Overcome Evil With Good.

"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." Aim at that which is good, occupy your time with that which is good, fill your thoughts with that which is good, and the assaults of evil will have lost half their power. An earnest employment, a steady purpose in life, a diligent use of time—these are an irresistible panoply against vice; these strike out of the devil's hands his worst implements of temptation.

You will remember that terrible truth in one of the Lord's sternest parables, about the evil spirit's returning to the house whence he came out, and finding it empty, swept, and garnished; then goeth he and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there, and the last state of that man is worse than the first. What does that "empty, swept, and garnished" mean? It means that if your heart is not preoccupied with good, it will be invaded by evil.

Oh, beware of idleness in its every form; idle procrastinations, idle talk, idle habits, idle thoughts—these are the certain ruin of the soul. The laborer who stands idle in the market place is ever ready to be hired in the devil's service. The worm of sin gnaws deepest into the idle heart. Preoccupy your heart with good; preoccupy your time with honest industry, and you are safe. "Whatever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, of good report; if there be any virtue, if any praise, think on these things." Evil can do little or nothing on the domain of good as darkness can force its way into the circle of radiance which a lamp flings into the night. Remember that since all sin begins in thought, if your thoughts are safe, then you are safe.—F. W. Farrar, D.D.

Down the Vista of the Ages.

(By a Banker.)

To those who take an interest in the history of the remote past and in glancing down the dim vista of time, a day spent in the great museum at Cairo is a day of keen gratification and enjoyment. Entering the splendid and massive vestibule the visitor is immediately in an atmosphere of antiquity, and surrounded with relics both of the very dawn of civilization and also of the more refined and artistic periods of the great kingdoms monarchs whose conquests raised Egypt to the zenith of its power, and whose massive achievements remain to this day almost untouched by the disintegrating and despoiling hand of time.

Here for instance is a magnificent gilded chariot, its gilded front of leather embossed with warlike figures or with an artistic design; perhaps the very chariot on which the great Kamosea careered at the head of his victorious army through the palm-bordered avenues of Memphis after some great conquest; here a number of cases of valuable and handsome jewelry, worn by the queens and princesses of Egypt in those days of regal splendor; or here a series of painted papyri, still fresh and bright, figuring the splendid and stately appearance before a strange and dread tribunal, which is to adjudicate upon its final doom.

But of infinitely greater interest than any other object in that wonderful museum, are the three embalmed bodies—not mummies, but the actual bodies—of Egypt's greatest Pharaohs—Seti I., the builder of some of the finest of the temples, the sword-clerk in his skull by which he was slain in battle plainly visible; Kamosea the Great, the Pharaoh of the oppression, who ordered the Israelites to make bricks without straw; and Amenhotep, the Pharaoh of the Exodus, and that being so, the man—the very man—who said to Moses, "See my face, no more for in that day thou shalt see my face thou shalt die!" Ah! little thought the monarch when he sent his host to pursue the Israelites through the yawning gorge of the Red Sea, that after a lapse of three thousand four hundred years he himself should be exposed to the gaze of, amongst others, many of the descendants of those very Israelites whom he so vainly attempted to destroy.

And as the visitor contemplates that solemn recumbent figure the thought may perhaps flash through his mind that that race, upon which he so impudently vented his anger, was the race through which the Son of God elected to assume for a time our human nature; and in that nature, with a love and condescension altogether beyond our comprehension, as our great Substitute, to be scourged and crucified, that by His atonement we might be pardoned and accepted.

Sympathy.

We are as harps that vibrate to a touch from stranger hands, unconscious of the strings, and through its halls responsive music rings. Few are the Davids to these harps of ours. Let us be thankful, Earth were too like Heaven. If, with the power of loving deep and long. That other gift of sympathy were given.

Trying It On Hubby.

"John, dear, I wish you would taste this milk and see if it is perfectly sweet." "What for?" "Because if it's the least bit sour I don't want to give any of it to Fido. It isn't good for him."

House Cleaning

Stretch Carpet With Fast.

In housecleaning time, when it comes to the hard task of stretching carpet an easy way to do it is to put on a pair of rubbers over your shoes, and after one side of the carpet is tacked down, begin from that side of the room to shove the carpet with your feet, tacking at the other side of the room as you go along.

Clean Velvet.

Rub lightly and rapidly with a clean, soft white cotton cloth, dipped in alcohol; repeat until clean. To restore the pile of velvet steam upon wrong side over boiling water.

Destroy Insects.

Dissolve two pounds of alum in three quarts of water. Let it remain overnight until all alum is dissolved. Then with a brush, apply boiling hot to joints or crevices in the closet or shelves where cotton bugs, ants, cockroaches, etc., intrude; also joints and crevices of bedsteads, as bedbugs cannot live where this solution is applied.

