The Dominion Leaders.

A writer in the Toronto News, who is trying to be fair, but whose party bias is quite observable, is writing up the session of 1906. In Monday's paper, discussing "The Men" of the session, he thus sizes up Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"It is hard to say where Sir Wilfrid Laurier stands. Some of his powers are ebbing; he no longer speaks with anything like his old force, his old distinctness, or his old felicity; and he is listened to because he is the chieftain, rather than for the power or grace of his style. Some of his powers shine as brightly as ever; he is a most dextrous Parliamentary tactician, and it is a treat to see him enter a sitting in which one of his colleagues has got into a snarl and easily and quietly straighten out the difficulty. He has shown some of his old adroitness; witness his appeal to Ontario sentiment—'Last year it was Sbarretti, this year it is Shearer.' On the other hand, the Lord's Day struggle seemed to give him an immense amount of trouble. The irritation shown by the French-Canadians had a look of reality, and Mr Bourassa's rebellion found a very loud echo in Montreal. On the other side of the Ottawa signs of uneasiness can be noted among some of the Ontario liberals. The cracks in the solid edifice of his power this year look a little wider, a little deeper. But he has plenty of power left, his prestige is unabated, and he is the indispensable man to his party."

Of Mr Borden, he says: Mr Borden has gained. His hold on his party is increasing in firmness. His attack has improved in vigor and point, and he seems to have got the ear of the public. He has enhanced his already high reputation as a parliamentary lawyer by his successes in the duel with Mr Aylesworth deliberately challenged him. More important, he has advanced in astuteness and leadership. His conduct of the situation created by the Government's decision to put the Lord's Day legislation through, was a very pretty piece of tactics. He has been charged with handling this subject as a politician. This accusation, whatever it is worth, the Government must share. If the Government was free to make party capital by putting such an act on the statute book, he was free to reap party benefit from its troubles, and to compete with it by showing a more excellent way than that which it proposed.

For the rest, Mr Borden must be credited with the returning discipline and coherence which made his followers so effective in the session, and his powerful, bustling, ram style of speech-making drove home many an accusation. He has shown a good deal of temper during the session; but it has been united to force, and perhaps it is not a bad thing for him that the Liberals are not nearly so complimentary to him as they were when he was learning his business. Elections are not made with smiles.

Hymeneal.

The bride in the following notice, taken from the Winnipeg Tribune, has friends in South Grey; A very pretty wedding was solemnized July 4th at 7.30 when Miss Margaret McGillivray, of Paisley, Ont., was united in marriage to Mr. Malcolm A. McCormick, of the firm of Phelps & McCormick, of Minnedosa. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bolton, 42 Knappen street, in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. Rev. Chas. Stuart, of St. Paul's church, performed the ceremony. The wedding presents from friends in the east and in the city were numerous and beautiful. After a short trip the young couple will take up their residence in Minnedosa.

KILLED ON THE TRACK.—Death came suddenly on Wednesday evening last to Walter Herman Goheen, aged eighteen years and five months, son of Mr. Wm. Goheen, for many years a resident of Dundalk and later of Proton Station. The C.P.R. train was operating in the neighborhood, and after tea on the evening mentioned, deceased, with a number of other boys, jumped on as it pulled out for the north, thinking the train was going through to Ceylon. On reaching Boyd's mill it slowed down and deceased started to walk over the cars of loaded gravel. A companion was ahead and kept turning to speak to him, but just as the train had almost stopped he tumbled again but Herman had disappeared. Unknown to either of them the trap in the car he was walking on was opened just as he reached that spot and he shot through with the gravel. When found there was a severe scalp wound on the back of the head and the plow had severed one leg close to the body and broke the other in two places. The fact that there was a smile on his face indicated that death was instantaneous and probably resulted from the blow on the head.

Coroner Bibby, of Flesherton, was notified and decided to hold an inquest which took place the same evening. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the railway from blame.—Dundalk Herald
