County Council.

Demands on our space last week compelled us to curtail County Council news, and this week we give a condensation. The Finance Committee's report recommended payment to Town of Owen Sound $10, G. Binnie $8, confirmed treasurer's statement of $800 paid to the various Agricultural Societies and also statement of Auctioneers' and Pedlars' licenses. That a grant of $500 to noncommissioned officers and men of the 51st Regiment, and that the other counties in the province be asked to join with this County in memorializing the Dominion Government to increase the pay of the uncommissioned officers and men of the Canadian militia, sufficient to secure a good supply of recruits for the force, of the right stamp. Report was adopted.

Tenders had been accepted for a bridge on County line at Soons to cost $8660 and similarly for the Pottawatamie bridge for $3650.

The salaries of the manager and matron of the House of Refuge were increased to $400 and $300 respectively; chairman of standing committee's were voted $10 each in addition to pay. A vote of thanks and $100 were given to Warden Pedwell and assurance that he was "a jolly good fellow."

The reports of the various committees were all easily disposed of but one—that pertaining to the House of Refuge the discussions leading to and following which were the feature of the session.

The special committee appointed to examine into the statements made by the grand Jury, reported the charges groundless after thorough examination, the manager exonerated from all blame and the Jury was reprimanded. Mr. Hynes was present and made a lengthy address, denying the personal charges, stating his belief that they had sprung from animus on the part of Messrs. Witham and Arlidge of Meaford. The manager was cross-examined by several members and came out of it well, the following resolution being passed:—

That after thoroughly investigating the complaints of the Grand Jury, regarding the condition and management of the House of Refuge at Markdale, we, as a County Council, find that there is no cause whatever for the criticisms of the Grand Jury of the said County of Grey, but that the inmates are all well and comfortably cared for, having an abundance of milk, vegetables and good substantial food, as indicated by the special investigations held by Dr. Bruce Smith, Government Inspector. All dairy produce and all vegetables required, are used by the inmates and those in charge, and most of the remarks of the Grand Jury are quite out of place and many of them untrue. We find that the managing committee and the manager are fully exonerated, and not deserving of the criticism passed upon them and the House by the Grand Jury, and the Grand Jury are deserving of severe censure for passing such criticism without having fully gone into all the facts in connection with the matter."

We have also found you a gentleman in the true sense of the term; generous and officious, always willing to oblige and often doing so to your own inconvenience. Of a genial disposition agreeable in manners, sociable at all times and pleasing to everybody. We find in you all the qualifications necessary for a person in your occupation and we have always deemed it a pleasure to associate with you. Our best wishes go with you during your departure from this village and we trust that fortune may smile on you wherever you may locate.

You have made many friends during your residence here, and the gifts and attributes that nature has so freely bestowed upon you leaves us no room for misgivings as to your ability to gain friends wherever you go. The friendly relations that have always existed between you and us has prompted us to meet here to night in your honor and in a formal way to give expression to our feelings of deep regret at your departure from among us and while we believe the Society of "Sons of Scotland" to be one of the best and take pride in the fact that we are of Scottish origin, we also note with admiration the same patriotic inclinations in yourself, in reference to your own country.

Therefore we ask you to fraternize with us to night, not as a Son of Scotland but as a brother and fellow member of that greatest and grandest of all societies, "The Brotherhood of Man."

Mr. Hector McDonald was early on the scene and enlivened the proceedings by excellent music on the pipes to which many of the young men responded by giving exhibitions of step dancing and even some of the older ones could not resist the temptation and did credit to a passing generation. There is nothing that will make an old Scot forget he has rheumatism better than the bagpipes. Little Jessie McDonald also gave an exhibition of sword dancing which received well merited praise. A few songs were cheerfully given by different parties and thus an hour or so was spent when in the midst of their enjoyment the bell rang for supper and everybody dropped his tune and instinctively prepared to allay the cravings of the inner man. About 80 sat to supper and did credit to the good things set before them (oysters not excepted) and chatted and en-

