The Annes des Sciences Psyciques publishes some uncanny stories in connection with the substitution of King Haakon for King Oscar as ruler of Norway. On November 18, it says a number of officers were assembled in the Casino of Agershus, where King Haakon was expected to make his entry. They awaited with impatience the first cannon shot which should announce the arrival of the war ship Heimdal in the roadstead. Suddenly a peculiar crackling sound was heard coming from the far end of the room, and it was perceived that a large portrait of King Oscar in a frame, surmounted with a crown was falling. The picture and frame suffered no hurt but the crown was smashed into
