Historical Sketch of the Presbyterian Church, Priceville.

By John McDonald

In view of the Jubilee of the Presbyterian Church, which is expected to take place in June next we shall try and make all endeavors to give a history of the same, as far as memory and information goes, giving names of ministers and students in charge during the last fifty years or more and other related matter. We do not mean to say that we can give an exact and correct history but will do the best we can under the circumstances, as it is a tedious and difficult task to perform.

Away back in the early fifties we imagine we can remember seeing men and women boys and girls eagerly looking for the Sunday that was announced to have preaching "not" in a brick church but an old log barn or small hut and when the day long sought for came, old men and women would put on their best apparel which at best was very poor and off they would go on foot for miles on their way rejoicing to be privileged to hear the gospel preached in their native language in simplicity. In the early history of the locality Gaelic was more needed than English for it would be almost safe to ask every person that would come in contact with each other, the general salutation "How are you" in Gaelic "Ciaman tha sibh" and the reply would be "Tha gu math" &c. It will be remembered that there were two Presbyterian bodies in Priceville, namely, the Free church and the old church of Scotland. It was amusing to see the coolness that existed between these two Presbyterian bodies, which in reality were one in this country. For instance, those belonging to the different churches would pass the house where the others held service miles away as if they had different Gods to worship, but the wheel of time turned and will be seen further on in our history.

As personally we belonged to that part called the "Old Kirk" we hope that no one will accuse us of being partial to the one branch more than the other. In the year 1854 the Rev. John McKinnon of Owen Sound Free church, held an occasional service down the line in some of the houses below here and Durham. Mr. McKinnon was chief superintendent of schools for the County of Grey then. There were no services during winter except services held by the late Rev. Mr. McIntyre and Mr. McKeechate, Baptists, who held services in McDonald's school house during the winter time in the middle of the fifties.

In the year 1857, the late Rev. John Goodwill was sent as student for the established church of Scotland for six months preaching both English and Gaelic in McDonald's school house, two miles west of Priceville in the morning and in the afternoon at the school house, near one mile east of Priceville, now Arch McDonald's, Artemesia. Mr. Goodwill was a powerful preacher, he also served a short term in the summer of 1858. A Rev. Mr. Lewis some where down the country also preached occasionally in the latter part of the fifties.

The late Rev. Chas. Cameron was student in 1859, 1860, for the Free church and was ordained in the year 1861, for the congregations of Durham road, Glenelg, Rocky Saugeen and Toronto line.

In 1859 the Rev. Chas. McInnis Cameron was student in the old kirk preaching also in McDonald School House, Glenelg and old Durham Road, Artemesia. Said house was taken down some forty five years ago. One of Mr. Cameron's hymns is used in the Book of Praise, being number 347. Mr. Cameron died over 30 years ago.

C. P. R. Plans. A Level Crossing and Gate Guarded

After months and months of weary waiting and watching of surveyors running all imaginable lines, the chief engineer, Mr. Darling, laid his plans before the Council on Monday night, and as he has to leave in a few days for the Hot Springs wanted urgency in dealing with the matter. After all the delay and uncertainty it was scarcely fair to ask a decision in a few minutes, and the town we believe will think the council justified in deferring till Friday night acceptance or rejection of the plans.

The plan as submitted runs behind the residences on George St., crosses Queen St. at Charter Smith's corner, goes right through Dr. Hutton's residence, crosses Garafraza St. on the level at the foot of the hill, at which gates and watchman are to be placed. Crossing the river it goes right through the school grounds, the southern limit of the right of way coming within 35 feet of the building, and leaving there shoots over Lumbton St. on an overhead bridge to the McGill lot, near which will be the junction point to the Cement Works. The station is to be at Crawford's flats.

The hope and desire of the whole town would be that they would cross under Garafraza St. sending town traffic overhead. This could be done at two points, either just south of the Presbyterian church or north of it, through the market ground. Mr. Darling objects to both those points: the former (south of church) because the bridge would be so high that the grade to reach it from the south would extend to the Town Hall, while to cut north of the church the expense would be prohibitive, costing, Mr. Darling says, $200,000 more than the level crossing. This figure fairly stunned the council and a suggestion was made to employ an engineer.

Mr. Darling assured them his word would "go" with the C. P. R. above all others, and bluntly informed them it was no use talking the deep cut north of the church unless the town was willing to go into its own pocket and give a bonus.