Joyed themselves immensely and when the repast was over they set to and cleared away the dishes and tables and spent a few hours in tripping the light fantastic toe to the sweet strains of the violin in the hands of H. McDonald accompanied on the piano by his little daughter who is a remarkable pianist for her age. At an opportune time presarranged Mr. John McArthur was nominated to the chair and in his usual able manner explained the chief object of the gathering and spoke briefly in terms highly complimentary to the guests of the evening. He then called on the secretary of the camp to read the address given below. Messrs. A. Mc-

Caig and N. McKinnon also spoke in a few well chosen words and Mr. D. McMillan sang a song of his own composition expressing his feelings in poetry. The remarks made by all the speakers and those contained in the address brought forth cheers and exclamations of approval by the audience. This part of the proceedings being over the young people again betook themselves to the ever fascinating dance and the cheery smile and merry laughter seen and heard on every side evidenced the happiness that permeated the throng.

Following is the address: Dear Friends: It is with feelings of regret and sorrow we have learned that you are about to leave this village and we realize that in your departure from among us we are losing a kind and obliging friend.

When we look back over the past ten years so that you have resided here in the occupation of hotel keeper our memory recalls many and varied pleasant associations and none that even taint of an unpleasant nature. We meet here to night as a camp of the Sons of Scotland Benevolent Association to partake of our annual supper and we ask you and your esteemed wife and family to be our guests. We do this in your honor and to show you in a feeble way that we appreciate the many acts of kindness performed for us by you in times past. To swap upon you in this manner and make your home the scene of this festive gathering is only the natural outcome of a friendship that grew stronger as we became better acquainted. You were always kindly disposed toward us as a society and at our concerts and festive gatherings which we have had from time to time you were often present and added materially to the entertainment and as individual members your conduct toward us has always been such as to merit the highest praise.

In order to attend our regular camp meetings many of us have to come quite a distance to the village and we are often detained on account of bus-ness or pleasure until a very late hour but it is always gratifying to us to know that our horses were comfortable in your stable and that we could get them out at any time we called for them. This one of the best and we feel indebted to you for and we take this occasion to tender you our sincere thanks.

Our best wishes go with you during your departure from this village and we trust that fortune may smile on you wherever you may locate. You have made many friends during your residence here, and the gifts and attributes that nature has so freely bestowed upon you leaves us no room for misgivings as to your ability to gain friends wherever you go. The friendly relations that have always existed between you and us has prompted us to meet here to night in your honor and in a formal way to give expression to our feelings of deep regret at your departure from among us and while we believe the Society of "Sons of Scotland" to be one of the best and take pride in the fact that we are of Scottish origin, we also note with admiration the same patriotic inclinations in yourself, in reference to your own country.

Therefore we ask you to fraternize with us to night, not as a Son of Scotland but as a brother and fellow member of that greatest and grandest of all societies, "The Brotherhood of Man."

Once upon a time a man went down to his front gate one morning and stopped the milkman. "Say," he called, "I want you to leave milk here after this! How much is it a quart? "Five cents," responded the milkman. "Well here is 35 cents, that will pay for a week!" And that worthy citizen went into his breakfast. For all that week the milkman faithfully left the milk on the doorstep each morning and after the week was up he continued to leave it and the citizen continued to take it inside and use it. Things went on this way for a year, and finally the milkman presented a bill for milk for fifty one weeks. "But I only ordered milk of you for one week. You should have stopped when the time was up," said the citizen. "Have you not received the milk each morning and used it?" asked the milkman. "Yes, but I thought you were giving it to me," said the citizen. "You're a blamed fool or else you're a terrible liar," replied the quick tempered milkman. "And if you don't pay for that milk I will have the law on you." The man paid up. Should you ask us the name of this citizen, we can only tell you that it is the same man that took the local paper for several years, and then refused to pay for it because he had only paid for a year when he subscribed and claimed he thought that the publisher was giving it to him.—Ex.
