Mr. Fielding and the Iron Bounties.

Hon. Mr. Fielding is the power behind the proposal to continue the iron and steel bounties; if the bounties are continued, continuance will be due to the political influence of the Minister of Finance.

It is rather more than a coincidence that the chief beneficiary of this bounty system is located in the Province of which Mr. Fielding is political leader—the Province which elected a solid Ministerial delegation in the last Dominion election. The Dominion Iron and Steel Co., at Sydney, N. S., has received $3,000,000 in bounties in the last four years, and will, according to the estimates of its own officers, obtain at least $7,000,000 in the next four if the new scale of bounties is approved. That will mean a total in gifts to this one corporation, located in Nova Scotia, of ten million dollars—over $20 per head for the entire population of that Province.

It is no wonder, when he is in a position to distribute such magnificent largesse, that Mr. Fielding can bring with him to the House of Commons a solid following from his own Province, and that he is, because of his strength of position, accepted as the political heir of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. But what do the people of Ontario, who pay 40 per cent. of the Customs taxation, out of which the iron bounties are taken, think of the price they are asked to pay for the position Mr. Fielding now holds and is so anxious to retain?—Sun.

Liquor Licenses in Toronto

Partly in consequence of recent investigations in Toronto, there has come to the knowledge of the public some facts that temperance men should keep in mind. In Toronto the number of licenses has been cut down by popular vote to 150, i. e., one license to about 2000 people. The average net value of each of these licenses per annum is estimated at about $3000 and the license fee is $1,200. Now when it is possible for a man on the payment of $1,200 per year to secure a practical (if limited) monopoly that will net him $8,000 per year, it stands to reason that there will be a demand for these permits which are so lucrative; and when we consider that the issuing of these licenses is practically in the hands of the Government, it is almost inevitable that the traffic and the government should become rather closely associated. When a Government has 150 positions to distribute, each of which is worth nearly $7000 per year, with no educational or intellectual requirements attached, it would be strange if political "pressure" were not very manifestly applied. Different methods have been advanced by which it was hoped that the apparent evils of this state of affairs would be lessened. One of these which, however, is not yet in the realm of practical politics, is the suggestion that the hotel and bar be dissociated entirely and permanently. Let the hotel stand on its own feet, and let the bar appear to be, what it really is, a place for selling intoxicating liquor and nothing else. It is just possible that this may enter the realm of the practical before long, and it is well for temperance men to consider their possible attitude towards it.—Christian Guardian.

Holstein.

A great many people have gone from our community to the west: those who were left waiting for freight cars got away on Saturday. The names were given in last week's Review. Our community will hardly be the same. Mr. Philip of Balsam, who bought out John Waddell, has moved here with his family and taken hold of the business. Mr. and Mrs. Waddell will not leave for a few weeks.

A special collection for the starving millions of China will be taken in the Presbyterian church at both services on Sunday next and at C. E. meeting in the evening. It is believed the famine will cause the death of some hundreds of thousands of human beings and it offers a splendid opportunity which may not come again in a century, for a practical exposition of Christianity. It is desirable that churches, young people's societies and people generally, will act speedily; it is the King's business and requires haste and may mean life or death to thousands. Our prayers and liberal response should go together. Such prompt giving will greatly aid the cause of missions. To deplore the calamity and keep the purse strings tight trusting some one else will do the helping, is not enough. Rev. Mr. Cassmore went to Fergus on Monday.

I. O. F. Court Orchard, held a meeting in Roberts' Hall, Monday evening. Organizer Johnston, of Durham was present and it was decided to hold the meetings regularly in Holstein.

The weekly sessions of the Bible study class are being largely attended and the life of Christ is proving absorbingly interesting. Come every Friday night to Roberts' Hall at 7:30. —Great excitement has been witnessed during the past ten days by a "stamp" in the New York Stock Market, the depreciation in the leading stocks amounting to millions. However the anxiety is about over, there have been very few failures and these small, though Berlin, Germany, is said to be seriously affected. Canada has not been hurt to any great extent, there being very few of our moneyed men or institutions "dabbling there."

To Save the Trees.

A special despatch to the Globe of Saturday gives an account of the work of a most important body, "The Canadian Forestry Association. As the years go by more and more importance will attach to the work of re-foresting the denuded areas of our country and even of changing the face of nature in prairie districts.

The despatch in part says:—The Canadian Forestry Association concluded its annual meeting after passing a number of important resolutions urging on the Provincial and Federal Governments the necessity for adopting more effective measures for conserving Canada's forest wealth, for the encouragement of reforestation and the setting apart of wood lots on every farm for the extension of forest reserves to cover all areas suitable only for the production of timber, etc.

