The First Suggestion of Spring Comes with the New Dress Goods

We have just stepped into spring. You positively cannot put off that spring suit any longer. Don't let the price worry you. We can show you Dress Goods that will satisfy your taste at a very low figure.

"THEY ARE JUST SWELL"

This is the verdict of all who have seen our display of New Dress Fabrics. We certainly have the newest and most popular colorings to be seen. Visit this department before buying elsewhere.

GOOD WEAR IN MEN'S WEAR

And Remarkably Good Prices too.

This Department sells everything that man would wish for—comfort, appearance and improvement. Whatever you need come and see what our offer looks like. We're ready to satisfy you every way. Our New Spring Stock has arrived and is meeting with favor among all smart dressers. It includes

HATS, TIES, SHIRTS, GLOVES, HOSE, AND ALL KINDS OF NIFTY CLOTHING.

ROBERT BURNETT

TO RENT.

Store next Standard Bank, Durham, the best business stand in town for general store; will be arranged to suit tenant. Heated by steam, electric lights. Apply to N. McIntyre.

Spring Medicines

Time to tone up the system and get ready for the hurry and bustle of spring. Nothing better for the purpose than a bottle or two of

EASTON'S NERVE BUILDER or our TONIC and BLOOD PURIFIER

It's really wonderful how it rejuvenates the system that feels 'run down' and 'out of sorts' after the activity of the winter months.

The Municipal Council of Proton held a meeting on the 31st March here, and the old question of Dan Wilson, ex-ecutive, drawing money for roadwork and paying it to one Smith for work never performed, was on board again. Wilson and Smith bluffed off Mr Peer, who laid the charge, that the work was let by Pat Shaw. Now Pat Shaw was away in the North-West, but Mr Peer, not to be outdone by them, wrote to Pat Shaw, who answered stating the job was not let by him nor done. When the council got cornered up in this way, the revee called the case off and ordered the parties to quit. Mr Peer had almost a dozen farmers to prove the work was done. Smith did not put in an appearance.

Mr Beard, late pastor of the Church here (the independent) has not left yet but expects to be away in a few days. A Mr Sammon of Toronto, preached here on Sunday 1st and held a business or investigation meeting on Monday, the 2nd, which was well attended. It was in session a long time, other little meetings have been held since.

A Miss Saunders, who has done considerable missionary work and is a first class dressmaker, has procured a situation from D. K. McArthur.

H. Allen and J. McArdle are still on the sick list.

Mr Thos. Firth, of Toronto, attended the funeral of his cousin, Mrs Will Jack, of Zion.

Master Robt Williams, of Berkley, visited with his grandmother, Mrs Chris Williams for a few days last week.

Mr and Mrs Ham Allan, of Hopeville, visited at Wm McFarlane's over Saturday and Sunday of last week.

A large number from this neighborhood attended the funeral of the late Johnnie Glencross last Sunday at Zion. The sympathy of the neighborhood goes out to the bereaved friends and relatives, who have had their double share of trouble within two weeks.

Mr J W Firth, of Toronto, came up on Saturday to attend the funeral of his cousin

Mrs Jas Staples returned on Saturday from her month's visit with friends in North Bay.

Sorry to hear that Mr Robt Ector is not improving very rapidly.

Mr and Mrs Sandy Ellison, of Waudville, visited at Mr Robt Ector's last Sunday.

Mr Hiram Dean and his winsome bride arrived home from Toronto last week and looks as if city life agreed with them.

Address and Presentation.

One evening last week a number of the friends of Rev D. L. Campbell, Dromore, met at the Manse for the last time with him to say good bye to him and his family and this is how they did it:

Rev D. L. Campbell, Dear Sir:

Please kindly excuse the liberty we take: our excuse must be that we felt that we would like to express our feelings towards you at the present time as our relations are about to be severed. First, as to our appreciation of your services to us as our pastor: your whole ministry in our midst has been most successful and greatly to our advantage. But what we prize just as much is the cordial relation that has existed between us as pastor and people, not one instance of strained feeling having occurred that we are aware of, a fact of which we are much gratified and must attribute it to your great forbearance and good tact as much as it has occurred to test your patience to its limit. We are happy in the thought that it is not lack of harmony that has led to the step you have taken, which is a gratification to both, and kindly forgive our apparent flattery if we again repeat our high appreciation of your devoted services.

