DEATH FOR

Is the Sentence For Surrendering Port Arthur.

May be Commuted to Ten Years In Fortress.

Charged With Cowardice and Treasonable Haste.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.-Lieutenant-General Stoessel was condemned to death this evening by a military court for the surrender of Port Arthur to the Japanese. General Fock, who commanded the fourth East Siberian division of Port Arthur, was ordered which was not connected with the surrender, and General Smirnoff, acting commandant of the fortress, and Major-General Reiss, Chief of Staff to General Stoessel, were acquitted on the charges against them for lack of proof. The court recommended that the death sentence of Lieutenant-General Stoesel be commuted to ten years imprisonment in a fortress, and that he be excluded from the service.

The sentence of death was pronounced upon General Stoessel for surrendering the fortress before all the means of defence had been exhausted, for failing to enforce his authority, and for military misdemeanor.

Commutation of Sentence Asked. Commutation of sentence was asked on the ground that "Port Arthur, be set by overwhelming forces, defended itself under General Stoessel's leaderwith unexampled stubborness of filled the world with astonishment at the heroic courage of its garrison; that several assaults had been repulsed with tremendous losses on the part of the enemy; that General Stoessel throughout the siege had maintained the heroic courage of the defenders, is said to have been made the butt, son for a term which would last to the responsible for the loss of the war, be and finally that he had taken an ener- one of the jokers, John Schwartz, end of his days. Cowardice and Incapacity.

The basis of the indictments upon which Lieutenant-General Stoessel. Ceneral Fock, who commanded the fourth East Siberian division of Port Arthur, and Major-General Reiss, Chief-of-Staff to General Stoessel, were tried for their lives, was a secret report made by Lieutenaut-General Smirnoff on the defence of Port Arthur. Smirnoff was acting commandant of the fortress, Stoesser being commander of the Kwangtung Peninsula. Smirnoff categorically accused Stoessel of cowardice and incapacity, and finally of the deliberate and treasonable hastening of the surrender to save his own life, and in defiance of the decisions of two successive councils of war. The report was extremely biased. It breathed the most bitter personal enmity, and showed that the high officers of the Port Arthur garrison in the darkest days of siege were almost at one another's throats.

Smirnoff's Indictment.

General Smirnoff summed up his indictment as follows: "A series of unpardonable blunders outside the formilitary capacity and martial prowess. of Generals Stoessel and Fock, brought about the investment of the fortress several months earlier than was neces- of Herbert Druce for perjury that she a short time before he was taken into and assure respect for the constitution. that would make complete the rail consary, and after the investment a desire was introduced to the Duke of Portland custody on the complaint of employees for undeserved glory moved Stoessel to ate results. From the points of vantage secured the inner forts and harbor were shelled, but the garrison was still in fighting fettle, when on January 7, 1905, Stoessel surrendered. Dr. Morrison, the Times correspondent, two weeks later had access to all the official records, and declared that "no more discreditable surrender has been recorded in history." It was really this assertion in the leading British journal that caused the Russian Government to go thoroughly into the facts. It was found that when Port Arthur was surrendered the Japs captured 25, 000 able-bodied soldiers, 528 guns of position, 36,598 serviceable rifles, over five million rounds of small arm ammunition, and 206,000 rounds of shell for the big reprimanded for a disciplinary offence guns. THREE COFFINS SIDE BY SIDE Drowned. Ottawa despatch: There was a pathetic sight at the central depot this morning.

Side by side, in homely coffins, were the bodies of three brothers named McDonald, who some months ago met death by drowning at White Fish River, on the national transcontinetal railway. They were engaged with a survey party, and in shooting the rapids the boat was upset. The bodies were not recovered for some time, but when they