W. J. C. Ham, Superintendent of Forest Reserves for Quebec, in noting the increasing volume of water coming down the Ottawa River at some seasons of the year, made the important announcement that the Quebec Government had decided to set aside for a permanent forest reserve a strip of land extending from Riviere du Lièvre to the Ontario boundary, just back of the settled townships, with a view to conserving the moisture during the summer and making permanent the present water-powers and transportation facilities of the Ottawa River. The reserve will comprise 60,000 square miles.

Mr. H. Lovitt suggested that prison labor might be used in the work of reforestation in northern Ontario. In that way it would be serving a most useful purpose and would not compete with other labor.

Hon. Mr. Edwards declared that the Province of Quebec had the best forestry policy of any Canadian Province, and he referred to Ontario's "stagnant policy" in demanding that timber on licensed lands must be cut within a specified time. He favored the adoption of a diameter limit for cutting, specifying eleven inches for spruce and twelve inches for pine. By careful annual selection there was no reason why timbered lands should not be made permanently profitable, and forests preserved for all time; only such a policy would preserve the water powers and the forest wealth of Canada.

At the morning session the discussion was largely about technical lines. Prof. Zavitz, of the Ontario Agricultural College, in discussing the problem of re-planting on waste lands of Ontario, said that experiments at the O. A. C. showed that many thousands of acres of wooded land in the older settled parts of Ontario could be planted with white pine, European larch or black locust at a cost of about $5.50 per acre, and the investment by the Province would, he said, be a most profitable one.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Some of the resolutions passed were as follows:—

That the convention urge the Federal and Provincial Governments to take steps to encourage as far as possible, both by instruction and by giving facilities for obtaining nursery stock suitable for afforestation, a more general interest in tree-planting, especially on such lands as are at present unfit for ordinary agricultural purposes, and would also urge the Dominion Government to make further efforts in this direction in the prairie regions, where the results from tree-planting are bound to be of inestimable value to the whole country.

That in granting Crown patents of wooded lands a proviso should be inserted that at least ten per cent. of the area conveyed should be retained by the patentee as a permanent wood lot.

That in view of the many important respects in which the water supply affects the industries of the country, in particular agriculture, irrigation and manufacturing, and in the increasing value of the water powers owing to the adoption of electricity for industrial purposes, the convention would urge that special means should be taken for the preservation of the forests on water-sheds, so as to conserve throughout the year the equable and constant flow of the streams dependent thereon.

That the Government be requested to place forest trees and forest tree seeds imported for afforestation purposes on the free list.

Obituary.

From our Pricewille Cor.

There passed away to his eternal rest on Tuesday forenoon, the 12th March, Mr. Alex. McLean, native of the Isle of Yverc, Argyllshire, Scotland, at the age of 78 years, after a short illness of some ten hours caused by affection of the heart, as he was subjected to asthmatic troubles of late years. Mr. McLean was one of the pioneers of the south line Artemesia, coming there in the year 1857, when a young lad of 23 years. Some years later he took to himself as life partner Miss Ann McMillan, one of the well and favorably known McMillan family, south line Artemesia. The union proved to be a happy one, and was blessed with a large family of dutiful sons and daughters.

Mr. McLean was the last of the old elders elected in the old Presbyterian church forty years ago, and was a faithful one up to his death. Mr. McLean was a devoted Christian, who always strove to follow the footsteps of his divine Master. His familiar form was to be greatly missed by all who knew him, as well as in the family who are left to lament the death of a dutiful husband and father.

The funeral procession on Saturday, the 16th inst., was one of the largest in the place for a long time. The casket was borne to the church where the Rev. Mr. Matheson, his pastor, preached an eloquent sermon very appropriate to the occasion. As one of the sons who was on his way from the far west did not arrive on the noon train the burial was postponed till Sunday afternoon. As the young man arrived on the evening train Saturday, it would be quite a disappointment to him after coming thousands of miles to pay the last tribute of respect to a loving father who had him buried only a few hours before his arrival. The thoughtfulness of a loving mother towards her son's disappointment in being on time caused the postponement. The casket was left in the basement of the Presbyterian church Saturday night till the burial took place in the afternoon Sunday. Two of the daughters were unable to be present, namely, Mrs. McLachlin, of the Rockies, and Mrs. McMillan, of the North West, and one son, Archie, of the Rockies. To these as well as those present we take the liberty of extending condolence from all friends and acquaintances residing in the vicinity of the old homestead, where once father and mother and an unbroken family met at the family altar in years gone by. Now as they are scattered far away from the old home it will be a source of comfort for them to reflect that their dear father has only passed away to join the innumerable throng in the home where there is no parting. The pallbearers were Messrs. Malcolm, Alexander, John and Donald McMillan and Messrs. John Burnett and John McLean. The remains were laid to rest in the graveyard in the town.
