Both Bituminous and Anthracite Men to Go Out.

Joint Scale Committee on Soft Coal Failed to Agree.

An Indianapolis despatch: The final break between the bituminous miners and mine owners came this afternoon when the joint conference adjourned sine die.

The day opened with caucuses on the part of miners who wanted to consider the question of making a scale with Francis L. Robbins, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, who has accepted the miners' offer, and insists that they permit his miners to operate regardless of contracts with the other members of the competitive district.

At 10 o'clock to-night the Anthracite Scale Committee, which has been formulating a proposition to submit to the operators, formally determined to order all the anthracite miners to quit work on Monday and the order was sent out from headquarters immediately.

A telegram was sent to President Baer, notifying him of the action just taken, and saying that a sub-committee would meet him in New York on Tuesday for the purpose of re-opening negotiations.
