DARLING'S FOR HOT WATER BOTTLES.

What is in a Name? EVERYTHING.

Our reputation is made by the goods we sell and the values we give. Nothing we can say will so fully endorse our new lines for spring as seeing the goods and making your own comparisons.

Take advantage of the reductions stock-taking brings you. We have too many winter goods in some departments and there'll be no let up in the ruthless price sacrificing until they're down to normal conditions. We must get them in the more easily counted commodity—cash.

HONORS TO MAGGIE McFARLANE.—We were pleased to see in a late issue of the Detroit Journal a fine portrait of Miss Maggie McFarlane, late of Durham. Accompanying is this notice: "A graduating class of but two members received nurses' diplomas Thursday evening at the annual commencement of the Boulevard Sanatorium. The young women who will carry the honor of being the first nurses graduated from the institution are Miss Margaret McFarlane and Miss Marion L. Sweet of this city. Wearing hospital uniforms decorated with the black hands that signified their qualifications as nurses they received their sheepskins in the reception room of the Sanatorium where the exercises were held which was handsomely decorated in the class colors, purple and white for the occasion." We extend congratulations and say—clever girl.

A pro re nata meeting of the Presbytery of Saugeen was held in the Presbyterian Church, Holt-st., Tuesday afternoon, to consider a call from Amos Church, Dromore, and Knox Church, Normanby, to Rev. Geo. Kendall of Conn. There was a fair attendance of commissioners from the calling congregations. The call was very largely signed and heartily and unanimously supported by the representatives present and offered to the minister a stipend of $800 together with free use of manse and glebe and also three weeks' holidays. On motion of Messrs Hanna and Reid it was agreed to sanction the call, and to sustain it as a regular Gospel call and that it be placed in an adjourned meeting of Presbytery to be held in Westminster Church, Mt. Forest, on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 1:30 p.m., to which meeting the congregations of Conn and Woodlawn are to be asked to appear for their interests. Rev. Jno. Little, moderator, presided, and Rev. J. P. McInnes, of Godswill, acted as clerk.—Leader.

The lion of the occasion was undoubtedly "Phunny Fax." Mr Fax has not been here for some time, but years don't tell on him, and the genial soul, with his mirth provoking humor tells the years off his audiences. He is a composer too and more than one of his best hits is his own composition. "I'll make room for mazel" is one of these. In he walks, a genuine Scotch thistle, his head enclosed in the top flower of gigantic size. Two other big blossoms are held by the stems and look as if springing from the main stalk (his body). The make-up of course bristles forth all over and in color and arrangement is quite natural and must have taken a great deal of work to prepare. Mr Fax's numbers, while highly humorous, have running through most of them a strain of healthy moral teaching, notably in "Wearing a $10 hat," a "Mentally Medley," and in perhaps his best "only a working man." The closing trio "Past 12 o'clock" was the only piece not new, but it was thoroughly enjoyed. There's only one Fax. Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King closed a fine concert.

Ben Nevis Camp Concert

This annual concert is always looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation and this year was no exception. Days before the event the sale of tickets assured the committee that another success was certain as far as attendance went, and the close of the concert gave abundant assurance that it was equally a success as far as talent went. It was equally a success on the point of good order and the performers privately assured the committee that seldom had they so orderly and appreciative an audience. The financial part was also a success and though the expense was high there will be a balance on the right side to the funds of the prosperous Camp.

This was Mrs. McIvor Craig's first appearance in Durham and it is safe to say, health and life prolong'd, it will not be her last. Her first number "Success to Bonnie Scotland" captivated the audience as did "Bonnie France Charles." The pathos in "The Lord of the Lead" was truly brought out. She has a finely cultivated voice a good stage presence and her good taste as well as her musical skill in all her numbers brought her hearty accolades.

A Pathetic Letter.

Details of Alex Crawford's Death

We are pleased to be able to present the following pathetic letter, received last week by the Crawford family. A melancholy interest attaches to the particulars of the last struggle of our young townsman in the path of duty, and will add to the sympathy felt for the bereaved widow and family. The "Mac" mentioned is Malcolm Henderson, brother-in-law of the writer, Mrs. Wm. Ellis, who was Miss Fanny Keith, of Eggleston, a niece of Mr. Crawford's. "Will" is her husband. Mr. Crawford, insofar as he was at the homestead where the sad incident occurred, during last summer. It is 50 miles S. W. of Battleford and he left there on the 14th day of December last, not a month before his son's death. Here is the letter:

North Battleford,
4.15 p. m., Thursday, 17 Jan. 07

My Dear Uncle and Aunt,

I can scarcely write I am so nervous and upset, but I know you will pardon my blunders under those sad circumstances.

