HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS

Salads.

Although the salad plants, lettuce, watercress, chicory, cucumbers, etc., contain little nutriment, still they are cooling, refreshing and assist in stimulating the appetite; for this reason salads constitute a course in almost every dinner. They can be made in so many attractive ways and are economical in using up left-overs, such as meats, vegetables, fish, these to be used alone or in combination. The oil used in the dressing furnishes nutriment and is of much value to the system.

In preparing the salad there are certain points to be remembered:

1. The greens should be light, fresh and crisp.
2. The vegetables should be well washed and kept in cold water until crisp, then allowed to drain, dried on a clean towel and put away in a cool place until needed.
3. If greens are allowed to stand in dressing they will soon wilt.
4. When several vegetables are used in the same salad they should be marinated separately and then may be arranged for serving just before sending to the table.
5. Meat or fish should not be cut into too small pieces, the fish flaked in natural way and the meat cut into clean cut pieces about 1/4 inch cubes.
6. The salad materials should not be combined until just before serving in order that the attractive appearance may not be lessened which detrimentally affects the appetite.
7. The materials should be piled lightly and handled as little as possible. A silver fork is useful in arranging the salad it does not break up the food as does a spoon.
8. Season well the meat or fish before combining with lettuce.

SALAD DRESSING.—Along with the salad a dressing is served. They are classed as cooked and uncooked or oil. The oil dressing may be of two kinds, French or Mayonnaise. The French consists of oil and acid, salt and pepper, usually three times as much oil used as acid and seasoning to taste. In its making the object is to emulsify the oil, and this is most quickly done, by putting all ingredients in a bottle and shaking well or the vinegar may be added slowly to the seasonings. The mayonnaise differs in that it contains an egg yolk and the proportions are: 1 egg yolk, 1 cup oil, salt and pepper.

OPTIONAL.—Acid to make smooth powdered sugar, mustard, whipped cream. The making of this dressing is more difficult.

Method.—

1. Beat the egg yolk slightly and add seasoning. Add oil gradually drop by drop and stir constantly, when one half oil is used thin it down with some acid, (lemon juice, vinegar). Continue alternately until all is used.
2. The main thing is to have necessary cold.
3. If oil is added too rapidly the dressing will have a curdled appearance.
4. A smooth consistency may be restored by taking yolk of another egg and adding the curdled mixture slowly to it.
5. Olive oil for this dressing should always be thoroughly chilled.
6. Mayonnaise should be stiff enough to hold its shape; but it soon liquefies when added to meat or vegetables and for this reason it should be added just before using.

The following is a good recipe for mayonnaise dressing: 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon powdered sugar, ten grains cayenne, yolks 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 1/2 cups olive oil.

A cooked salad dressing is as follows: 1 tablespoon sugar, one-eighth teaspoon white pepper, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup whipped cream.

Note.—If not using whip cream use 1 cup water with vinegar.

1. Mix dry ingredients, add vinegar and heat.
2. Measure the butter.
3. Beat eggs thoroughly in a round bottomed bowl.
4. Stir in hot vinegar, stand bowl in hot water and beat with a Dover egg beater until mixture thickens, or until it drops from the beater.
5. Take bowl out of hot water and beat in the butter.
6. Mix in the whipped cream just before using.

Notes.—If mixture is cooked too long it will curdle.

The excellent shower of rain on Thursday last was thankfully received and will be a very important factor in enlarging the turnip crop, hustling up the fall wheat and freshening up the grass.

Born.—In Normanby on Sat 22nd inst. to Mr and Mrs Geo Lewis (twins) a son and daughter.

Mrs H Hutchison and baby are away on a month's holiday to her parents in Brussels.

Inspector Campbell paid our school a visit to day (Monday) for the purpose of explaining the new school act. The act surely must be of very little importance judging by the exceeding short notice he gave our trustees of his intention of coming to explain.

Mr and Mrs Jno Thompson visited friends in Mr Forest last week.

Very hopeful are the signs that rural telephones will be a common thing in most farm houses when one considers the fact that for two individuals Mr Calvert and Mr Mark the Phone Co have undertaken to supply their needs and have erected the poles at once and the wire will string a distance of over two miles.

While in Holstein the other day we were shown through the famous Holstein creamery by the genial butter maker, Mr Dug Cameron. Speaking of the shortage of grass, flies, etc. Mr Cameron attributed the cause to those for the falling off in this seasons make of butter to the amount of 70000 lbs.

Rocky Saugeen.

As no news has been heard from this part, I thought I would write down a few items.

Threshing is the order of the day. Miss Jean Vessie spent last Friday at Mr Wilkie's.

Mr Wellwood, Williamsford, spent the latter part of last week at Mr Alex McGillivray's.

Miss Carrie McKechnie who has been on the sick list is improving.

Mrs Thos Ewen and 3 children of Stayner, are spending a month with Mr Neil McGillivray and Mr John Ewen, before their departure for the West.

Wedding Bells ringing around the Rocky.

Mr John McKechnie has his house bricked for the winter.

Miss Livingstone visited at Mr L McLean's.

Nearly every one around the Rocky took in the Show and report a good time till the rain came.
