SOCIAL EVENING

Last Thursday evening the hospitable home of Mr and Mrs Frank Grady, 2nd concession Egremont, was the scene of a pleasant social gathering, when a number of Mrs Grady's old friends met to spend a few hours with the newly married couple and to extend congratulations to them over their union. They were hospitably entertained and the bride was made the recipient, unexpectedly, of some valuable presents which testified to the respect in which she was held.

DEAR TRANSPORTATION

—A gentleman in London, Ont., ordered a car of coal to be sent from the International Bridge direct to his son in Saskatchewan. It arrived in due time, local coal at the point was selling at $14 a ton, and judge of the surprise of the shipper when he found a bill presented for freight of $17 per ton. He placed the matter in legal hands. "All the traffic will bear" is the rule of the rail apparently.

STOCK WILL BE HIGH NEXT YEAR

—The Woodstock Sentinel, in commenting on the very general disposition to sell both feed and stock says: "A shortage of stock, with a consequent rise in prices, should compensate those who make a sacrifice of present gain to future possibilities. On the whole we believe those farmers who retain as a goodly a proportion of their stock as they can will reap their reward next year."

Mr Farquharson gave an address and the children gave many fine contributions, showing careful training. Prizes were distributed.

Local Option and High License.

By Rev. Wm. Farquharson.

The license system and the prohibition of the retail trade in spirituous liquors under local option, are both creations of the temperance sentiment of the community. Nearly two hundred years ago according to Lecky, drinking habits became general among the common people of England cheap drink and absolute liberty in selling it gave the opportunity of presenting it at every corner. Shamelessly the basest side of drinking was advertised in such flaming signs as: "A drunk for a penny, a dead drunk for two pence, and straw for nothing." This state of affairs raised the cry that such disgraceful scenes must be stopped. To accomplish this end, laws were passed prohibiting the sale of drink by all except those permitted to do so by a special license. The holder of the license was to give evidence of his good character and the pledge that he would carry on the business in a respectable manner and in the interests of the public. This system with its prohibition of selling to all except those specially commissioned, is our present license system.

If you ask why I am opposed to that system, which in its day was looked upon as the hope of the temperance people, I answer frankly that it is because the system, whatever it was at first, has outlived its usefulness. License holders, as a rule, have been more interested in filling their own coffers than in discharging a public service, they have defiantly defied the public in their demand that the license and its conditions be maintained according to the terms of their license and thus they have neglected the very duty to sell was granted. Mr J. R. L. Starr, who was commissioned last session by the Ontario government to investigate the administration of the liquor license law in the city of Toronto, in his official report on the conditions of the license holders and his testimony he quotes as of the following character: "The conditions are abominable, 'some of them are not fit for human beings to live in,' 'I do not know how to express adequately the filth and abominable condition in which those hotels were,' 'we were amazed and horrified' and so on ad nauseam. Evidently these conditions are not because there is no money in the business, for Mr. Starr goes on to state that last year 47 tavern license transfers were applied for in the city at a sale price of $1,155,650.00 or at an average price of $24,588.14 each. "Every time," says Mr Starr, "that the license commissioners issue a license their board direct to a licensee they make him a present of $24,000." Through this monopoly in liquor, houses are 'tied' in the interests of the brewer and all are bound in an association for political purposes whose politics in every case is the interests of the liquor men.

These facts taken from a public document, published on the 8th of September of this year give proof positive that the license system is a failure. What we propose in its place is that the prohibitory clauses in the license act be retained, but that our license commissioners be prohibited from issuing any license in our town. This is proposed not because we have no fellow feeling with the license holders in their present position, but because of a broad ground of opposition to the cause with which we have identified themselves. Had the young David but sat first to dine on his cheeses with the Philistine he had soon discovered an abundance of common sympathies. He of Gath, it is recorded, was born of a father and mother, had brothers and sisters like another man—they, no more than the sons of Jesse were used to eat each other—but, for the sake of one broad antipathy that had existed from the beginning, David slung the stone cut off the giant's head, made a spoil of it, and after ate at his cheese alone, with the better appetite for all I can learn."

The Council and the Company

MR. EDITOR.—Regarding Cream Separator works which are still unoccupied or rather standing idle. In your last issue you tell us that a number of our local men were ready to finance the concern, and have it again a-going at once, but can't succeed on account of some hitch in dealing with the council. You don't say, Mr Editor, that the council is at the bottom of the trouble or rather at the head of it. But you come very near it and I don't blame you

Petitions Presented.

The petitions asking Durham Town Council to submit a by-law in January to bring Local Option into force at the close of the present license term, were placed in the hands of the clerk last week. They require that at least 25 per cent of the names on the list must be on the petitions; this was readily secured for 138 being the minimum. 183 names were on the petitions. The campaign against the bar-room and treating system is now on, we have left no doubt as to our own position on the question, but we signed articles or contributions of reasonable length bearing fairly on either side of the subject, will be admitted to our columns. We want all the light possible.

OPEN WEATHER.

—During the past week there have been heavy rains, a few flakes of snow, but still no hard weather. Grass is quite freshened up and a month more like this would solve the feed problem.

Remember the date, Thursday Nov. 14, and consult with Miss J. J. Allan at the Hahn House.

ROBBER.—Mr. Neely, a well-to-do farmer of Rockyln, disposed of 24 fat cattle in Toronto and came home with the cash. While in Meaford he showed his wad to several alleged friends and imbibed during the evening a little too freely. He lay down on a lounge, dozed off to sleep, and woke to find himself separated from $500. The police were notified but as he knew nothing of the number of the bills there is small hope of recovering.

THANKSGIVING SHOOTING.

—At the ranges Thursday last, a practice competition was held by several members of the Rifle Association of this town. The day was an ideal one, a right face wind prevailing being the only drawback. Following is the best score of the various shots out of a possible 50:

J. P. Telford	40	R. Torry	29
W. W. Ramsage	40	W. Irwin	25
E. Wolfe	37	Hawthorne	21
A. McComb	33	J. Johnston	19
H. Burnett	33	W. McGowan	14

Some of the last mentioned as well as some left out are but new beginners and whose scores are nevertheless creditable. In the case of the Editor probably the pen is mightier than the sword or its equivalent in this case the gun.
