The Down Town SHOE STORE

J. S. McIlraith

They Sold Soap

A man who gave his name as White accompanied by his wife, or by a woman purporting to be his wife, struck town recently, says the Walkerton Telescope, and lost no time in getting to work. Their mission here was to supply the people of town with soap that would remove ink or stains. The soap was offered for sale in little sticks, nicely done up in scented paper. They did a thriving business for a day or two but were then interviewed by Constable Russell, who had the man before the magistrates on a charge of peddling without a license. He was fined $20 and costs. The woman gave the whole thing away. What they did was to buy a bar of ordinary soap at a grocery store. Taking it into their room, by means of a punch they manufactured from this one bar seventy-five little bars to be offered for sale to the public. The next step in the process was to wrap each of these little sticks in a printed label, and then to sprinkle a little highly-scented powder over it. It seems that they sold quite a lot of it in Walkerton. This soap fiasco is an old one. Some years ago, when the late James Rothwell kept store there, he sold a bar of common Sunlight soap to one of these fakirs. When he went home for dinner he found that his wife had had three little packages from the fellow, and at three times the price that Mr Rothwell had charged him for the whole bar. The moral of the incident is that citizens should patronize those who have a business reputation.

Hopeville

The Harvest is in and the threshing machines have commenced, but the farmer has not the amount of grain as in other years. It accounts for the wet season on the Proton flat lands but still our assessment goes up every year at the County Council. Our County Commissioners should look to this point.

There is considerable moving around and visiting here lately.

John A. Scarlett, now of Little Current but the old Tavern keeper of Hopeville was here for a few days. Alf Reid who was at one time a clerk in McArthur's store paid a flying visit to the village.

Mrs M. Kells of Peel township, formerly of this place was around seeing her relations here but returned home some few days ago.

Mrs John McKechnie of Little Current is in the neighborhood giving her friends a call.

Dr Jamieson, M. P. P. was through Proton Township last week and called on some of his friends. We expect he had a chat about the state of the country and the political change.

Last week we mentioned that Contractor Glenister was building the largest farmer's brick house in Proton. This was correct, but we should state that the house was for Mr Neil McMillan of 160 con. We all wish Mr and Mrs McMillan many happy days in their new residence.

A Bright Boy.

Many Dornoch people and others will remember little Robert Mills, who for some years past has shown marked ability as a student. This year he has eclipsed his own record, for, through taking up the Senior work in one year, he has taken honors in all his subjects, while the other medalist took two years to the same work.

He now resides with his parents at Tilbury, Kent Co. and below will be found an extract from the Tilbury Times recording the success of the bright 16-yr old boy. Our congratulations again: "Tilbury East pupils attending Collegiate Institute fared well at the departmental examinations, two candidates securing university honors, Robert Mills, Jr., son of Robt. Mills being first-class in chemistry, second-class in English, third-class in History, Mathematics, Latin, Greek, French and Physics, and winning the 2nd Matthew Wilson gold medal for the best pupil in the senior teacher's course. He was also a medalist last year."

MCKINLEY'S FAVORITE HYMN.

Eliza and Sarah Flower were gifted English sisters whose earthly lives began and ended between the opening and the close of the first half of the last century; and yet in that brief period both left their impress on their generation; and the younger, Sarah, achieved undying fame by composing the beautiful hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." It was suggested by the story of Jacob's vision at Bethel, as found in Genesis XXVII: 10-22. This hymn was first published in 1841, and although it met with some favor, it was not until 1890 that Dr Lowell Mason's beautiful and sympathetic music "quickened it into glorious life" and gave it a permanent abiding-place in the hearts of the people.

This hymn gained immense additional popularity through the tragic death of President William McKinley. His last intelligible words were: "Nearer, My God, to Thee, 'e'en though it be a cross has been my constant prayer." His prayer was answered. It was a cross—of the greatest that could come to him and to the beloved nation which he had served so faithfully—that led him through a martyr's suffering and death to claim a martyr's reward. Memorial services were held in innumerable churches in our own and other countries, the most interesting of the latter being in Westminster Abbey, by order of the King. Here, as elsewhere, the greatest interest centred about the singing of the hymn which was in the heart and on the lips of our heroic President as he went to meet his God.—From The Delineator for September.

Agricultural Societies.

Provincial Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, H. B. Cowan, has been gathering information in regard to a number of fairs which hold horse races at their fall exhibitions.

As a result of a series of questions sent out to societies it has been found that 144 societies are in favor of horse racing and 126 against it. Many of the societies in favor of horse racing believe that the value of the purses should be limited. 140 societies report that they believe horse racing to be necessary for the success of their exhibitions, while 180 are not of this opinion.

In reply to a question asked the societies as to whether they would consider horse racing necessary were there fewer exhibitions in their vicinity 110 societies replied that they would, while 152 stated that they would not. The value of the purses offered at the exhibitions last year amounted to considerably over $25,000. 125 societies are in favor of restricting the races to horses owned by men living within 20 miles of the fair, while 142 societies stated that they would not be in favor of such a restriction. Quite a number of the societies are in favor of restricting the value of the purses for horse races to a sum not to exceed one third of the value of the total amount paid in prizes for agricultural purposes.

The tariff commission appointed by government decided to meet first in the West and are having proof that this wide country of ours has a variety of claims. The West as might be expected, being a consuming country as far as the bulk of its imports are concerned, favors a very much lighter tariff than the Ontario manufacturer. The fruit dealers of Winnipeg want a much lower duty on most of the produce they handle than will suit the "little Ontario peninsula" producers, and so it will go on. The commission will require the wisdom of a Solomon to please all parties.

Protection Wanted.

The officers of the Ontario Vegetable Growers Association have instructed the Secretary to make arrangements for a convention representing The Vegetable Growers of the province to appear before the Tariff Commission when it meets in Toronto, to give evidence on behalf of the vegetable growers. Every year great quantities of vegetables are shipped to the leading cities in Canada from the States, and often sold at prices below the cost of production at the centers where they are disposed of. The United States Tariff prevents Canadian growers shipping their vegetables to the leading cities in the United States when their markets are favorable.

The Vegetable Growers feel that they have a grievance, and that something should be done to improve existing conditions. As there are thousands of vegetable growers in the province interested in this matter, the Ontario Vegetable Growers Association intends to present as strong a case as possible, before the Commission. It is probable that a lawyer will be engaged by the growers to present their case. The Secretary of the Association, Mr H B Cowan, of the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, will be pleased to hear from vegetable growers in any part of the province who would like to furnish the committee with information that should be laid before the Commission.