We just arrived today from Swarthmore at 1 p. m. and brought Margaret and poor Alex's remains to N. B. on Friday. We received the news on Friday afternoon, January 11th, and Mr. Will and myself started for Swarthmore there till Monday night. The roads were in a terrible condition and over 40 deg. below zero. It took us six days to make the round trip. Poor Margaret is terribly broken up, poor Will is in a very trying experience, she is surely a brave girl.

We found her at Howey's; Mrs. Howey was very kind and did all in her power for her. You see it was almost a week before we got out to her. It was John Howey who brought us the word and we telegraphed to Pete and Mortimer and had them wire you.

Poor Alex. went to get a load of hay on Monday morning, Jan. 7, with two yokes of oxen; it was a very cold morning and Margaret begged of him not to go, as it was so cold, and the snow very deep, but he thought he could do it. He left the house at 10:30 a. m. and about 3 p. m. it began to storm and came up a terrible blizzard. He got back to within a mile and a half from the house when, we think, the oxen had got played out and heunbitched and left the load and had tried to reach home without it, and must have lost his way, as he was found about 1/2 of a mile from the trail and the oxen were found the following Thursday evening at that old stable east of your place. You will know the place.

Poor Margaret was alone all night and went out and shouted several times as she thought he would be coming. It took her 2 hours to walk to the snow was almost to her waist and John Howey and Jack Nighly immediately started to look for him, but he was unconscious and John galloped home for the team and sleigh but he breathed his last just before they reached the house. They worked with him a long time to try to bring him to, but it was useless, poor fellow his life had fled.

The oxen are all right but were pretty weak when they found them, they had trampled their lines into the snow and they had frozen in and hold them there. Alex. Bovie is going to look for the stock. Pete is not here but the teams have been blocked and very irregular, we wired him today to come if possible and we will hold funeral till the comes. Margaret would like to have him here, Alex was not frozen, just his toes, the rest of his body was all right and he was not sick before he died from worry and fatigue as well as exposure, but we will really never know just how it happened. Margaret will write herself after she gets a bit more reconciled, just at present she is not fit to write.

We are expecting a message from Peter any minute in the meantime we will do all we can for Margaret and Mac and will be seeing to arrangements for the funeral. My heart aches for my poor auntie I am sure she must be terribly upset, and I think she must have died from worry and fatigue as well as exposure, but we will really never know just how it happened. Margaret will write herself after she gets a bit more reconciled, just at present she is not fit to write.

Mr. Crawford has received a telegram stating that his son was buried in North Battleford on Sunday January 20th.

CARD OF THANKS.

We sincerely thank our many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy over the untimely death of our son Alex. We wish also to express our gratitude to those in the West for services which words can never repay.

Cement Annual Meeting

Old Board Re-Elected.

Wednesday of last week from 150 to 200 shareholders of the N. P. C. Co. met in Toronto in Annual Meeting, to receive the report of the year's operations, elect their officers, &c.

Those who were there in 1906 found a marked contrast this time. Under very different conditions was the meeting held. Then there was a wintry blizzard of indignation at the proposals of certain Directors to move the mill, and no dividend in sight, now the balmy spring feeling that is reflected from the sunny side of a 10 per cent dividend put most people in good humor and made this year's proposals "go" tolerably smooth.

The great question on which the future of the mill seemed to hang was the possession of the Hanover Marl deposit. The Directors closed the deal some time ago on the very liberal basis of 2 cts of a royalty on every barrel of manufactured cement and $1000 of stock right now. This purchase was ratified by last Wednesday's meeting almost unanimously and it only rests now with the C. P. R. to make the connections.

Notwithstanding the report of Mr. Woods last year as to the fine asset in Wilder's Lake, it appears the present management like the last one predicts exhaustion. Whether this is so or not does not matter so much now, for the new supply is on all hands admitted to be ample and of good quality.

We have not been privileged to see the statement so cannot speak of the finances but there seems to be no doubt that there is abundant material on hand to guarantee the payment of the last dividend.

The question of remuneration for President McWilliams under whom success has been achieved was considered, but ultimately the amount of compensation to be paid was left to the judgment of his fellow directors. That this should be handsome without extravagance goes without saying and on this point ideas may differ.

Under the circumstances no other cause could be looked for than that the old Board should be re-elected. A slightly increased amount was voted them for their services.
