The Farmers' Manual and Veterinary Guide, issued by the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, is a book no farmer should be without. The Family Herald this year offers the biggest value to be had. Their premium picture also included with the paper is a beauty. Samples of the book and picture and full particulars regarding their extraordinary offer can be had at this office or by writing to them. Our former readers would do well to see the book before subscribing to any other paper for next year.
OYSTERS.—L. O. F. interests in this town boomed largely for the 10 days ending with last Thursday evening. Organizer Nimmo, with the assistance of the local court, rounded up 34 new members, making Cour. Durham No. 111, by far the strongest order in town. At the close of Thursday evening's meeting an excellent oyster supper was served to a large number of the brethren, including many ladies, the caterers being Mr and Mrs Latimer. The presence of Mr Mitchell, Superintendent of the Ontario court, rounded up 34 new members. A speech by Mr. Mitchell, a song by Mr. Nimmo and contributions from Messrs Wm Johnston, Jr., Ed McClocklin, Frank Irwin, G. L. McCaul and a number of others made up a sociable time. Dr. Hixon read the address, to which Mr. Nimmo replied appropriately when the first throbb of surprise allowed him utterance. "He's a Daisy" and "Jolly Good Fellow" followed as a matter of course. He left for Hanover Friday morning.
MASS MEETING.—Mayor A. S. Hunter has called a public meeting of the ratepayers for Monday night at 8 P. M. to consider the application of Mr. Chapman Smith for a loan as an aid to the establishment of an industry employing 30 or 40 hands. We referred to this matter two weeks ago and we still think the application of Mr. Smith and his sons should be received by the town in the most generous spirit and aid given to him as has been done before to others under similar circumstances. Anyway let every one turn out and hear the explanation to be furnished as to the proposed enterprise. The intention is to manufacture Threshing Machines, School Desks and Gasoline Engines, all staple articles, and likely to be in demand. The latter especially is looked upon as the coming power. Mr. Smith and his sons and their able assistant Mr. Henderson are worthy citizens and have a well defined idea of what they propose to do. Come out and hear them on Monday evening next.

Methodist Anniversary Services.

Fine weather favored the Anniversary services on Sunday and Monday last and large congregations assembled on all three occasions. Rev Mr Langford presided on the occasion, had the rare pleasure of meeting some friends of 30 years ago, but of course had pressed home upon him the certainty of life's changes by number of death vacancies. He counted we recall, the pleasant memory of the individual notice however, that while the individual has passed the institution remains, and he must have been assured of the existence of the Methodist body of a living third of life through all the years, in no danger of snuffing, but rather intensifying in its strength.
At the morning service he took his text: "She hath done what she could"; "Mark 15; which referred to the woman who broke the alabaster jar of ointment and poured it upon Jesus' head. She had done her best, and chosen a good manner of showing her love for and faith in Jesus. Continuing he remarked that we all should be diligent to further God's work, spiritually and financially, that was all that would be required. It is not ours to look and wait for great opportunities of doing good; we should grasp the smaller chances presented to us and these lead on to greater. Numerous stories and incidents were interwoven in the sermon, which were well placed, and served to illustrate and bring out many practical points.
In the evening he took the well-known text: "What must I do to be saved?" This query of the jailor of Philippi, he reminded them was uttered in a prison, and he took occasion to refer with feeling to the alabaster jar of ointment and the picture of saving from these conditions he drew lessons of what we must do to be saved from the degradations of sin. The uplifting Saviour, his substitution and his example was set forth and applied.
MONDAY EVENING
Church crammed to the door. Rev Mr Colling had the disagreeable announcement to make that Rev Mr Kerruish had missed the train. Success did not however depend on him, for with the splendid choir as a musical background, fine contributions from Miss Cranston in solo and Miss Ada Brown and her sister, Mrs Stinson in a duet and the lecture, there was material for a profitable evening.
Rev Mr Langford made a touching allusion to his ministry here 30 years ago, before beginning his lecture on "Why I left the Church of Rome." He is a native of Bramosa and gloried in being Canadian. His parents and brothers died Roman Catholics and he made it clear that his revolt from his early faith at about 21 years of age was from his conviction the system was wrong judging by its effects on individual lives. He was ever anxious not to be offensive and his motive in lecturing was, he alleged, in the interest of truth. He objected strongly to the disregard of the faith among his early converts and in certain usages and beliefs if not sanctioned, at least not frowned down by the church and which he could not reconcile with an active conscience and a scientific mind. He related his harrowing experience in breaking with his family on account of faith.
The Rev. gentleman has a fine voice and with Mr Davidson gave a platonic duet, which took the house by storm. As an encore they sang "Mother's beautiful hands," an exquisitely tender piece and the melody and harmony was excellent.
Rev Mr Colling acted as chairman and he and his workers must have been gratified at the success of the anniversary. The proceeds of the voluntary collections were about $100.

Cent Developments.

