This con stant disturbance was made the excuse for U. S. interference, and the war with Spain followed. That is history. At the close of that "struggle" Cuba would probably have become a state of t union, but for President McKinley's highminded and honorable declaration. After it, to seize Cuba would have been a blot on the national record; and our neighbors did not seize it. There were those who said the object of the war was not achieved. Perhaps the object of some of the war promoters was not achieved, but the United States as a government lived up to McKinley's pledge. They helped to organize, to pacify, and to purify Cuba, and left it with a government of its own, not entirely without limitations, it is true, but with practical

The present trouble may not lead to it being taken into the fold of the republic as a state, but repetitions of it may do so. ## New System of Making Wine.

Wine germs, which make it possible duplicate the famous wines of Bordeaux, Burgundy or the Rhine, are among the latest experiments of scientists. The germs are obtained from the dregs of casks which have contained genuine old wine, and those for each particular brand are placed for safe keeping in a sub stance prepared from Japanese isinglass the germs soon establish a colony. When needed, sufficient germs may be placed in a tube of sterilized fruit juice. After two or three days the juice will be full fermentation, with plentiful effervescence. This process is said to impart to the wine the exact bouquet and characteristics of the wine from which the germs originally came.

Life in Dawson.

The ubitquitous servant question bobs up in Dawson in the shape of unskilled labor at high prices, and the family which is fortunate enough to possess a cook pays well for her services-$60 $70 a month. This includes board and lodging. A woman who comes in to prepare dinner and set the house in order eceives $35 a month, while the ordinary scrub woman commands $3 a day. Keeping warm in winter is another expensive nocessity. Wood is used for fuel, and last winter it cost a housekeeper of my ac quaintance $67 to heat her six-room cot tage for one month.

There is no place in the world which has a wider range of temperature than Dawson. In winter the mercury drops to 60 and 70 degrees below zero and the ordinary thermometer goes out of business and a spirit instrument is used to register the degrees of cold. In mid-sum mer it sometimes becomes so warm that the sluice boxes at the mines are worked at night, which is always cool, instead of during the day. This can easily be done as throughout the summer the sun comes up before 3 o'clock in the morning and goes out of sight after 10 o'clock in the evening. The red glow remains all night and one may read a newspaper by a window at midnight.

No difficulty is experienced in obtaining good results from snap shot photographs taken on the street at 10. 11 and 12 o'clock. Then comes a Health Department estimate for 1905 which appears as 1,990,-750. This is but 116,870 more than the census bureau's estimate for 1903, and looks like a gairly conservative figure. In the same year, however, there is a directory estimate of 2,272,760, and the difference between the two is 282,010. Finally there is the directory estimate just out.
