DON'TS THAT WILL AVOID AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS.

Don't allow your chauffeur to drink liquor while in charge of your car. If running your own car avoid run yourself.

Don't run on the wrong side of the road except at narrow, intersecting streets.

Don't try to see how close you can run to pedestrians. Give them even more room than they require. Many walkers have heart trouble.

Don't take any kind of a turn or curve at twenty miles an hour; better go four miles and be able to do it again.

Don't put oil on your registration number and throw dust on it. An honest man isn't afraid of identification.

Don't toot your horn in passing herds unless approaching from behind, and then not unless absolutely necessary. There still are some spirited animals.

Don't blow your Gabriel horn continually in a city street. A little of it is music; too much is a disagreeable, irritating racket.

Don't forget to light your lamps one hour before sunset; then you will have more chance than the wagon ahead without lights—and be within the law.

Don't grab at the things that concern the chauffeur, and don't take a passenger again who has grabbed once—if you ever are able to go out again.

Don't run away after running down anybody; you'll stand a better chance if you stay.

Don't ever act like anything but an intelligent gentleman.—The Outing Magazine for January.

HEART RELIEF IN HALF AN HOUR.

—A lady in New York State, writing of her cure by Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, says: "I feel like one brought back from the dead, so great was my suffering from heart trouble and so almost miraculous my recovery through the agency of the powerful treatment. I owe my life to it."—D

Testing a Building's Safety.

When you suspect that anything is going wrong with a public building, say St. Paul's Cathedral or the Abbey, and a crack appears you paste brown paper across the crack. The least bit of movement tears the paper and then you move whether the mischief is stopped or whether it is continuing. There is also an electrical apparatus for measuring vibration that can not be noted by natural observation.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way.

Test it! (London Globe.)

Literally.

"You know Smith, the millionaire, don't you?" inquired a friend of a doctor. "Yes," said the doctor. "He's a patient of mine." "Pretty wide awake sort of man, isn't he?" "That exactly describes him," said the doctor; "I am treating him for insomnia."

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Wash oilcloths and linoleums with warm water and Sunlight Soap, rinse clean and wipe dry. The colors will be preserved and the surface unharmed. Common soaps fade the colors and injure the surface. Sunlight Soap cleans, freshens and preserves oilcloths and linoleums.

Sunlight Soap washes clothes white without injury to the most delicate fabrics, or to the hands, for it contains nothing that can injure either clothes or hands.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way (follow directions).

Equally good with hard or soft water.

Swearing and Strange Oaths

Only a baby, the people said. As the bell tolled soft for the passing dead; Only a baby a few months old. Did it matter to them if she were cold?

Only a baby, and yet it could be that that little life was a world to me. And all the day long I must often weep 'Till the night comes on and I fall asleep.

Then I feel the touch of her finger tips, And I see the smile on her little lips; But I wake again with a sudden start—No baby's head near my lonely heart. —J. A. Smith, Burford, Ont., in Scotch-American.

When Rheumatism Doubles a Man Up

Physician and sufferer alike lose heart and often despair of a cure, but here's the exception. Wm. Pezz, of Norwood, Ont., says: "I was nearly doubled up with rheumatism. I got three bottles of South American Rheumatic Cure and they cured me. It's the quickest acting medicine I ever saw."—D

Sarah in a Tent Show.

Sarah Bernhard is threatening to tour Texas in a circus tent. If Sarah will get a small menagerie, a few acrobats, and a couple of clowns and fix the price of admission at 25 cents she might make a great hit in Texas.

Misard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

(Cleveland Leader.)

Do we realize how much and how often majority rule is made a mockery—a far-off marsh light flickering elusive over the boggs of corruption? For example, past, present and prospective, take the question of abolishing the systems of fees for county officials. It has become so distorted in Ohio that men may make $50,000 a year by letting subordinates do the simple duties of public "snaps." It has long been a scandal. It is past open apology or defense. Yet it will not be abolished without a hard fight. Practical politicians are not sure that it will be uprooted at all. Is this majority rule?

Poor Kind of Majority Rule.

For surely the first thing to be recognized about the man who mixes his train and says: "By—?—?—? is that his language is not a conscious reference to any theological dogma. If the man who, at the Professor's Breakfast Table, uttered three words, two of which "Webster's Unabridged," and "the first an emphatic monosyllable, had really visualized" St. Paul's conception of a groaning and groaning universe (including Webster's Unabridged), for one would find a unique interest in his view-point. But let any reader ask the next man in the train who speaks of "the deuce" exactly what he knows or believes of this theological fact is not recognized in current ethics. The broken collar button, the suddenly punctured tire, the train missed by half a minute, produce an inevitable overflow of nervous discharges. Now, human behavior under these conditions may take several forms. Some people let their emotions explode down "hicket-of-leave" channels. The present writer was once installed in a home wherein the domestic enmity was an aggressive adherent of the Salvation Army. When diplomatic relations with the mistress reached breaking point, with the electrical condition of the kitchen atmosphere was always indicated by the overhead strains of: "His life everlasting; 'tis heaven below."

An Indian Territory Song.

The Chickasha (Ill. T.) Express reprints from one of its Territorial exchanges: "Sing a song of pestilence, a fellow full of rye, four and twenty serpents dancing in his eye; when his eyes were opened he shouted for his life. Wasn't he a pretty clump to go before his wife? His hat was in the parlor, underneath the chair; his boots were in the hallway, his coat was on a chair; his trousers in the kitchen, his collar on the shelf, but he hasn't any notion where he himself; when the morn was breaking, some one heard him call—his head was on the ice box, which was the best of all."