The interest aroused over the attempt of some of the Directors to plan for the removal of the Cement plant has not subsided, shareholders in every part of Ontario being astounded at the unbusiness-like proposal. A lengthy article in the Toronto World last week has widened the sphere of interest. It contained a resume of information with which REVIEW readers are largely familiar, and reproduced in full the open letter of Mr R. Cochrane which appeared in these pages 2 weeks ago.
Resident shareholders never doubted the abundance of marl here, but for those non-resident, the rich findings of the committee appointed by the Town Council must be very gratifying. The baseless cry of "no marl" has been factually answered, not in this generation will it be raised again, for outside of the big lake, out of which on good authority not one-sixteenth of available marl is yet removed, there are deposits to keep her going till the middle of this century if required.
This being settled, why risk a certainty for an uncertainty? Is it a small thing that business men, farmers, widows, orphans, who look for returns, should view with alarm a vandalistic scheme to destroy the source from which these returns are to come? The old proverb: "Let well enough alone," fits the situation perfectly.
The Executive of the Board, comprising Mr Mackay, Woodcock, and two other Directors, met in Toronto on Friday and discussed the situation. The letter below will show they are inclined to assist the committee: we give it in full:
DEAR SIR:—
The following resolution was unanimously carried at a meeting of the Executive of the Board of Directors of the National Portland Cement Co., Limited, held in Toronto on the 16th day of November, 1905.
"It has come to the notice of the Executive of the National Portland Cement Co., Limited, that a committee has been appointed by the Town Council of Durham, to ascertain locations, quantity and quality of marl and clay in the neighbourhood of Durham. The Executive of this company are much pleased to hear of same, and express their desire to be allowed to co-operate with such committee in their endeavor, and will be pleased to furnish assistance and instruments as they may have to further the object at the earliest possible moment."
The Executive desire that the above be published in your next issue, which I should you will do with great pleasure. Thanking you in advance for the information, I am, Yours truly,
JOHN ERHARDT, Secretary.
A similar letter was sent to Dr Jamieson, Chairman of the Committee and we have been favored with a copy of his reply, as follows:
Durham, Nov 20, '05
Gentlemen:— Durham, Ont.
In reply to yours of 16th containing an offer to co-operate in looking for marl and clay, I am pleased to receive your letter, and to say we have completed our investigations and you will be pleased to hear we have found both marl and clay in sufficient quantities to run the mill for at least 80 years. Both materials have all been analyzed and our report shows them to be suitable for making a first-class Portland cement.
Yours truly,
D. JAMIESON.
The letter offering assistance and instruments was no doubt given in good faith, but the shareholders would like, and have a right to know more. Has the Executive Committee abandoned or stayed the chimerical proposal to move the mill? Have they not a right in view of their offer above to have said that much? The one minute we have got, the first in all these years to see the light, whets the appetite for more. We have been asked for this information, and we sent to Secy. Ehrhardt a formal request to supply it for public information. We could get the answer now we presume, but just what the Executive is doing is not, it appears for the shareholders to know in the meantime, as the following letter in answer to our request shows:
Editor Review, Durham,
Dear Sir:—
Yours of the 20th was duly received. In reply, would state that the writer has no authority to give you the information requested unless instructed to do so by the Executive or full Board of Directors. We have forwarded your letter to our President, and it will no doubt be read at the next meeting. Very Truly Yours,
THE NATIONAL PORTLAND CEMENT CO., Limited.
John Ehrhardt, Secretary.
The making of the offer contained in the minute above, in view of all the findings is an insulting bone to a dog, unless with it, all spending of the shareholders' money in search of a new location has been abandoned. Let the energy spent by the Directors in studying up a rock proposition be turned on the proposition they were elected to handle; let Directors, officials and shareholders pull together and concentrate their energies on the big machine now running so beautifully and we venture to say that the large earnings of this year—sufficient had there been no debt to pay a dividend of over 10 per cent—will be surpassed greatly in 1906 and for many many years to come.
A second letter from Mr. R. Cochrane appears on page 8. Read it.

Gas and Oil

A sort of indignation meeting was held Tuesday night in the Hall to protest against the action of the Directors of the Durham Gas and Oil Co. in making an assignment without saying to the stock-holders "by your leave." These directors consist of Messrs John McKechnie and John Kelly, and a doubt exists if these two make a majority of the Board, which at one time numbered four at least, the others being W. S. Davidson and R. Dewar. The assignment was made to Thos. Harris, who is not a stockholder. In answer to inquiries he stated the debt to be $109, with assets as follows: an acre of land, the well still flowing, a stock of piping never used, and the unpaid stock. The names of all who had subscribed and not paid were read out, and amounts to several hundred dollars, the great bulk being good names. That this was collectable by the company before assignment seems undoubtable, and the mistake lay in not collecting this at the time the others paid. It was pointed out that it would be a disgrace to the town, if the well was sacrificed, and the money paid in by prompt payers also sacrificed while the slow pavers got free!

Big Millinery Sale

It is not a usual thing to reduce the price of millinery so early in the season. However we want to clear every thing out, and during the next 3 weeks we will give you bargains in Millinery. We don't want to carry one hat over, and in order to get rid of our stock, we have cut the prices at this early season.

Miss Dick.