Under your ministrations we have largely increased our membership, we believe our spiritual welfare has been advanced, your pulpiter service has been instructive, stirring us up to more strenuous effort to our higher interests both in this life and the life to come.

Your personality has been an inspiration amongst us. Always happy and genial, we had the highest pleasure in our association with you, and we trust this feeling was a mutual one. We realize that you were ever watchful of our best interests, both as individuals and as a congregation. We note also the sacrifice of your valuable time and energy in regard to the teacher-training class which was of much benefit to us. Your time was so freely and heartily given: we had no right to expect this, being outside the requirements of your regular ministrations, and to show and express our appreciation of your services to us we beg you now to accept this token which we cheerfully tender you.

We feel that you will recognise the spirit in which it is given and value it above its monetary consideration. Our prayer is that success and blessing may attend you in your new charge. We would have chosen you to remain, but others are to be considered, our loss is their gain. You will have new interests but we trust we will not be forgotten, that we may have the pleasure of your genial presence if opportunity occurs, that both you and your esteemed partner in life may be blessed in your labor of love, that the higher blessings of the future may be abundantly yours and that you may have many stars for your crown both in Amos and in any charge you may be called upon to fill. Signed on behalf of class and congregation. ROBERT RENWICK JOHN SNELL

Mr Campbell's reply.

Though taken by surprise he thanked them heartily for the expression of their thoughts as to his work. He had tried to make first things first. He had looked upon his work in the class as a great necessity, and given it what time and consideration he could spare. The benefit had been his as well as their's, and, in leaving, was glad to know that there are some in the congregation, who are able and willing to continue the work. Kind words and encouragement given had been daily appreciated. Interest in the work of the church musical and otherwise had been of a prominent character, their services being always in demand. Amos, he said he might claim as his first love and felt it the will of God to go to this new field and was glad the separation was not through any ill-will. He cordially thanked them all.

Messrs Jno. Snell, W. Isaac, W. Ramage, A. Clark, the chairman W. Hastie and others took part in the after proceedings in speaking or singing or both. The sentiments of the address were agreed to, it was not one whit too flattering, it being generally agreed that nothing could be of more benefit than the teacher training class had been.

The presentation consisted of a snug sum of money. The time of making it was not known widely or more would have been there, but present or absent good wishes go with the popular pastor and his family.

Beautiful Detroit.

We received last week but too late for that issue a fine descriptive letter from Mr Jas Watson, of Normandy, dealing with the above city in which he and Mrs. Watson have spent the winter. The writer being so well known his views and observations become doubly interesting and we have pleasure in producing it. He says:

"I fully realize that what I may say may be very common and that something similar could be said of any other large city, at least in many respects. I will not become historic, if I could, but will merely say that the first incident connected with the history of this city was in the year 1700, when a French explorer by the name of Cadillac with some fifty soldiers and Indians canoed up the Detroit river and camped here. From that date until civilized and peaceful avocations were permanently established, Detroit has changed flags three times, was besieged by Indians, being the theatre of twelve massacres and fifty battles and was once totally destroyed by fire. The city was incorporated in the year 1812 and connected with its history of that date we find such names as Jefferson, Washington, Woodward and Cadillac, in honor of whom some of the leading avenues of the city to-day are named.

The streets radiate from a central square thus reaching the most distant part of the city in the shortest possible way. Some of these avenues are claimed to be among the best on the continent. The Detroit River is one of the things the average Detroitter has a just pride in and due appreciation of as a factor of importance in the development of the city's material interests as well as the aesthetic part it plays in the city's makeup. There is carried through its waters an annual tonnage greater than any inland water in the world, and is carried in every conceivable kind of craft from the huge freighter to the 100000 fitted passenger boat. There is probably no branch of human progress which has reached a higher standard during the past half century than that of carriage by land and water. An Atlantic Liner are both carrying mediums on water, a donkey cart and an express train are of the same class on land. These are suggestive.

The travelling facilities of this city are almost ideal. Electric car lines radiate from the city in every conceivable direction aggregating more than six hundred miles, which makes it easy to reach any part of the city (5 cts) and on six of the lines to distant cities. The conditions make it possible for a speedy departure by any who may desire that their friends or creditors may not have a very accurate knowledge as to the time and direction of their departure.