WALL STREET MEN.

Their Ethics Are Delicate, if Peculiar—Their Power.

And who are these mighty men of Wall Street? What are their nature, purposes, ideals, methods? What is their work after it is done? In private life it may be, and probably is, the fact that most of these Wall Streeters are honest after their own standard, and scrupulously exact. Their work is to observe the ups and downs of the stock market, and from such a vantage-point to steal from the public, and from each other, to do with the utmost regard to the proprieties. The rascality of the sort called "eminently respectable."

How to get his pound of flesh without drawing blood was the puzzle of Shylock; how to rob a compatriot and dearly beloved partner without violating the laws against robbery is the conundrum upon which the Wall Streeter constantly whets his brain.

And he goes to church with his family can business man in his highest state of development. His knowledge of the affairs every Sunday in a most decent and commendable way.

In Wall Street will be found the American is not a rusty piece in all his mental machinery. He is awake from his shoe-string up. He can go to the marrow of business matters as unerringly as a foxhound tell fox from hare. He is a masterful man, and he knows it.

He controls those who control Presidents and Cabinets. He writes no editorials, but he owns the man who does. He makes no stump speeches, but he can buy all the eloquence he needs. He lunges among the scene-shifters, at the back of the big screen, and grins sardonically at the audience in front applauds the puppets; he pays the man who pulls the string.—Tom Watson, in his Magazine for December.

Steady Growth in Popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Made by Cures Like That of Simon V. Landry—He Tells about It Himself.

River Bourgeois, Richmond Co., C. B.—Jan. (Special)—Among the many men in this part of Canada whom Dodd's Kidney Pills have relieved of aches and pains and weakness and made strong and able to do a good day's work is Mr. Simon V. Landry. Mr. Landry has numerous friends here who can vouch for the story he tells of his cure.

"I was bothered for over a year," he says, "with lame back, weak legs, palpitation of the heart, general weakness and shortness of breath; in fact I could not work and was a total wreck. I could not get anything to help me till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. But they did me good and no mistake. I used three boxes and I'm back at work again."

It is the cures they make that make Dodd's Kidney Pills so popular. Their popularity has grown steadily for thirteen years. It must be well founded.

A CRITIC OF TROUSERS.

The Masculine Garment is Bitterly Assailed.

An unsparring enemy of trousers is arisen who will have none of the specious arguments urged in favor of those garments by a tailors' paper, quoted by us the other day, says the London News. He says (and we are glad to see that he treats the subject with a proper earnestness): "The epoch of the trouser is certainly the most miserable epoch in English history, when we consider the disastrous wars it has seen, the great strikes and armies of unemployed, and the alarming increase in insanity. The costume of the ancient Romans had nothing to do with the downfall of their Empire. That costume was in vogue long before the birth of Romulus and Remus, and was worn by the whole of the civilized world during the rise and progress of Rome and for centuries after its downfall."

Again, as to the argument that our soldiers at Waterloo wore trousers, he points out that "the victories of Wellington were chiefly due to the prowess of the killed Highlanders, those 'peevish devils' that Napoleon dreads, and there is not any doubt that the victory of Trafalgar was due chiefly to the genius of Nelson, who wore knickerbockers."

As to the allegation of increased ability in the arts and sciences in this trousered age, "What art productions of this epoch can compare," he demands, "with the incomparable productions of the 'Renaissance'?" The production that we are just beginning to understand was well known to the Knights Templars, the Rosicrucians and the monks of the middle ages, who wisely conserved it to themselves to use for the benefit of the human race rather than allow it to be widespread and used for criminal purposes by hypnotists and other charlatans as at the present time. As for literature, it is simply absurd to compare any writers of this period (except perhaps Tennyson) with Shakespeare."

Rain Caused by Artillery Fire.

The latest war in the far east is providing further data for those who believe that rain can be brought on at will by cannon experiments have been made, the use of artillery fire, in which direction especially in the arid deserts in the western States. According to an official report by General Kourpatkin during one of the fierce artillery duels carried on to the south of Mukden the incessant firing brought on a torrential downpour of rain, although the sky had been previously free from clouds. The French General Chappelle, who was following the Russians' operations in Manchuria, confirms this phenomenon, instancing other occasions when the same thing happened to his own personal knowledge.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bad habits. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

What Kansas Owes the Hen.

(Everybody's Magazine.)

Nightingales, larks, swans and such poetic fowl have been hailed and hymned until the world is very weary of them. Where is the robust American bard who will write high with joyous pen the harmless, necessary hen? Why do our children read about those fabulous geese of the Roman capital? The hens of Kansas are worthy subjects. Here is one year's work of them: $7,226,111 worth of eggs, which, as a Kansas economist does well to remind the world, is interest at 5 per cent. on $14,522,220. To say nothing of "broilers" and other by-products. Kansas hens make more money for Kansas than do her sheep, wool, barley, flax, fruit, sorghum, oats, potatoes. The hen should be the bird of Kansas as the eagle is the bird of freedom.

London Strap Hangers in Revolt.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

To certain American institutions the Englishman takes kindly. There is, however, one abuse introduced into London by the "American invasion," to which the people not only object, but against which they are preparing vigorously to fight. This is the overcropping of cars on the new Yerkes system. The "strap hangers" are in full revolt. They will have seats or know the reason why. After the English fashion this movement has been of slow growth. It began, of course, with innumerable "kicks" by individual Londoners and a flood of letters to the Times. Then came organization, and now is promised an appeal to the courts by three associations formed expressly to stop overcropping in the cars.
