THE C. P. R. SURVEY .- No little stir | law. was caused last week when the survey party, not satisfied with their first draft of a line round the bend of the river, ran a new one right through the town. The line comes north of Hutton
Hill and strikes through the old Parker farm, bridges the river, on east near Blackburn's place to George St. West, near Crawford's old mill site, passes Charter Smith's residence and cuts the corner of Dr Hutton's stable at the old the school ground to Lambton St. where it meets the first survey. There will be some strenuous objection to parts of this route. The gang are now out by Ceylon and nothing definite is known of future action.

The Sons of Scotland committee are making good progress with their big day of National sports on Dominion Day. The highland cadets, of London, about 70 strong, are coming and those who have seen their marching and military maneeuvres are loud in their praise. Besides these, 10 or a dozen plers and drummers are coming, prize dancing and the whole round of athletic sports as proved so successful last year. For the evening concert the Town Hall and the rink have been secured and a brilliant group of performers, of whom more later on.

Now friends, I've come here to sing, They're always at your call.

They can put a fire right out of sight, For I know them all. I know them all, I know them all You must help them out at any time If you have a fire they, ll put it out

Now here is Robert Torry, He is their chief, so fine; The fire at the Furniture Factory The engine gave a whistle, On the men he theu did call; But the hose, it was not coupled

I know them all, I know them all, The water flew all o'er the ground And on Sandy they did call.
I know them all, I know them all, They told Sandy McDonald to shut her off, For I know them all.

Now here is Andy Thompson. He is second engineer;

The men from far and near,
He'll tell Jack Rose and Bert Moore
To put the ladder to the wall,
And Rufus McClock. to get up to the top, I know them all, I know them all,

Harry Burnett will be there to do his share And Lauder Buchan he will call. I know them all, I know them all, They did their work at Crawford's mill For I know them all. Now at the fire at Crawford's mill,

About a year ago, The men got there to do their work, And the people here to show. Bob gave the orders, they got to work, He sent them up the perch; They missed the mill with the nozzle And gave it to Fred Search. I know them all, I know them all, The stables at the Middaugh House

They were about to fall,
I know them all, I know them all,
They saved the wall at the fire then, For I know them all.
