all doing a large and lucrative business six days in the week and some of them, seven. Until recently this year I think, the saloons were open on Sundays as on other days. It seems there has been for some time a Sunday closing law on the statute book but until the present governor was elected it remained a dead letter and no attention was paid to it. Now, however the governor is enforcing the law and the saloons are supposed to be closed on Sunday. Many of them doubtless are but as in all other places, there are unscrupulous renegades who will trample under foot any law however sacred for the sake of unhallowed gain.

The Millinery Season Opens Wed., Mar. 24

Miss Dick begs to announce the arrival of the Paris Hats for the Spring of 1903 and to extend an invitation to their first public exhibition on Wed. and Thursday, March 24 & 25 and following days. March 24 ushers in the new Millinery this year, the era of the brimless crown and the pre-Victorian Bonnet. We'll be ready to receive visitors at 8 o'clock that morning. The Showroom has been prettily decorated, and we'll auspiciously celebrate the return of Spring "though wintry winds do blow or no."

The sensational Hamilton murder is still the topic of conversation, though the inquest has been adjourned till Friday of this week, when new developments are promised. The tramp theory is now discarded and an arrest is looked for.

COCHRANE'S WONDERFUL GROWTH—A recent copy of the Temiskaming Herald sent by Mr John Clark gives a most interesting write-up of the marvelous rapidity with which the town of Cochrane has sprung up, and incidentally appreciates his services in keeping law and order. Cochrane is away north of Cobalt and New Liskeard, is one of the divisional points on the new G. T. P., has now railway connection from the south, and is organizing a public school. We quote the following, "Any one who visited Cochrane on Nov. 26, 1902, and saw it to-day could not help but be amazed at the progress that has been made in the three months which have since elapsed. Since Nov. 26 the day of the sale of town lots, a number of the purchasers have built hotels, stores, pool rooms, barber shops and restaurants. There are about thirty buildings erected and their owners are doing a thriving business. There is a bakery, a laundry, three barber shops, two pool rooms and several other businesses such as draying and liveries and so on. So that there is a great change in the three months that have passed. Of course we have the inevitable blind pig and whiskey pedlar, but to keep them in bounds we have the redoubtable Jno. Loughrin, Transcontinental Police Magistrate, assisted by his police Jno. Shields, of North Bay, and Jno. Clark, of Durham. They form a trinity of Johns that would be hard to beat and the result is that they keep the whiskey pedlar on tenter hooks. They have made several important seizures lately, so that notwithstanding some reports that have gone abroad this is a fairly sober town.

Obituary

MRS. ALEX HENDERSON.

It is our sad duty to record the death of another well-known resident of Egremont, Mrs Alex Henderson, who died at her home on the 18th Feb., on the 10th March inst. For some years she has been unwell, but still her removal will make a blank in the home over which she has presided for almost 40 years.

Dear Mr Ramage,—

In my last letter I think I left off about the time I arrived in San Antonio. There are many things about the city that would probably interest you, but I must limit myself to a few of the most important. San Antonio is an inland city with a population of about 90,000 souls. It is a lively commercial city with no rival of any importance for a hundred miles or more in any direction. It has two main business streets—Commerce and Houston—and these are usually very busy, but they are narrow and seem crowded, when in reality the traffic is not so great. The same traffic in wider streets would appear small. It is not a manufacturing centre for no tall commercial steeples "darken the horizon with their sooty output. The expense of furnishing power is too great to successfully compete with the great northern centres where proximity to coal mines and water powers gives power at lowest cost. Not to say there is no coal in Texas, for there are vast areas of it, as yet only partly developed in certain parts of the state, but the coal is said to be inferior to northern coal for manufacturing purposes, though it serves pretty well for domestic use as fuel. It may be that a better quality of coal may yet be found in sufficient quantities to make more extensive local manufacturing possible. But manufacturing on a large scale in the city would be detrimental to it, if not entirely destroy its chief present "attraction" to outsiders. I refer to its climate, the healthfulness of which has probably extended its fame far beyond the boundaries of the U. S. or even of this continent. When it is considered that the average clear days during the year is 254, the average rainfall about 23 inches, the average annual temperature 68 and the average relative humidity 65, it will be readily conceded that there are not many places on the continent that can boast of so equable and healthful a climate. The citizens say there is no other, and travellers, who have sought such places elsewhere confirm the opinion. As a winter resort the city of San Antonio possesses attractions and advantages rarely found elsewhere. It is warm, dry, healthful and agreeable. Snow is almost absolutely unknown.

To make the most of these natural advantages the citizens maintain at considerable expense within the city limits many beautiful parks and public gardens, provided with chairs and benches where, under the abundant foliage of wide spreading semi-tropical trees and shrubs any one may sit and enjoy the fresh air and genial sunshine to his heart's content. Every year ten to fifteen thousand visitors from all sections of the U. S. and from many parts of Europe spend the winter here and frequently make it their permanent home. To accommodate so many visitors the city is provided with a great number of hotels. Last year a large million dollar hotel was built and has only recently been finished. This year two more million dollar houses are in course of erection and will be ready for occupation in a year or two. Most of these large houses are somewhat expensive—$5 a day and upwards is the usual rate—but they seem to be all filled up with guests just the same. Some hotels however at $10 and $15 a week are really quite comfortable and suit those of limited means much better. Many of the smaller hotels have no licensed bar and do not furnish liquors in any way. Guests however may provide their own liquors for table use and they are allowed to keep them on the premises for such purposes only. Do not imagine San Antonio is a "dry" town; nothing of the kind. It is still very much in the grip of the saloon. I was credibly informed by certain worthy citizens that there were at least 500 saloons in the city!