To use his own words, they are "glued" to the level crossing at foot of the hill, though he promises there will be 20 feet level north of the track. Neither will they listen to a bond which seems feasible as to escape the greater part of the school ground, but they will give in exchange the lot south of the school which they will secure from Mr. and Mrs. McClocklin for additional play ground.

What the alternative will be should the council reject the plans is not certain. Mr. Darling certainly left it to be implied that they might cut the town altogether.

We still hope the passage through the hill may be found feasible, making two good things: (1) a safe crossing and cheaper for the railway, no watchman being required, (2) almost, if not altogether, skipping the school ground. "And your petitioners will ever pray, &c." They are not likely to pay.

The Late Mrs. Angus McLeod.

We supplement our brief notice last week of the death of this estimable lady, nee Miss Jessie Black, by a few additional facts.

She died on 25th January at Farwell, Mich., in the 83rd year of her age after a few weeks' illness from diabetes, leaving to mourn besides her husband, one son, Archibald, three daughters, May, Kate and Jessie, and two much loved brothers, Dr. Black, of Paisley, and John A. Black, of Chesley. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Jerrett, Congregational minister, in the presence of a large assemblage.

She was married to Mr. McLeod in 1833 by the late Rev. D. McLeod, of Priceville, and lived six years at Ceylon, where, as well as at her early home at Bunesan, she will be kindly remembered. From there they moved to Michigan, where they gathered friends around them, who were extremely kind and sympathetic in her last hours.

Many here will remember her genial and robust personality. She had great force of character and was altogether such an one as is not easily forgotten. Certainly as sister, wife and mother her memory will always be green. The Review again extends its sympathy.

BORN. BRIGHAM.—In Bentinck, on 15th January to Mr and Mrs Herb Brigham, a daughter.

Town Council.

Not often of late has there been seen a council meeting presenting more features of interest than that of Monday night. All were present but Mr. Saunders, the appeal against whose election on account of illegality has been successful, Clerk Vollet having been so notified on Monday. Judge Hutton gave the decision, and the costs about $25 we understand fall on Mr. Saunders.

A question of legal expense incurred in an arrest in the Knapp House by Constable Clark in which the case was not proven, brought the costs on the town: at least Police Magistrate Telford thought so. The Mayor thought otherwise, holding that the License Act provides that hotel keepers must maintain order in their own premises, the council differed from the Mayor reasoning that as in successful cases the town benefited, so should they stand loss when unsuccessful, and passed the account.

What shall the town Treasurer be paid? Last fall the council increased the Treasurer's salary to $150. Some thought, amongst them the mayor, that the increase should begin at date of motion. Mr. Lenahan pointed out that Mr. Jackson had warned them at the beginning of the year that he wanted an increase, so the council were responsible for the whole year and on motion of McGowan, McLachlan, the Treasurer was paid $150 for the year ending 1 February.

There was friction also because the mayor had issued notices calling for applications for Treasurer without consulting with a committee appointed for that purpose. Mr. Calder justified his action as in the interests of the town. There were three applications as a result, Mr. Jackson at the old figure and Messrs W. P. Dunn and W. H. Bean at lower figures. The tenders will be dealt with and appointment made on Friday evening of this week.

The following accounts were considered and ordered paid: A. Russell, hardware, $6.10. Wm. Irwin, Printing $38.00. N. G. & J. McKeechate, rep. Hall $6.10. W. B. Vollet, salary, and nomination $22.00. Robert Adams, rep fire Hall $2.40. Durham Fire Brigade, $0.50. R. Torry, stoker Fire Hall and work $13.45. C. Ramage, printing $7.25. J. P. Telford, constable and witness fees etc. $7.80.

A deputation from the C. P. R. authorities consisting of Chief engineer Darling and Mr. Doherty, was present with plans for crossing the town and after consideration the council decided to adjourn till Friday evening before giving their consent or otherwise. The proposals are dealt with elsewhere.

Drysdale who holds certificates of efficiency in these subjects and it meets Thursday evenings in the Oddfellow's Hall. Mr. Drysdale, we understand is giving his service free and surely with that condition there should be the makings of a large class in this town. Mr. Drysdale is no theorist as to machinery, having had a large experience in Scotland and on this side also in practical work. When combined with this, he adds his technical knowledge and is willing to give free lessons in an important subject, he is certainly worthy of commendation. Earnest young men, none others are wanted, should enrol themselves at once. The expense for supplies is small.
