Priceville

It is some time since Priceville was heard from, but nothing serious happened to the correspondent only he was too far away for a few weeks to give the usual budgets from here.

We have fine growing weather and crops seldom ever had a better appearance than they have at present.

Gaelic Communion in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday last and quite a number of the lovers of that ancient language were out on the occasion.

Mrs McLean, (Kate McKechnie) of Dakota, is visiting at her brother's, Mr John McKechnie, and other friends on the Durham Road, Glenelg, for a couple of weeks.

We are very sorry to report the serious illness of Miss Kate McIntyre South line, Glenelg, as the doctors have no hopes of her recovery whatever, but there is nothing impossible for the Great Physician, and we hope that a change may take place yet for the best.

Miss Maggie Stohart is spending her holidays at the old home, west of this place at present.

Mr C. C. James, of this town, had a barn raising one afternoon last week, where everything went well.

Passenger trains are running regular now from Priddy Station to Durham and Hanover and travellers will find now a great convenience besides staging it.

Councillor J. A. McMillan is operating with the road grader on the South line, Glenelg, for a few days, and we had the pleasure of having that famous piece of invention left opposite our residence over Sunday.

Operator Atkinson must have a good opinion of South line's honesty, as everything was left on the highway.

Some are thinking of starting hay-favorable. This week it weather continues

John McArthur Jr., Priceville, is practicing at Dundalk with another dentist and comes to Priceville on Saturday till Monday. John is well liked and will receive good patronage when in a position to run business for himself.

Mrs Gilberts, of Toronto, is spending a few weeks with her father and mother, Mr and Mrs John McQuarrie, North line, at present.

Mr Arch McQuarrie's fine field of golden wheat is beginning to have a full appearance and is an excellent looking crop.

Hampden

Mrs Andrew Derby Sr., of Hanover, and her two daughters in Buffalo are spending their holidays on the old homestead.

Miss Mary S Nichol of Owen Sound is visiting her grandmother, Mrs John Young at present.

Miss Minnie Whiteford is enjoying her holidays at home.

Mrs. H. Byers returned from her visit to Hamilton and other points on Saturday last.

Mrs Chas Bailey of Elmwood is visiting her sister, Mrs Wm A Sharp at present.

Is it far to Poplar Hill George? Saturday morning did not look very promising for a picnic but as the weather always favors us it turned out fine in the afternoon. About 3.30 the crowd was called to order and Mr. R. J. Ball of Hanover was placed in the chair.

The chairman and Mr. Robertson of Hanover gave two excellent addresses, the choir favored us with a few good pieces, while the mouth organ orchestra and elab swinging were excellent. The reciters were also up to the front with their part, Mr. Whyte, Jean Morice, Georgina Laidlaw, Evelyn McLean and Sarah Fulton all ably contributing.

The program was brought to a close by the school children singing "The Maple Leaf" forever. The lunch was then served and the crowd retired to the baseball field to see our boys beat Ayton baseball team 14-0

By 6.30 a. m. the 81st Regt. was prepared to embark. They were joined by the 9th Miss. Horse and 56th Regt. By 6.50 a. m. the Str Corona was filled to its utmost capacity.

Now the Captain is on the bridge. "All clear" sounds from below. One stroke of the gong, and the big engines propel upwards of 600 men toward home. Some one on the dock cried out "Three cheers for the 81st!" Three hearty cheers such as only come from stanch Canadian lads, resounded through the still air and marked the departure of the bravest, truest and most stanch specimen of manhood that Canada can produce.

Such were scenes so far as the 81st And may it be that having learned the duties and discipline of the soldier every man will endeavor to carry out the good principles he has learned throughout his daily life.

Then we will have a country stanch and true, men obedient, energetic and anxious to further their country's interests: good citizens, willing and ready to respond to their country's call at any time.

Yours Sincerely

Foresters Picnic at Dromore.

The second annual picnic of Dromore Court L. O. F. was held in Taylor's Grove on the 1st of July and was a decided success. The beautiful morning prophesied a large gathering and sure enough the crowd had ever entertained numbering twelve hundred and was thoroughly representative of the surrounding country and perfect harmony and good will reigned throughout.

A programme of songs, recitations music, commenced the afternoon's amusement. Messrs Hastie presiding and the contributors included Mrs. Atchison, Mrs. Lister, Miss Switzer, Messrs. A. McDonald, Clarke Dazell and others and a string band led by W. McKechnie rendered stirring music.

A foot ball match between Holstein and Dromore seniors resulted in a goal apiece after which tea was served. The tables set proved to be too small but baskets of temptingly sandwiches and cake were distributed and the larger proving equal to the occasion, all were soon satisfied.

A second foot ball match between Pomona and the Dromore Juniors resulted in 3 goals to 0 in favor of Dromore.

Races for tempting money prizes were run by the young people and the best ones won.

A large platform for the dancers was crowded all evening and when the shades of night were falling the large assembly quietly dispersed all well pleased with the day's outing.

Too much praise cannot be given the committee who worked hard and faithfully to make the meeting such a success.

The "last day" in Niagara Camp

Feeling that the readers of your valuable paper would like to know what the "Last Day" at camp is like I take this opportunity of writing you a brief account.

