police control instead of the poor law for the "casual." (2) "Preferential treatment and real assistance" for the bona fide worker when he takes the road; and (3) For habitual vagrants the establishment of walled-in labor colonies. Way tickets, given by the police to vagrants who are bona fide in search of work, would contain the man's personal description, usual trade, reason for wanting to travel, and his proposed destination, also his signature, and possibly his finger-prints. It should be in the form of a book, something like the Swiss traveller's book, with spaces for the name of each casual ward visited. It should prescribe a definite route, be available for a month, and entitle the holder to lodging, supper, and breakfast.

Habitual vagrants should be sent to the labor colonies for detention for not less than six months or more than three

The net cost of a colonist is estimated at 4s. to 5s, weekly-from £10 to £13 a year; while the net annual cost of a prison inmate is from £23 to £27.

In few countries are professional vagrants and loafers treated with as much lenity as in Great Britain. A resort to sterner methods of dealing with those who can work, but prefer to beg, and a provision by which all who are able should be made to earn their keep, would do much to wipe out the evil. And the British people are thinking about it.

The question "Where did the money come from?" has been changed to "Where does the gold go to?" The recent action of the Bank of England in raising its discount rates to six per cent., a level which has only been equalled three or four times in a quarter of a century, adds interest to the question. The yearly product of the precious metal is now estimated at not far from four hundred million dollars, which is said to be practically twice as much as was produced ten years ago. In the last 500 years over twelve billion dollars' worth is estimated to have been dug from the bowels of the earth, but not much more than one-half of this is definitely known to be in existence in the monetary stocks of the world. A good deal of gold is absorbed in the arts and manufacture and a large amount is hoarded by pri vate families, especially in the East.

The law works all right in the old country. A man who goes away and allows his family to go on the "poor rates" is snapped up as soon as his whereabouts is discovered, and has to spend some time in jail as a reminder that he should have seen that his family was provided for in his absence. Excuses do not go over there.

A French-Russian-American syndicate is planning a Trans-Alaska-Siberian Railway, with a capital of $6,000,000, to construct a railway between Alaska and Siberia, with a tunnel under the Behring Straits. The main line will start at a station known as Kansk, on the Trans-Siberian Railway. It will run easterly to the boundary line of the Province of Amour to 123 degrees west longitude, a culated on the meridian of Paris. Then the line goes direct to a place between Yakougsk and Okhotsk; then up to the Behring Straits, with branch lines. On the American side the line will begin at the tunnel and striking the Tanana River follow it to the Yukon boundary line. It is a big scheme, and many times $5,-000,000 will be needed to carry it out.

Result of Wearing High Collars. That high collars tend to produce nervous headaches among both men and women is the most recent discovery of a well-known Viennese physician. Quite accidentally the doctor's attention was directed to the very high and very tight style of collar worn by a patient who was always complaining of headaches and giddiness. The collar was laid aside, thus removing the compression of the neck, and the patient's headaches and giddiness disappeared. Sthuck by this result the doctor paid particular attention to the kind of collars worn by his "headache patients," and in very many instances the change to lower and easier fitting collars brought immediate In the case of women wearing high, stiff neckbands it was found that doing away with these had a similarly beneficial result. The doctor declares that nobody with any tendency to headache should wear high collars.
