DAMP WIRE.—David Dougald, porter at the Georgian Bay Hotel, Pennington, was instantly killed by an electric light in the cellar. Dougald went into the cellar for a bag of potatoes and carried the light some distance before he got the shock. His right hand was badly burned. It is supposed that the accident was caused by a current through dampness. He had been working out in the rain and his clothes were quite damp. The cord was also wet from his handling it.—Ex.

A strong argument for peace has been the terrible cost of war and of maintaining great armies and navies. But when we read that the Hague Conference which lasted 125 days cost $2,000,000, of which $523,000 was spent in dinners, we feel that one of our arguments is gone. It looks as if the hungry peace makers were determined to have peace at any price.—Presbyterian.

A by-law was introduced in Shelburne council at its regular meeting last week to increase the annual duties to be paid for each shop or tavern license for the sale of liquor in the municipality to the sum of $400. A vote was taken on this by-law at the municipal elections on Monday, Jan. 6. In the event of the vote carrying, the by-law will receive its third reading and come into immediate effect. The present license fee is $250.—Dundalk Herald.

A lady school teacher caused a sensation at Woodbridge fair. A special prize was offered for the best pair of dressed chickens. Shortly before the fair the teacher inquired from Secretary Wallace what was meant by "dressed" chickens. Mr. Wallace said the word was to be taken literally, and the teacher took it so. She dressed a pair most tastefully. The cock sported a pair of black trousers and a sleeveless coat, his wing he passed through the arm holes. He looked gay but uncomfortable, as the rig hampered him so he was unsteady on his legs. The hen wore a bright green mantle, a sash and a look of calm satisfaction. The birds were placed, not in the poultry house, but on a table in the hall, where they attracted more attention and admiration than any other exhibit.

A case of interest to hotelkeepers was tried at recent sitting of the Division Court at Orilla. A commercial traveller who was a regular patron of the Orilla House lost an overcoat and he sued for the loss. He hung the coat in a place which he was accustomed to do, but did not give it to the care of the proprietor or any of his assistants. The coat was stolen and the traveller sought to make the proprietor of the hotel responsible, but failed, being non-suited by Judge Ardagh. His Honor bases his decision on the fact that Mr. Hessey had provided a place for valubles, and has disclaimed responsibility in his register for any apparel not placed in the custody of the hotel clerk. At the same time, it was held that there was responsible ground for the traveller's contention.

A couple of years ago a cranky sort of an old man came into this office and stopped his paper because something in it did not just suit his fancy. We have frequently met him on the street since that time and it is amusing to note the look of surprise on the old fellow's face that we are still in existence regardless of the fact that he stopped his paper. Some day—and it won't be long either—that old gentleman will turn up his toes. His heart will be stilled forever. Neighbors and friends will follow his lifeless clay to the silent city and lay them to rest among the flowers. An obituary will be published in these columns telling what a kind father, a good neighbor and beloved citizen he was—which the recording angel will overlook for charity's sake, and in a very short time he will be forgotten. As he lies out there in the cold cold graveyard wrapped in the silent slumber of death, he will never know that the last kind word spoken of him was by the editor of that paper which in life he so spitefully "stopped." Did you ever pause just a moment and think that your editor, whoever he may be, will write your obituary some day.—Boston World.

Publisher's Notice.

"Dec. 07"

A very large number of our paid-in-advance subscribers have the date given above on the label of their Review, and we trust will attend as usual to the renewal at an early date.

Not a few labels already bear the advance date of

"Dec. 08"

or even further in advance and to these our sincere thanks are tendered. There are others, however, who have not attended to this duty and whose label still reads or even further back and to these we appeal for a settlement this month bringing their label to December '08 if possible.

"Dec. 06"

Campaign Notes.

Let the merchant remember that the bar-room is the sponge that absorbs a great percentage of the cash that ought to be spent with you. It causes most of the bad debts you cannot collect. An over-whelming majority of merchants in Local Option towns say that cash sales immediately increase 25% and collections are far easier.

P. K. Dayfoot, of Simcoe, says:—"In the town of Simcoe a license was withdrawn about a year ago. The results of that action are manifest and gratifying:—

1. A public nuisance has been removed.
2. A street corner has been transformed into a clean and quiet neighborhood.
3. The children of that district see no drinking or rowdyism.
4. Property in that district has risen in value.
5. The keeper of a low resort is now living a quiet and decent life.

These results will be seen everywhere where Local Option prevails.

Owen Sound Board of trade is not a temperance society nor a religious institution, but they are responsible for saying that the past year was the best business year in the history of Owen Sound. Local Option, therefore, does not hurt business.

Dr. Jamieson, M. P., while on his way from Durham to Toronto Tuesday morning took advantage of the wait for the train to visit the Mt. Forest Carriage Co's factory for the first time. The doctor was asked how the Local Option campaign was progressing in Durham and said it was generally conceded it would carry there.—Mt. Forest Rep.

One guess only? Try your hand! What is it that is

1. One of the worst enemies of legitimate trade.
2. A lurer of money from men who too often need it for the necessities of life for their families.
3. A breeder of slow paying customers and bad debts.
4. The bane of the churches and a hindrance to moral strength.
5. Destructive of the influence of the school and the home.
6. A moral evil and an economic disaster.
7. According to Lord Stanhope, "An invader of my social rights, a destroyer of my primary rights of security by constantly creating and stimulating social disorders."

There can be only one answer and no doubt you say, "Why! The licensed traffic in intoxicating liquor as a beverage."

The New Railroad Bridge

Across the River in town is causing a great deal of talk since it was started. Many are predicting that it will not stand the test when the floods come in the Spring. Other that there will be a big jam when the freshet comes, and will be carried away. We would not like to have that come to pass but we would like to see people jam and fill our store and get the bargains we are giving in new Dress Goods, Furs, Boots and Shoes, Underwear, etc.
