A Marriage Set Aside.

No small stir has arisen in Wellington Co. over the annulment of a marriage contracted by minors. The young man is the defendant, the girl's friends pushing for the separation. Farr is an honest decent fellow, but poor in this world's goods while the Eskens are a well known and influential family, two of her uncles being lawyers in Toronto another uncle being pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Toronto. The marriage though legal at the time, apparently was a clandestine one and the parties never lived together. Public sentiment is fairly well divided in sympathy with the parties and the incident has called vivid attention to the Provincial legislation on the question. The following despatch gives the facts:

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Special).—Judge Mabee has given judgement declaring void the marriage of Henry Farr, of Pilkington, and Ellen Mary Eskens, of the same township, which was contracted a year ago while the parties were under age. The action to declare the marriage null and void was taken under the act passed at the last session of the Legislature framed, it is said, to meet this very case. The judgement absolutely sets aside the marriage and forbids Farr communicating with the girl.

A Great Horse Exhibit.

One of the most interesting competitions in the horse classes at the Canadian National Exhibition will be for the King Edward Ho-cup, which is offered for the best horse not over 15-2 in the runabout class. Another especially interesting competition in this section will be for a string of 10 horses owned by one exhibitor, for which prizes of $100 and $50 are to be given to the first and second strings.

Not Our Business

We have been cleaning up our subscription sheet of late and find a number of our subscribers still in a chronic state of indebtedness. We are not reminding those a few weeks or months behind, but those who have already been reminded privately and have not yet favored us with a settlement. Collecting accounts by private request is not strictly our business, but we would much prefer that those in arrears would settle with us at once, or we will be compelled to follow the practice of other publishers and place our accounts in the hands of a collecting agency. Of course the expense of this procedure will necessitate the charging of credit price, $1.50 per annum. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Government Realizes Responsibility

When one reflects upon Canada's great western heritage, with its vast natural resources, its inexhaustible vitality, its great wheat areas, its teeming acres of grazing land, the industrial and commercial genius of its enterprising and aggressive people the conclusion cannot be reached that all should go for naught, or be in any manner compelled to fall short of their greatest realization by the mere incident of neglect with respect to providing intelligent transportation.

The government of the day is sensible of their responsibility in this regard; if the people of the great West can be brought 1,000 miles nearer a European market via Hudson Bay by the building of a railroad, then the Laurier government may be confidently relied upon to see to it that the road be built.

REVOLUTION IN TRAFFIC ROUTES

A revolution in traffic routes through Canada is bound to come, and the strategic point is without doubt, Hudson Bay. The citizens of Canada have scarcely realized the transportation advantages of their country in the extraordinary rapidity with which they are now being developed under the fostering encouragement of a Liberal government. An outlet at Hudson Bay will annihilate a quarter of the distance from western Canada to Europe, bring uncounted millions of acres in the wheat belt 1,000 miles nearer to market and cut in half the annual transportation cost of 50,000,000 bushels of grain.

The people are well advised to place their trust in the far sighted comprehensive attitude of the Laurier government to subjects of great national interest.

A widespread strike of telegraph operators is in progress in the States.

About this time, says a newspaper paragrapher, the town man with the hoe and a personally conducted garden increases his laundry bill a dollar a week in order to raise three dollars and ninety-eight cents worth of vegetables. And that does not take into account the original cost of planting. But the town man with the hoe is not trying to raise dollars' worth of vegetables. He is raising callous and tan, acres of priceless satisfaction, and an appetite that the produce of two good gardens cannot satisfy.

The man who handles the local department of a newspaper learns after due experience not to expect even briefly expressed thanks from a column of pleasant things, but he knoweth as surely as cometh the winter that a single line in which there is unintentional misrepresentation will cause some one to be heard from as if from a home top. And we may add that when he has made pleasant mention of one of his own persons, place or thing but on the thousandth time fails to do so, he must not expect to be forgotten. The omission may have been from accident, inadvertence or even in an error of knowledge. It must not be. The simple fact remains and he will be judged by that.

Well Conducted Departments

That the Interior Department is being conducted with a due regard to the rights of individuals is very evident in the case of the Blairmore townsite, other evidence, however, is not wanting to substantiate this assertion.

The total revenue of the Department of the Interior (except school lands), those are simply administered by the Department, and revenue from school lands, is not taken into account, for the year 1895-96, after having been in power eighteen years was $203,715.

The total revenue of the Department of the Interior (except school lands) for the twelve months ending 30th June '06, after ten years of Liberal rule, was $4,137,786. These figures are impressive as all the returns are not yet made.

The revenue for the ten months ending 30th April, '07 was $1,717,786 and for the following two months, May and June, it has been estimated at $420,000. This means that the revenue of the Department of the Interior is greater now every month than it was every year in Conservative times.

The more the people know about the Laurier Government, the more anxious they will become that it remain in power. The more the people look into the alleged scandals the more convinced they will be that the opposition has no lasting foundation upon which it can build public favor. Men are judged by what they do, and not by what they say. The Laurier Government is a government that does things, and does them well. The people will heed a serious charge, well founded and properly substantiated, but little attention will be paid to temporary sensations created for political purposes only.

Text Book Prices.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, minister of education, announces that owing to the report of the text book commission having been only recently received, and the fact that several text books on one subject are on the authorized list, the difficulties consequently connected with agreements and copy-rights, and the necessity for giving due notice to the trade, the department has not yet been able to secure what it would consider sufficiently adequate reductions in the prices of the books now authorized for the high schools and public schools, except, as has been announced, in the case of the Ontario readers. These are now obtainable at the new prices, as follows: First reader part 1, five cents; second reader, part 2, seven cents; second reader, nine cents; third reader, thirteen cents; fourth reader, fifteen cents. The publisher selling to any purchaser for use in Ontario shall allow the following discounts: (a) on one or more copies of any book, 25 per cent off the prescribed retail price; (b) on quantities of the value of $250 and upwards at retail prices (the said purchase being made of any quantity of any or all of the value said books, and in any proportion the purchaser may desire), 25 per cent off the prescribed retail price, and an extra ten per cent thereafter. Early in October next, the contents and prices of the list of books now in use in the schools will be revised, and arrangements made for the publication of such textbooks as may be required.—Ex

Lady Laurier was Late.

A little incident took place in Ottawa the other day at the central station which shows that human nature is very much the same and that those who occupy the seats of the mighty differ very little from other people. It was announced the day before that Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier were to leave on Friday afternoon for a few days stay at their home at Atholensville, Quebec. As a consequence, a few people who had not had the chance of seeing the Premier on the west night of his return from Europe went down to the station to ascertain for themselves how the train came and went. Three, twenty-eight and went, so did 8:25, and finally the hour of departure arrived; but there was no Lady Laurier. The Premier went up to the gold faced conductor, apparently asked him to hold the train a minute or two, and then with the vigor of a man of thirty, started on a dash down the little street which runs from the station yard to Little Sussex. He had not gone more than seventy-five yards when a carriage turned the corner. It contained Lady Laurier. Sir Wilfrid turned in his tracks, caught up with the carriage, pulled open the door, and, taking hold of Lady Laurier's arm showed her along the platform with considerable vigor, bundled her onto the steps and then gave the signal to the conductor to go ahead. The train pulled out leaving many people smiling at the incident and convinced that a husband is much the same all the world over and that it ruffles the serenity of even the Man of Sunny ways to have his spouse late for the train. But as
