II. A parable on humility (vs. 7-11). 7. A parable-The selfish struggle for precedence as they were taking their places at the table gave Jesus an opportunity to teach a lesson in humility. When he marked-Nothing escapes the eyes of the Lord. How they chose out-To take the highest place when it is not our due is public vanity; to obstinately refuse it when offered is another instarce of the same vizz, though private quarries, at Bellwood, a short distance and concealed. At the time God will reward those who have done good, for His sake, without the hope of any earthly recompense. PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.

The heart of this lesson is the crowning grace, humility. We see Jesus sitting in the Parisee's house and teaching this important truth.

I. Humility commended - "Sit not down in the highest room. sit down in the lowest room" (vs. 8, 10). "Humble Prelate, W. F. Daniel, Petrolea; Recordyourself therefore under the mighty Keeper, Alex. Coulter, Toronto; Master white farmer of Colleton county, to-day hand of God" (1 Pet. v. 6). The command of Exchequer, John Burns, Hamilton; gilled his wife and four children, brainis clear: humble yourself. Take every Master at Arms, H. T. Gough, Strath- ing them with an axe at their home, God and man.

II. Humility commended. "Friend, go up higher" (v. -0). "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted" (v. 11). It is said that when Senator Bruce, the collike those cigars I recommended to you the other day? Slobbs—Boiled, with a little corned beef.

III. Humility complete. "When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends...nor thy rich neighbors... 2. A certain man-This man may have call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the been brought here by the Pharisee in blind" (vs. 12, 13). He who fulfils this order to test Christ and see what he injunction is learning the lesson of comwould do; but it is equally probable plete humility. What a revolution would come to society if Christ's rules of etiquette were followed, and the commands of Him who spake as never man spake were obeyed by His own. "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple" (v. Creffield gave me the gun. We agreed band. 33). Count the cost, then, not of your next party to which you propose to invite the rich, great, popular and influential in the church and world, but count SAD END OF the cost of becoming a real disciple of Christ; count the cost of being with Christ against a frowning world; count

> IV. Humility erowned, "Shalt be bless ed...shalt be recompensed" (v. 14). The first beatitude promises the kingdom of heaven to the poor in spirit, and the third beatitude declares that the meek shall inherit the earth (Matt. v. 3, When Jesus comes, God's best in heaven and on earth shall be given to those who have followed the Lamb, the meek and lowly Jesus.

PRISONER IN PARIS INSISTS ON BEING GUILLOTINED.

Officials in a Quandary-Averse to Offending Any Section of Paris by Public Execution-Respites So Far Obtained.

Paris, Julyl 6 .- "I want to be guillotined. They condemned me to death, and they shall execute me. I'll have none of their pardons. There is no reason for a revision of any sentence. Paris has not seen an execution in ten years, and I'm going to give them the sight free."

This declaration was made by a tough, Pierre Adam, to the prison authorities and lawyers who were trying to persuade him to appeal for a commutation of his death sentence for murder, He has resisted the persuasions persistently for three weeks, and clamors to have his head chopped off, yet the authorities do not comply with his wish. The position is a curious one. As the law stands it prescribes that executions shall be public, but since the guillotine was removed some years ago from the notorious Place de la Roquette the local officials everywhere have successfully resisted the attempts to secure a new site and the guillotine has lain idle in a shed, the officers of justice not venturing to offend any part of the city by msisting upon its erection. They have consequently persuaded every person condemned to death to appeal for a ommutation, which has been forthwith granted.

Adam's unprecedented refusal creates at the fruit market to-day, and prices were a difficulty. A public execution invafirm. Other lines of fruit were generally riably leads to a disgusting carousal and misbehaviour by the scum of the city, and the establishment of the guillotine anywhere without the assent of spectable citizens, would inevitably arouse anger. Hence the reluctance to carry out death sentences. Bills are under discussion alternatively legalizing private executions and abolishing capital punishment, and Adam's novel attitude may lead to the passing of one or the other.
