was Princess Caroline of Wurtemberg. Nor should I omit the Duke of Brunswick and Cumberland, with his children, among them his oldest daughter, Marie Louise, married to Prince Maximilian of Baden, future Grand and than anyone else. ABSENT TREATMENT.

How a Baby Was "Treated" at 100-Mile Range.

A young mother left her baby with her obliging mother-in-law one night, in order to attend the wedding of a relative who lived in a town about a hundred miles distant. The young woman, apparently free from all family cares, spent an enjoyable evening; but just as the newly-wedded couple were prepairing to depart on the midnight train, an expression of acute anxiety flashed "Oh, George!" she exclaimed, clutching her husband's arm, "there was one thing that I forgot to tell your mother to do for the baby, and he'll never go to sleep without it. You must go right out and send her a telegram. "Nonsense," said George; "this isn'

the first baby she's taken care of." "But, George, she'll never think doing just the right thing, and the baby is so perfectly trained that he won' accept any substitute. I know he's crying hard at this very minute." She was right. A hundred miles away