Dry Clean Blankets.

White blankets often become slightly soiled, but not enough for washing. They can be dry cleaned successfully with flour and salt. Take a medium sized dishpan, fill with flour and a small sack of salt, mix well, and rub soiled parts in it. When the soil disappears, shake well and hang out in a good wind and the blankets will be like new again. Enter the splendid and massive vestibule the visitor is immediately in an atmosphere of antiquity, and surrounded with relics both of the very dawn of civilization and also of the more refined and artistic periods of the great kingdoms monarchs whose conquests raised Egypt to the zenith of its power, and whose massive achievements remain to this day almost untouched by the disintegrating and despoiling hand of time.

Pumice Stone for Pans.

When washing kitchen utensils, such as skillets, frying pans, etc., scour with a flat piece of pumice stone, which can be procured at any drug store for a few cents, and lasts for some time. You will find it a good help in keeping such articles bright and clean.

Clean Wall Paper.

Pulverized pumice stone, four ounces, flour one quart, mix thoroughly and knead with water enough to make a dough. Form into balls two by six to eight inches, sew in a cotton cloth, boil forty minutes, or until firm. After cooling, dip into the water and stir several hours. Then remove cloth and use.

Wash Oil Cloth.

Always take milk and water. Never use soap, as this dulls the colors. Rub over with a mixture of one-half beeswax, melted, and white warm stirred into a saucer of turpentine. Apply with a dry flannel cloth and polish with a dry flannel. Or wash as above, and oil with sweet oil or butter. Polish.

Moving Heavy Furniture.

In housecleaning time, when it becomes necessary to move a piano, organ, or other heavy furniture from one room to another, much lifting may be avoided by taking two boards about a foot long and five inches broad, shaped like a wedge. Have the thick ends on a level with the door sill, place them against the wheels, and the castors may be guided on to the thin ends of the boards, moved into the next room with no unnecessary lifting.

What the Railroads Do For Us.

(Gillon Willets in Leslie's Weekly.)

Kansas farmers needed 100,000 hoes last year. What would those farmers have done if the railroads had not produced the 100,000 by means of special rates? The railroads brought 1,000,000 visitors to Saratoga last summer, and $600,000 to Atlantic City during the year, and 40,000 to the Maine woods, and 200,000 to a G. A. R. encampment, and 50,000 to a Chautauque assembly, those people that brought money into circulation. That travel created jobs galore. We all benefited because the railroads hustled and got the people out. That's how the thing works positively. Now see how it works negatively. I was in the Northwest opened, built up, developed, and populated by Hill's railroad last fall when there was so much freight to be moved that shippers complained because they couldn't get cars. Un-reasoning anti-railroadites hit the "anti" business, those people that brought there are nearly 100,000 empty, idle cars. There's nothing to move. I was in Florida this winter when the "anti" business compelled the Southern railroads to take off some of their crack trains and to shut up most of their big shops. Travel was only half what it was in other winters. Result, only half the number of jobs open to you and to me.

Sure of His Mother.

"Now, Jamie," said a school teacher "if there were only one pie for dessert and there were five of you children and papa and mamma to divide it among, how large a piece would you get?" "One-sixth," replied Jamie, promptly. "But there would be seven people there, Jamie. Don't you know how many times seven goes into one?" "Yes'm. And I know my mother, she'd say she wasn't hungry for pie that day. I'd get one-sixth."

When Aluminium Gives Out.

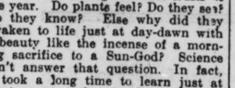

It will be practicable to obtain aluminium—already recognized as one of the most indispensable of metals—when the deposits of bauxite give out? Bauxite is a kind of clay and the deposits have already been pretty well worked out. If aluminium is to remain at a low price other sources of the metal must be discovered. On the face of it the problem would not seem difficult, inasmuch as every clay bank, it might be said, is an aluminium mine. But the difficulty lies in extracting it. In bauxite the metal occurs in the form of an oxide and is easily separated by summing electricity to the aid of chemistry. But in ordinary clays it assumes the shape of a silicate and is costly to extract. It remains, then, for some ingenious chemist to devise a process by which the silicate may be compelled to give up the aluminium. When this has been accomplished the problem will be settled for all time. Here is another opportunity for inventors.

What Science Doesn't Know.

On these mornings, when there has drifted over the fields a Presence, which the ancients called the Angel of the Rain—you awaken to find every orchard, every lilac bush, all the wild fruit terminals in New Zealand, and a score of other "developments" in the railway world have been checked by the "anti." Public hysteria on the subject of railroads has caused head railroaders to order "air engineers" to "stop work wherever possible."

