Militiaman Who Shot Two at San Francisco Takes His Own Life.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 18.—Haunted by regret for killing two men in the San Francisco disaster, William O'Connor, a militiaman, shot himself dead this morning. O'Connor brooded over his act, which was performed in the line of duty, until he thought the dead men's Irelatives were hounding him. O'Connor lost all his property as a blacksmith shop owner through the disaster, and came here. Relatives of the dead men, he believed, prevented him from getting employment, and to cap it all his fiancee in Los Angeles jilted him because
