Bradstreet's Trade Review.

Montreal- While there is a fairly good tone to most lines of trade here, stocks of winter goods have not been moving as they otherwise would have done, and in some localities retailers may carry some lines over. This is bound to affect spring trade somewhat, as it has affected the sorting trade, which in most lines is usually brisk at this season of the year. Collections, too, are a little slow, partly on account of these conditions. This, of course, more especially applies to the dry goods trade. Groceries, never active at this time of the year, are now quiet. but in hardware there is a fairly brisk movement. The demand for general lines is active, and that for heavy metals is brisker with prices firm. Prespects for spring trade also are bright. Despite the facts related above, the general outlook for spring trade is more or less bright in all directions. Toronto- The movement of spring lines in dry goods and hardware is showing increased activity. The dull trade in woollens and some other lines have given the manufacturers an opportunity to catch up on recent heavy orders, and prices throughout have been maintained The grocery trade is a little quiet, and sugars are weak. Hardware is active for sorting lines and for spring goods. The demand for builders' supplies is very heavy. Good shipments are going to the West. Collections generally are fair to good, although those from Western Canada are still slow. Heavy shipments of goods are being sent to that part of the country, and the trade outlook there is bright. Bad roads have interfered with deliveries of country produce, and grains

Quebec-General trade shows little im provement over that of the preceding week, and remittances from the country are generally reported slow. Winnipeg-Colder weather has given a rather better tone to wholesale trade here and the bulk of the business is in spring lines. There is a good movement in groceries and that in hardware continues brisk. Country orders in the latter line are particularly good. Collections in all lines continue a little slow. Victoria and Vancouver -- There is rather a better tone to the grocery, grain and hardware trade, although there is nothing in the way of a large business yet moving. Provincial industries are busy, lumber especially so, and heavy foreign shipments are now being made. It is expected lumber mills will be working overtime for some months. Hamilton-Wholesale trade generally continues quiet, although the outlook for spring business is still good. Country trade is only fair, and deliveries of grain, etc., are light. Collections are London-Trade continues to be affected by the mild weather, but all lines of manufactures and outdoor work are active.