The first mark or sign of the "last day" at camp was the departure of the "D" company and the 23rd regiment the night previous.

The effects of the "long march" were not over and the inspiration received any when the Durham boys packed their goods and made for the train. It was about 7.30 p. m. when the first piece of baggage found its way on stewart shoulders to the train platform. Many good bye's were exchanged and the "D" Co. boys realize they were so part, until they commenced to prepare for their trip home.

It was stated in Orders that "D" Co. would depart by train at 8 p. m. and would be met by the officers of the Regiment on the train at that time. For truly he is a "Jolly good fellow, Wellmay Durham and the boys of "D" Co. be proud of their leader for without doubt Capt. Solter is the most popular officer in the Regiment. Head erect, chest out, straight as the marse, he put in a soldierly manner.

We need say no more for under such leadership it is only to be expected that "D" Co. had the best. On the "last day" the absence of "D" Co. was greatly felt, and that feeling of loneliness which comes when one feels intensely alone, was felt throughout the entire regiment.

Saturday, the last day opened bright and early. At 3 a. m. heavy wagons could be heard making their way to the dock.

Breakfast was served at 5.30 a. m. and it was while enjoying what some boys called "last supper" that the Brigade Duty Band marched up the lines playing "Auld Lang Syne." This old familiar melody was so appropriate that nearly every body ran to the front to cheer the band for the last time. And to those who had seen the trade in the past had partied or soon would part with old companions-at-arms, it was especially touching. Here and there might be seen a tear while others found it difficult to speak when they attempted to do so.

In seeing and experiencing this one could not imagine that in active service farewells scenes could be more sincere or touching.

By 6.30 a. m. the 81st Regt. was prepared to embark. They were joined by the 9th Miss. Horse and 56th Regt. By 6.50 a. m. the Str Corona was filled to its utmost capacity.

Winnipeg.

By REV. WM. FARQUHARSON.

An account of Manitoba, however brief, would be sadly lacking without a word about Winnipeg, the commercial capital of the West. When first saw Winnipeg twenty-four years ago, it had a somewhat ragged appearance. The streets were muddy and the buildings in many cases had the appearance of extemporized shacks.

The street cars were drawn (that is feeling of doubt about the future both of the city and of the western country generally. So much have things changed that you would hardly believe that such a state of things could have been possible at a time so recent.

No one now visits Winnipeg without admiring its wide streets and fine buildings. The C. P. R. station and the hotel connected with it and owned by the same Company, are spoken of as among the finest on the continent.

Main street and part of Portage Avenue have all this season been in a state of chaos through the extensive and radical improvements that are being pushed forward. Rails for street car service, heavier than those in use on the C. P. R., are being laid over all its being put of it to asphalt so that when the improvements are completed, there will be a road bed solid and smooth, which it is hoped will stand the traffic for many days.

Round the suburbs are residences which for elegance and comfort will compare favorably with those in similar situations in Toronto. As lands have received a check, but there is no longer any doubt of the future of the city. A few holders of lands may under stress, have sold at a loss, but the most part sales that are made at accustomed prices are not made at all.

Space will not permit me to give any detailed account of the different places visited, especially since during the days I was in the city after the pleasure of having a horse and buggy know every foot of the city, and every path from one part of it to another. Under these circumstances I had every opportunity of seeing everything that was worth looking at. We rounded Armstrong Point, took the charming drive through Wellington Crescent, passed the aristocratic dwellings of Fort Rouge, went round Point Douglas, Elbow, and the past the Agri-culture Park, round the carriage way forms the great city park. We saw the great big cement cistern with a door which we were told was designed as a winter bed room for his assigned as a large birds of prey sitting on the perch with their feet around them and bad smelling foot beneath them. We were in an enclosure containing pastures and an elk with wide spreading horns, and deer with their antlers in the present moment.

quitos with which all the western drove to the river to see a vessel that this spring sailed at the way from Prince Albert to Winnipeg, but as it had steamed away we had to content ourselves with looking at the place where it had been moored.

With all these objects to arrest the eye and awaken the reflection it may seem strange that the most interesting things I saw were the cities of the dead and the historical monuments.

Black, Nesbitt, King and Robertson, service on behalf of country and church. On the way to this burying monument erected in memory of the Company and the North Western Fur Trading Co., once active rivals for the possession of the trade in these lands. At St John's we looked on the monument erected to the memory of John Norquay and that erected to the memory of the hero of Battleford and Fish Creek bearing the date 1885. Over at St. Boniface we saw the simple granite stone erected to the memory of the Louis Riel with its simple and brief inscription: Riel, 16 November, 1885.

As we looked at the tomb and called the name to mind, all the feelings of fear or hate which once his name might have called forth, melted into feelings of pity, both for the man and the race to which he belonged.

From these graves, each with its stone to tell of friends who would not allow their names to be forgotten, we turned to Elmwood and after some difficulty found the little mound where unnamed, rests the mortal remains of the late A. G. Jensen. The location in the cemetery is all that could be desired and the grass is neatly clipped, but I could not help the wish, which I shall gladly help to realize, that some frequent visits of his old congregation from his kindred and native land, held in loving remembrance by those to whom for many years he so faithfully ministered.