PARADISE FOR QUACKS.

Free Play in Sale of Patent Medicine in England.

Great Britain is the happy hunting ground of the medical quack, if one can believe a member of the Association of London. He is quoted in Derick's British Report as saying that two years ago the annual sale of proprietary medicines in Great Britain amounted to $40,000,000.

This woman says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved her from death.

"I want to tell you that without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I would not be alive. For months I suffered with painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the female organs. Doctors prescribed nothing for me, and said I must submit to an operation as I had a tumor. One of my cousins advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had cured her."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration, and all the ills that women are subject to by the end of two weeks. But if it is a case where there is urgent for it to be back to business, three to five weeks will be sufficient to stay in the hospital before returning to light work. The convalescence is painless and uneventful.

9 YEARS BAD LEG. HEALED BY ZAM-BUK.

Mr. C. Johnson, of Poplar Hill Creek, Athabasca Landing, Alta., says: "About nine years ago a running sore commenced on my right leg caused by a ruptured blood-vessel. As time went on it grew worse and my sufferings were intense. I had a very sore leg indeed, and had very small hopes of ever seeing it healed, in fact I was told by several who had known such sores that I would suffer with it for life. When I was almost in despair I heard of Zam-Buk and commenced using it. Other sores I had used caused me much suffering, but Zam-Buk soothed the pain, and although it appeared for some time to be doing no good, yet I persevered, and as soon as the wound became clean, it was only a matter of three or four days before it was healed."

STRENGTH OF GLASS.

Harder to Figure Than That of Many Other Substances.

Glass is not a substance that we can figure the strength of as we can a great many others things with which we are familiar, says the Scientific American. It varies greatly in itself. The strongest glass, as a rule, breaks into the greatest number of fragments. Comparing the strength of thin glass with that of the former is relatively lost sight of. Then, again, as to the difference between rough plate and polished plate, we find polished plate the stronger. This is perhaps to be attributed to the fact that all three very fine surface hair cracks are polished out. These only go into the glass to a certain depth and when they are all or nearly all polished and ground off, there is less chance for some of them to form the basis of a crack, and thereby the glass is increased in strength. Tests have been made and some formulae have been arrived at, but it was to be expected, they show very irregular results as to the strength of glass.

Honest Lincoln.

On another occasion an appeal was made by a young man in Southern Indiana for some favor touching military operations. In presenting his case to the President the young man said: "By the way, President Lincoln, you know my family."

Very well, said Mr. Lincoln. "I remember that on one occasion I was on my way from Indiana to Illinois. I stopped at your father's house to eat dinner, and while there I had occasion to sharpen my knife."

"I interrupted the young man, and you must have carried off the whetstone, for we have never seen it since that day."

"I did not take it," replied Mr. Lincoln, "but when I was through using it I laid it on the top of a post in the barnyard. I think you'll find it there if you look carefully."

"That may be," said the young man, "for it is so high that no ordinary person can reach it."

The sequel reveals the fact that the whetstone was found on the top of the post thus vindicating both the honesty and the memory which Mr. Lincoln possessed.—Washington Star.

COIN THAT DOESN'T RING.

Not Always a Counterfeit—May Have Only a Small Gavity in It.

Gold coins which do not ring are not always counterfeits, according to Operative Thomas E. Foster, in charge of the United States Secret Service work for this district. He demonstrated that fact at the police station yesterday, and as a result Aimee Sykes, alias Gena O'Gara, will be charged with stealing $5 in lawful money of the United States from one William McCarrity.

The woman was arrested Tuesday night by City Detectives H. C. Adams and F. W. Clark on complaint by McCarrity. The $5 gold piece supposed to have been stolen was found on her and was held as evidence. Clerk Billy Kant dropped the gold piece on the desk at the station and it fell like a piece of lead. There was absolutely no ring to it.

Operative Foster was called in, with a view of capturing a band of counterfeiters.

"Just as good as any coin ever turned out at the mint," said the Secret Service man, after he had examined the coin. "It is very probably that there is a small cavity in this coin that happens very often and gives a great deal of trouble. When the ingots from which these coins are made are cast at the mint all bubbles get into the metal. When the metal is rolled out and the coins are made the bubbles sometimes stay there, and there is no ring to such a coin."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Greedy Little Salmon.

Little creatures may be very greedy and yet not be able to eat much because of their size, as was illustrated, for instance, in the case of a batch of about 20,000 Hile Chinook salmon that were hatched out at the Aquarium.

These young fishes, each about two inches long, would eat so much that their little stomachs fairly stuck out, and yet to feed the whole 20,000 took daily only one pound of liver and a quart of herring roe, both chopped fine.
