Delineator for January.

The Delineator begins the New Year with an attractive cover and a display of all that is new in the fashion world, to say nothing of the many features of literary excellence. Of particular interest is an article by Postmaster-General Cortelyou, describing woman's place and share of work in the postal service. The article in the "Safe Food" series is devoted to a discussion of the real value of glucose as a food product. Cecilia Loftus gives her impressions of "Ophelia" a character which she has acted with success, and N Hudson Moore writes of "Old-Fashioned Beds" "The President of Quez." Helen M. Winslow's club story, is continued, a serious note being introduced in the discussion of child labor. "The Webster Farm" is concluded by John Leather Long's clever story on the page, "Castles in Spain." The education of the child is the subject of a thoughtful paper by Dr Grace Fasham Murray, and the pastimes for little folks include the first of a series of fairy tales by Alice Brown. The various departments are filled with matters of interest and value to the woman of the home.
