A BISHOP DEAD.—Memorial services were held in Trinity church on Sunday evening for Bishop Baldwin of the Diocese of Huron who died last week. During the hours of the funeral on Saturday the Rector had the bell tolled. The deceased was a broad-minded man, of the Evangelical branch of the church and the papers all speak highly of his worth. His successor will be appointed at a meeting to be held on Nov. 29.

A MOTHER DEAD.—We regret to learn, that to-day, Tuesday, Mrs. Neil McGillivray, of the Rocky Saugen, is being buried, she having died in Owen Sound hospital on Sunday from an attack of typhoid fever. We have no further particulars at present but join with the community in extending sympathy to sorrowing husband and family in their severe bereavement. A daughter of Mr. John Vessie's is reported seriously ill with typhoid fever also.

WINTER FAIR.—The twenty-first Annual Ontario Provincial Winter Fair will be held in Guelph on Dec. 5th to 9th next. Over $8000 is offered in prizes. Practical lectures will be delivered each day during the show. Reduced rates on all railways. Prize lists and entry forms may be had by applying to A. W. Smith, President, Maple Lodge, Ont., or to A. P. Westervelt, Secy., Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Breeders of cattle, sheep, swine or poultry wouldn't miss this for anything.

THE CURFEW BYLAW.—At the last meeting of the town council, Constable Russel was given instructions to rigidly enforce the Curfew Bylaw. The age limit is 14 years, and any youngster, whether boy or girl found on the street after the 9 o'clock bell rings may be run in. Russel has been zealously endeavoring to enforce the bylaw, during the last few days, but no matter how small the child may be whom he interviews the reply invariably is "I'm over 14". It will thus be seen that there is more or less difficulty in enforcing the law.—Ex.

A CHARIVARI DISGRACE.—Wednesday of last week, Mr. Joseph Carwardine, was married to Mrs. M. Moffat, who for some years has been his housekeeper. The community wishes them well in their new relationship. The younger portion of the community had their own views on the matter and decided to give them a serenade in the old shameful way of demanding money to the accompaniment of tin horns and sounds of all uncountess. Constable Carson made an arrest and placed him in the lock-up for a short time as a reminder of the power and majesty of the law. Later we were told they got the bridegroom out and played on him some rough practical jokes. "Boys will be boys," but the sooner they get manly enough to eschew such practices the better for themselves and the community.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Sunday and Monday the Presbyterians of this district had their Annual Anniversary services. The Anniversary is timed to correspond with the pastor's arrival here and this, the 15th of the series was by no means the least interesting. During the 6 years of Pastor Farquharson's incumbency, the church has prospered and expanded greatly. The old debt was wiped off, additions to the church costing about $4000 have been made and paid for, sheds have been built, the basement remodelled, and the pastor's salary increased. The additions to the membership roll has shown the same expansion and the spiritual progress, we hope has been commensurate.

Rev Mr. Ross, of Brussels, was the speaker of the occasion and preached able and helpful sermons on Sunday to large congregations. On Monday evening another fair sized audience gathered to enjoy the musical and literary provision for the anniversary time. Mr. J. S. Drysdale sang three solos in his own effective style and was heartily applauded while the choir had several selections appropriate in their nature and were finely rendered.

Rev Mr. Farquharson was in the chair and in his happiest mood. In introducing the lecturer, he referred at some length to his college days where Mr. Ross' force of character had impressed itself on college memories in more ways than on theological lines. Mr. Ross happily parried some facetious sallies before entering on his theme, expressed pleasure at meeting some friends of his first visit here in Rev Mr. McNair's time and glad to see the progress made.

He then discussed the "Immortal Dreamer: John Bunyan," one of the greatest men England had produced. A graphic description followed of the state of England at the time, of Bunyan's home life, traced the course of the young prodigal from darkness to light, spoke of his value to the whole English speaking world, for his audience continually grew larger, the Pilgrim's Progress being exceeded only by the Bible in the extent of circulation. In light-er vein he touched on Bunyan's marriage, the depth of his domestic affection, &c., and set in array the "Faithfuls," the "Hopefuls," the "Pious," &c., of modern times. The oratorical successes of his last years, his triumphant death were eloquently set forth.

A cordial vote of thanks was given to Mr. Ross, to Mr. Drysdale and to the choir. "God Save the King" was sung. Rev Mr. Masson pronounced the benediction, and the Anniversary of 1904 was over.

About $70 net was the result of the offerings.

THE LATE NORMAN H. MACRAE.

Very sad was the telegram received Thursday morning last by Inspector Harris that his nephew, Norman H. Macrae of Fort William was dead. Sadder still was the later news of the cause. Deceased was the only son of the late Finlay Macrae, (whose widow, a sister of Inspector Harris, is well known in Durham,) and was born here 24 years ago. He received his elementary education in this town and we remember him as a painstaking student, a diligent and obliging pupil. His subsequent career as a citizen, the hope and joy of his widowed mother, who only two weeks ago, transferred her membership in the Presbyterian Church, Durham, to the church at Fort William in the expectation of permanency there.