The population of the city is around 400,000. Of churches there are about 200, with Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist standing as to number in the order named. Of schools there are somewhat fewer.

As a manufacturing centre Detroit is rapidly rising to a first place. Along the river bank for seven or eight miles it is almost one unbroken chain of manufacturing works. The Parke Davis Manufacturing Company employing about 1800, the American Car and Foundry employing 4500, the Detroit Dry Works employing about 2500, each the largest in the world in their respective lines. Perhaps no individual industry has made such strides as the automobile manufacturing of this city. There are no fewer than eight distinct types of American cars manufactured here and it has been said that more automobiles are made in Detroit than all other countries combined.

The city water works is a very interesting place to visit and is at all times open to the public. The power house is situated in a group of thirty or forty acres, beautifully kept. Seven large engines pump the water from Lake St. Clair through a tunnel under the lake and pipes from two to forty-five inches distribute it to the highest and most distant parts of the city. The value of the plant is given at $6,300,000. In speaking of this I cannot but remark of the convenience of a good water supply and to be almost as well served in the country is not beyond attainment by any well to do and progressive farmer.

The city is well supplied with parks, Belle Isle being the largest. This is an island in the river, 640 acres in extent, and may be reached by a ferry, or by a fine bridge three quarters of a mile in length. This island has been fitted up at a great expense by the city, there is an aquarium said to be second on the continent with an exhibit of fish of great variety from the Arctic seal to the Tropical Aligator, also considerable of a menagerie. Lawn, flowers, fountains and canals as well as the natural beauty of the place make it an ideal place to spend a summer afternoon or evening, on many of which band music is furnished by the city at considerable expense. Of other parks there are seven or eight distributed through the city offering inviting resting places for all classes.

Of the more notable buildings are: The Majestic, County Building, General Post Office, Chamber of Commerce, Union Trust Building and the Masonic Temple. From the roof of the first named, which is 14 stories high, an excellent view of the city, Windsor and a Canadian landscape fading in the distance may be had.

Of the places of entertainment, there are in abundance to suit the taste and purse of all classes. Entertainment is generally bought in the city, in the country it is generally made. To be housed, clothed, fed, educated and entertained is what the efforts of life are directed to secure and as a loyal Canadian I rejoice in the belief that I belong to that country where these are best attained by the masses and more generally enjoyed. In this respect Canada and the United States are equally first. The American motto found of the phrase 'the best is the world,' don't dislike him a bit on that account as much of it is probably true. We need it all in good humor and use it as an incentive to rival, may excel our American cousin in all that is worthy.

Along this line let us hope for the advent of free international trade, a high standard of national courtesy and good will and an acknowledging and following of all that is best in each.

Of the American, he may be almost said to be a heartless tipster of the Anglo-Saxon type. The whistler specimen is a rare phenomena and yet may figure in the exhibit of some enterprising museum duly labeled "Ancient Type of American, the only true specimen extinct and procured at great expense." The whistler's type are in Canada, as are also many of his Canadian cousins, handling the cigar in a manner highly gratifying to himself and in some cases for the humiliation of the persons smoked at. This may become quite an art when gracefully performed and is intended to establish the smoker as being a man of considerable importance. It sometimes quite effective from the smoker's standpoint and is always harmless, except to the smoker.

I can only speak of the land near the city, much of which is too flat and is held at prices too high to be profitable for agricultural purposes, and in many cases is held in the hope of obtaining city prices.

The Michigan farmer is brought in touch with current events by rural daily mail delivery, a convenience which the Dominion Government has not yet considered practicable, but is probably just as much so in favored districts as it is in Michigan. There are great possibilities in the mind by a hopeful disposition and in public as well as private affairs it is well to be so: always hoping and striving for the fulfilment. Let us be hopeful and helpful in bringing things to pass for our individual and collective welfare and co-operation: electric cars, good roads, improved social conditions, a government approaching the ideal, equitable compensation for labor, leisure to enjoy, a widening liberal sentiment, higher ideals of life, and lower conceptions of self, are some of the things which are growing. Shall we help or hinder? We are doing one or the other.

Every day bargain day in Agricultural Implements, a full line in stock, will be pleased to have you call. See ad elsewhere. A. B. McLELLAN, Shop at the bridge, and save money.