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr Alf. Noble left Tuesday for High River, Alta. Mrs Geo. Noble left on Tuesday to visit Toronto friends for a few days. Mr and Mrs Fred McClocklin of Fiesherston, visited friends in town lately. Miss Patton, of Priceville, was the guest of Miss Margaret Grant over Sunday. Mr Keith Newton, of the S. P. S., Toronto, visited his father, here for a few days last week. Mr Fred Ritchie left Monday for Arthur where he has secured a position in a Dry Goods Store. Miss O'Donoghue, milliner with Miss Duck last year is with Mr McFarland of Markdale this season. Messrs. Wm Young and Jas. Gray left Monday to serve on the jury at the Spring Assizes in Owen Sound. Rev. Dr. Farquharson is in Toronto this week in connection with important Home Mission Committee work. Mr Jamieson, buyer for the T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, paid a flying visit to his parents at the Parsonage over Sunday. Mr J. W. Crawford arrived at his Durham home on Friday last, and after a week or two here will return to the west. Mrs Chas. Brown went to Hamilton Thursday to nurse her daughter, Mrs Harding, who is ill with inflammatory rheumatism. Miss Marion Gun returned home from Toronto last Friday, and since, we are pleased to report, has greatly improved in health. Mrs Milburn, north of Durham, who returned from Fergus hospital recently, is not improving as her friends could wish. Mr Hugh MacKay has been under the doctor's care for some time back. Weak heart the trouble. Hope to see revive with spring weather. Miss Annie Weir, of Fergus Hospital, paid a brief visit to home and friends here over the week end and looks as if nursing agreed with her. Mr Shirley McIntyre left on Tuesday for Cobalt, where he has an interest in a property he intends realizing on. Mr Ted McClocklin accompanied him. Mr Joseph Lindsay, of West Superior, Wisconsin, paid a brief visit to his brother Robert and other friends. He was accompanied by his wife, and looks as hale and stalwart as ever. Mr Rev McLenan, of Walkerton, was in town on Tuesday accompanied by Mr Duncan McKinnon, one of the members of his Mulock congregation. Pleasied to meet the reverend gentleman. Mr Alex McCorrick returned Tuesday to the Soo, where he has a good situation in the pulp mill. His sister, Miss Kate, went as far as Toronto with him, where she will visit a few days.

DIED.

RYAN.—In Durham, on Sunday, March 14, 1903, Curtis Griffith, beloved son of Mr and Mrs Wm. Ryan, aged 5 years, 10 months, 4 days.

Hymenal

Stoney Creek, the beautiful farm home of Mr and Mrs D. Leith, Normanby, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, March 10th, when their only daughter Alma, was united in the Holy Bonds of matrimony to Mr Samuel Koenig of Normanby. Exactly at five o'clock the bride entered the drawing room to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Ella Renton of Dromore and took her place beside the groom. Miss Renton then sang the wedding hymn after which Rev. Mr Kenall the bride's pastor performed the ceremony. The groom was ably assisted through the trying ordeal by Mr John Leith brother of the bride while Miss Adeline Koenig attended the bride. Little Miss Juan Moffat was flower girl and did her part well. The bride looked pretty dressed in white net over silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations while the bridesmaid wore lace over satin with a cream skirt. The bride's travelling suit was brown with a large picture hat to match. After hearty congratulations and all good wishes to the happy couple the guests who numbered eighty-five repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous wedding supper was served. Justice being done to all the good things provided the evening was spent in games and music. The Ayton Choir favored the company with some very fine selections as did also Mr McLean and Mr James Walcott. The presents were numerous and costly among them being a handsome dinner set from Mr and Mrs John Bocka, Toronto besides several checks from friends at a distance. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful set of furs. Those present from a distance were the groom's parents Mr and Mr Koenig, Ayton, Mrs Spaha, Chifford, Miss Emma Koenig, Ayton, Miss Mary Johnson, Atwood, Mrs Gillies, Buffalo, Mr McLean, South Dakota, Mr Arthur Preston, Manager of the Traders Bank, Durham, Mr Will Brown, Mulock, Miss Alice and Mr Peter Ramage, Durham besides a number of friends from Ayton and Dromore. Mr and Mrs Koenig who are of good families and highly respected will start life together on the fourteenth concession, Normanby, carrying with them best wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy wedded life. In these good wishes the REVIEW joins most heartily.

On the eve of his departure for the West, Mr Cecil Legate, recently of the Standard Bank here, was given a pleasant surprise at his home at Ceylon on Thursday evening last, when Rev. G. C. Little and a good representation of the Presbyterian Guild, of which Mr Legate was an active member, assembled and presented him with a leather-bound teacher's Bible accompanied by an appropriate address. Though completely surprised, Cecil had sufficient composure to reply, neatly thanking the donors for their kindly remembrance and much appreciated gift.—Fiesherston cor., Standard.