But alas! for human plans! The inscrutable mystery of death was to intervene. Having a headache he prepared a bromo-seltzer, an effervescent drink, drank it off, remarked to an employee that it had a queer taste, and was suddenly taken ill and after a few gasps was dead. Poison, it is supposed had been used in the vessel or had got into the powder through some one's carelessness and the result was the ending of a bright young life and the plunging into profound grief of a loving mother and sisters and many friends who will have the sincere sympathy of the whole community. Deceased was a member of the Masonic fraternity and his brethren there did not lack in fraternal ministrations in the trying hour. Near him too, was an old school-mate, friend and fellow-mason, Mr. Douglas Sutherland, who on Friday morning left with the remains reaching here on Saturday by late train. It was deemed wise that the mother in her prostrated condition should not come.

The funeral took place from the residence of his uncle Mr. Harris, at 2 p. m. on Sunday to the Saugeen Cemetery, many friends of the deceased and of his father and mother being present. Rev Mr. Farquharson conducted the services speaking of the Father's care in all circumstances even amid the mysteries of human life; of the forces of nature which man was learning to subdue but finding that the knowledge was accompanied by ever present danger.

Over 30 of his brother masons were present and marched to the grave and held the usual rites and ceremonies.

Amongst the visitors from a distance were Mr. Geo. Rutherford, Hamilton; Mr. Will Harris, Rockwood, a cousin; Walter and John Turner, Markdale; Mr. Hughes, of Toronto, a close and intimate friend of the deceased; sisters Miss Georgia MacRae, Parkhill and Mrs. McAlpin, Toronto.

Mrs. Williams (Allie) came from Regina by the same train that bore off the remains, but there was time for the melancholy satisfaction of viewing the remains. She remained with her mother.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

Nationally

Before our next issue reaches most of us the army of voters will be marching on will have marched to the polls. The issues to be decided have been discussed pro and con and while on some points there may be differences of opinion, there is an array of reasons in favor of retaining in power Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his government on which all men are agreed.

First and foremost it has been a weak government and no breath of scandal attaches to it. The unhappy attempts to make the Ross government responsible for every piece of crookedness in elections and then to attach them to the Dominion will not do. Handling vast amounts of money, larger than ever before handled in Canada, no instance of unfaithfulness or weakness has been charged, certainly never has been proved.

The Premier is a commanding figure in the British empire. His life effort has been to promote and maintain good will among the diversified races in Canada, and next to peace and harmony, he has studied and worked to promote their prosperity.

That he has not failed in these great objects can not be questioned. Four years ago he was represented as a weakling, under the domination of Tarte—how does he stand now? He is a man who has used the soldier's sword and not the poisoned dagger of treacherous intrigue. His dealing with the mother country too, has been to his everlasting honor.

While the Premier, as is right, overshadows his cabinet, it is admitted that it is a cabinet of talents. In 1900 after 4 years in office, the country endorsed them with an increased majority, and will do so for sure again. Mulock in the Post Office, Fisher, a practical farmer, as Minister of Agriculture, Sifton, Minister of the Interior, have all been pronounced success. Sir Chas. Hilbert Tupper butted against Sifton and went down, Fielding has handled, and successfully, a revenue far in advance of any predecessor, Cartwright, Scott, Borden and all have been men adapted to their duties and Hyman and Aylesworth the new men are admitted to be strong acquisitions.

Population is pouring in, wealth is increasing, every public department is well handled, Canada is prosperous while Britain and the States are seriously depressed. Clearly the duty of the hour, nationally, is to vote for H. H. Miller, who supports this government, who admires the integrity of its members and believes that they have still more good things in store for this country.

LOCALLY

The duty of the hour, locally is to consider the qualifications of the candidates. It has been said the choice is between a good Grit and a bad one. This is for the people to decide, but were the elections a month further off and that much more opportunity afforded of getting to know Mr. Miller, we are certain hundreds more would be added to the majority he will have on the night of Nov. 3.

(Additional Political matter on all the Pages—Soon be over.)

FIRST SNOW.—Several incipient brush-ings have taken place but to-day, Wednesday, Oct. 27th, we have a respectable fall of a few inches, and there will be mud galore.

THE MATHESON WEDDING.—We expected to present a more detailed account of the Matheson-Davidson wedding than appeared last week. We made arrangements to get it, but regret that it has not come to hand.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.—We ask our readers to peruse the letter from Chatsworth on page 4. The writer is one of the most prominent citizens of the place and known all over the county and his opinion of Mr. Miller is the prevailing one. Crystallize this opinion into votes on Nov. 3.

THE FIRST WHITE SETTLER.—Captain John Spence of Southampton, an old Bruce pioneer, died there last Thursday. He is said to be the first white man to settle in the County of Bruce. He came to Southampton in the spring of 1848, taking the over-land route from Hudson's Bay. He had been an officer in the Hudson's Bay Co. He was over 90 years of age. He was an uncle of G. W. Spence, of Walkerton.—Telescope.

MILLER AT HOLSTEIN.

Thursday Night.

Mr. Miller's first meeting at Holstein was unfortunately on a night of pouring rain. He has arranged for a meeting there on Nomination night, and there will be with him that same evening of Toronto, a brilliant speaker and student of public questions. It will be worth going miles to hear. Mr. Miller's making the most brilliant platform campaign ever made by a candidate in S. Grey, and voters on both sides praise his fairness. Opposition invited.
