Miss Edna Dixon sang a solo very nicely for one so young, entitled "When do you love me best Papa?"

Miss Shuttleworth in describing the ideal home said it was one that should be free of restraint.

The attractiveness of some homes is unaccountable. The atmosphere of the surrounding being the cause of tidiness, cleanliness and everything in order. The future holds in store bright days for the farmer, was her belief. We should have some little pleasure to finish the day. The ideal home should be all cheerfulness and kindness with games and music interspersed, share the joys and sorrows of the children was her advice. She spoke firmly against cards that has led to so much anger, madness, and crimes. The cards are here, we must make the best of them or they will make the worse of us, was her dictum. Our children will only be with us once and the memory of Home, father and mother should be the happiest on earth. Much happiness can be derived from a proper and thoughtful intercourse with your children and the woman, who cannot think is pitiable, the woman, who will not think is criminal.

Miss Alma Renwick sang a solo with credit to herself.

Mrs Bates, of Indiana, spoke feelingly on the reception given her, and came not as an alien but as one of yourselves to help in this great struggle of life.

Housework now is a poem to what it was in our grandmothers' days, when they had to spin and weave in addition to their housework, and were in addition frequently seen in the fields and drew other contrasts between olden times and now. The farmer and his wife should be the deepest thinkers of the day. A welcome smile at the door, instead of the old brass knocker, was the more preferable of the two, and said that a neglected home is the source of all crime. "There was no flower that exhaled such fragrance as that which burst and bloomed in beauty from hearts permeated with loving sympathy, and ripened into the rich fragrance of character and beneficence."

Messrs Wm Ramage and Wm Isaac sang a duet, "The King's Heroes" and on being encoored gave "Larboard Watch." Miss Agnes Renwick presiding at the organ. "God Save the King" closed a very interesting meeting.

W. Black.

Priceville.

During the last ten days we were visited with showers of rains, which gave the crops a better appearance. Hay will be in some instances short, but a few weeks of good warm showery weather will bring it to its usual length and an abundance of hay may be looked for yet, although at present it is behind the times. The late frosts stunted the grain considerably, but is recovering again. Nearly a frost again on Sunday night but no damage done.

People in general have their roots all in.

We notice a number of unshorn sheep yet along the highway and it must be damaging to the poor animals in hot weather, carrying their winter garments.

The town line south has been graded some time ago. The road grader is an improvement on the old way of making roads.

Sign of good times to see so many new frame barns going up this summer, there being four new barns in course of erecting between Priceville and Durham and Lachlin McArthur on the hill has completed a new brick house.

Last Sunday communion was dispensed in Gaelic, quite a number of Highlanders out, but not so many as might be.

The Rev Mr Farquharson, of Durham, will preach preparatory services on Friday next the 16th inst at the English Communion is to be on Sabbath next, in the Presbyterian church in this town.

A few from town and country attended the excursion to Niagara Falls on Friday last.

As was seen in last week's Review, the anniversary services in the Presbyterian church was quite a success and thanks are due to all those who took an active part in making it pleasant to the taste and ear for there were plenty of good supply for both.

The Rev Mr Ross, formerly of Dundalk, will supply the Presbyterian pulpit during the pastor's, Rev Mr Matheson, holidays.

The sick people are getting better and we hope to see all around again in their usual strength before long.

We hear the Rev Mr Roach is to stay on for another year, as pastor of the Methodist church here and elsewhere.

We noticed at the recent anniversary entertainment in our town from Durham, Mr and Mrs Neil McCannel whose natural inclination leans towards Priceville, and Mr Editor Ramage and his daughter, who the people of Priceville are greatly indebted to for attendance at all our social gatherings.

Norman McIntyre south line had a cow killed by lightning lately, for which he received full pay from the Company he is insured in.

Roger McEachern had a beast killed also by lightning, for which no doubt he will receive compensation from the Company he is insured in.

Thos Fisher moved back to his own house at the town line, Priceville, and is living alone. It is hard, for he is deprived of the use of his eyesight to enable him to do all kinds of work. He expects his sister, Mrs Williams to come with him during summer, but did not arrive yet.

We notice that the street at the highland hills has been closed. This was the original Priceville of old and the street is opened for over 50 years. Sandy says he is going to have it opened as usual, and no doubt he can do so too.

John McNichol, Sr, has improved the appearance of his place by putting up a wire fence between the house and the road. Willie Conkey did the job.

Miss Bella McKinnon, who spent the most part of last year with her brothers and sister, near Calgary, came home a week ago. No doubt she found a change at the old home by the death of her father, Mr Chas. McKinnon, during the time she was away.

Mrs Neil McDonald, south Glenelg, is under Dr Dixon's care for the last week or so with a complication of ailments, but we hope to see her around again soon.

Piper McArthur, of our town, is to play at the big gathering in Durham on the 21st inst.

No celebrations in our town, as far as we can hear, on the 1st July. No celebration of golden weddings, as far as we know, for its rare to find a couple enjoying married life that long together, but we could point out some who might celebrate the 55th anniversary of their marriage and quite smart yet.
